French Bomb Assurance Is Disclosed

Promise Says Won't Detonate Immediately

CHICAGO (AP) — The French government provided assurance that it would not detonate its first atomic bomb until U. S. cosmic ray tests in the Carribean were completed, the University of Chicago disclosed Saturday.

Disclosure of the French guarantee was coincidental with the death earlier Saturday of Dr. Marcel Schein, the Chicago scientist who directed the Carribean tests — Operation Skyhook—last month. Events leading to the French assurances were detailed in University of Chicago reports, a bimonthly magazine.

The article said the noninterference agreement was obtained after an exchange between the University of Chicago physicist, a world authority on cosmic rays, and Dr. Francis Perrin, high commissioner of the French atomic energy commission.

BALLOONS

During Operation Skyhook, U.S. Navy scientists, under Schein's direction, launched two huge balloons carrying radiosensitive film to 22 miles over the Carribean. The purpose was to get information on high energy cosmic rays—nuclear particles racing through the upper atmosphere.

While test arrangements were being completed, the article said, Schein wrote Perrin asking for help in avoiding "possible interference" between Jan. 23 and Feb. 5, the period of Skyhook.

"There would be no end to the complications if our plates (films) should be badly fogged by atomic radiations," he told Perrin in the Dec. 18 letter.

A month later, not having heard from Perrin, Dr. Schein sent him another urgent appeal — a telephoned cable message from a pay phone on a pier in Norfolk, Va. Schein left next morning for the Carribean aboard the aircraft carrier, USS Valley Forge.

A day later, the magazine article said, a telegram reached the university department in charge of special scientific programs. The cable in French, signed "Perrin—Energat—Paris," said:

Ouachita River Channel Project Urged By Board

Recommendation for a nine-foot navigation channel in the Ouachita River was given by the Board of Engineers, for Rivers and Harbors in Washington, it was announced yesterday.

The engineer board recommended that the administration seek congressional authority to spend $13,550,000 on improvement of the Red River below Fulton, Ark., and the Ouachita - Black rivers below Camden, Ark.

The channel project, which calls for explanation of four present locks and dams on the river, must go to the Chief of engineers for approval, and from there to state offices of Louisiana and Arkansas for consideration.

Final approval must be made by Congress.

DISTANT

Completion of the nine - foot channel is "several years off, even under the most favorable and optimistic circumstances," Congressman Otto E. Passman said in a statement issued from Washington.

He explained that in addition to the estimated cost by the engineers, local interests would be required to contribute $1,440,000 to the work.

"This project is too important to use for the purpose of playing politics," Passman commented, "so it is well for it to be understood that even with the most optimistic views, it is likely that the earliest time at which funds can possibly be obtained to initiate the program, if authorized, will be in 1961 or 1962, and no doubt it will require several years to bring the project to completion.

The project calls for two 600-foot locks to take the place of the

Popularity Test Tour Is Planned

Starting from Paris Wednesday he will spend four days touring four departments countries of south central France by automobile and special train. He will wind up his trip Sunday in Montpellier.

The tour -- his sixth in the provinces since becoming president 13 months ago — will enable him to conduct a personal sounding of public opinion.

PLANNED

The trip was planned for earlier this month but was postponed when the Algiers crisis arose.

Now De Gaulle seems to have that situation well in hand. About 20 alleged ringleaders are jailed in Paris awaiting trial for plotting against him. More are on bail or being hunted by police.

The army, some of whose officers wavered in loyalty, has been shaken up and sent back to fighting the Moslem rebels. A few generals and colonels, removed from command, have been reassigned to provincial towns in France.

The civilian administration, long under virtual military control, is in business again with appointment of eight new regional governors — among them a Moslem, the first ever to hold such a post in Algeria.

Plans have been made for a quicker rotation of officials between Algeria nd France to prevent them from being influenced by extreme rightists in Algiers.

But, if the Algerian crisis seems momentarily under control, the president may run into some hostility from the peasants. Much of his trip is through farming and wine - growing country where angry farmers may seek to bring their grievances directly to him.

BODY FOUND AT DUMP

Youth, 17, Admits Bludgeoning Girl

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The battered body of a junior high school coed was found Saturday in a bottomlands dump and police say her 17-year-old date has admitted killing her.

The body of red-haired Carol Arlene Feathers, 14, was found face down, her skull fractured. Her coat, a wallet and a blood-stained stick were found beside her.

One hour after the girl's mother identified the body, police arrested Jerry Lynn Blakenship an said he admitted orally that he bludgeoned the girl when she resisted his advances. ..

JAIL

Blankenship was turned over to deputy C. M. Rieves of Crittenden County, Ark., who took him to the county jail at Marion. Sheriff Cecil Goodwin said no charges have been filed.

Inspector W. W. Wilkinson, chief of the Memphis homicide department, said Blakenship drove the girl to the deserted site near the Memphis - Arkansas bridge about 4 a.m.

They got into a fight, Wilkinson said, and continued to fight outside the car.

Ike Protects Tobacco Mart

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Saturday approved a bill designed to protect tobacco markets by slowing the upward climb in federal price supports.

Under the bill, backed by all major farm organizations, and tobacco - state lawmakers, government supports for the 1960 crop will be set at the same level in effect in 1959.

SUNKEN CAESAREA

Biblical Harbor To Be Explored

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ancient, sunken harbor of Caesarea, developed by King Herod the Great and frequently mentioned in the New Testament, is to be explored by deep sea divers.

The American-Israel Society and the Princeton Theological Seminary announced Saturday they will sponsor an expedition this spring to explore the coastal waters of Israel, with special emphasis on Caesarea.

This ancient city, and its more famous port, needs a little explanation now, but it didn't when the Bible was being written.

There are such passages as these in the Acts of the Apostles: "But Philip was found at Azotus: And passing through he preached in all the cities, till he came to Caesarea."

"And the next day we that were of Paul's company departed, and came unto Caesarea."

"And on the morrow Peter went away with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him. And on the morrow they entered into Caesarea."

The city had fine palaces, a tempie, a hippodrome and aqueducts. It still exists, but only as a town of about 700 population, 55 miles northwest of Jerusalem.

Caesarea Harbor was even more renowned than the city itself. One early reporter said it was "free always from the waves of the sea."

Plan Slated To Provide Tax Break

Self-Employed People Would Get Benefit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The treasury is drafting a plan to provide a tax break for selfemployed persons to help them save funds for retirement, authoritative sources disclosed Saturday.

The plan will be presented soon to senators as an acceptable—or at least less objectionable—alternative to a House - passed bill adamantly opposed by the administration.

The Senate is being subjected to tremendous political pressure to grant special tax relief to the self - employed. The Treasury's action reflects belief that some such legislation is likely to reach the White House this year.

VETO

If so, President Eisenhower's political and tax advisers would like it to be a bill that he can sign. A veto could have wide political repercussions in an election year.

The House - passed bill would give a tax break to an estimated 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 self - employed, including lawyers, doctors, dentists, farmers, shopkeepers and small businessmen who don't have the advantage of company pension plans.

They would be permitted to defer payment of income taxes on amounts ranging up to 10 per cent of their income which they voluntarily place in retirement funds each year.

The Treasury plan would exact

Senator Lashes At Commission On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (Special) — Sen. Russell B. Long (d) La., lashed out at the Civil Rights Commission yesterday for criticizing Louisiana "without really having any contact with reality."

Long said in a prepared radio talk that the commission issued a report charging widespread violations of civil rights in Louisiana even though its attempted investigation was blocked by a federal court order in Shreveport.

"The commission didn't achieve much of anything," Long said, "They might as well have stayed home and written a letter down there and asked the local newspaper reporter to mail them some information."

PRESUMING

Long asserted that the commission went to Shreveport last July presuming that they were a little Hitler" and tried to subpoena record books of registrars living as far as 250 miles away.

When the commission also refused to permit the registrars to confront Negroes who accused them of discrimination, Long said, it ran afoul of federal law.

A decision on whether the commission can conduct the hearings is planned for Shreveport is pending before the Supreme Court. Long said the court would have to stultify itself to hold that they had a right to put people on trial and take all sorts of adverse testimony without them having a right to know what they are accused of."

The senator said northern legislators are producing a "great deal of misinformation" about

Monroe Man Faces Trial For Murder

JASPER, Ala. (AP) -- William J. Kennedy, a 34-year-old Monroe, La., pipe line worker, goes on trial for murder Monday in the poison death of his former sweetheart's son.

Kennedy, married and the father of three children, has denied any part in the death of 11-year-old Billy Holt in December, 1958.

He is charged with first-degree murder and has been free on $5,000 bond since a Walker County grand jury indicted him last spring.

MOTHER

The boy's mother, Mrs. Ruby Dean Holt, was convicted of second- degree murder in the case last April 30 and is serving a 10-year prison term.

Mrs. Holt recently was given a sanity test and declared sane.

She was transferred from Julia Tutwiler prison near Montgomery to the Walker County jail here last week.

Circuit solicitor Leon Beaird said he expects her to testify in Kennedy's trial.

Kennedy has said little about the case except to plead innocent.

Mrs. Holt claimed in statements introduced at her trial that Kennedy gave her medicine for her ill son which later was found to be poison.

Medical records indicate the boy first became ill in August, 1958.

Beaird said the child was treated at Jasper and at a Birmingham hospital and that Mrs. Holt was told he apparently had received arsenic in some manner.

The child was readmitted to a Birmingham hospital Dec. 4, 1958 and died a few hours later.

Beaird said an autopsy revealed arsenic in his system.

TO PREVENT LOGJAM

Rights Battle Breather Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders indicated Saturday the Senate will be asked to break off its civil rights battle from time to time to pass appropriation bills and possibly other measures.

"I think it's generally understood that procedure will be followed," Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), the assistant majority leader, told newsmen.

Chairman Carl Hayden (D-Ariz) of the Senate Appropriations Committee said in a separate interview he favors this course to prevent a logjam on money bills from developing.

The Senate civil rights struggle, started last Monday, is expected to last several weeks.

EXPECTS

Hayden said he expects his committee to finish work Monday on the Commerce Department appropriation bill and in the near future on three other money measures.

The civil rights legislation would not be imperiled if it were put aside for appropriation bills, Hayden said.

He said work on money measures must go forward if Congress is to adjourn in time for the national political conventions. The Democratic convention in Los Angeles opens July 11.

Mansfield said this procedure should be acceptable to Southern opponents of civil rights measures "because it would fit in with any delaying tactics" of theirs.

Indications are that Senate Democratic leaders hope to hold off action until the House passes a civil rights bill and then have the Senate approve the House measure and send it directly to President Eisenhower for his signature.

The way was cleared this week for the House to start action on March 10, but it is expected to be at least several weeks before the House acts on a civil rights bill.

Mardi Gras Madness Here Once Again

NEW ORLEANS (AP)

It happens every year and you can call it many things Mardi Gras madness. Carnival or just an old-time fling. But in any case, it returns again Sunday when the first Carnival parades take to the streets.

Actually, a small neighborhood krewe in suburban Metairie got the show on the road Saturday with its procession, but for all practical purposes, the Sunday parades of Carrollton, Alla and Okeanos are the real kickoff.

Like all roads leading to Rome, all the excitement of the next nine days points to March 1, Mardi Gras. The city "that care forgot" forgets just about everything but fun on Mardi Gras, and there's little limit to that.

FUN SEEKERS

The funseekers, many coming from all parts of the nation and some from distant lands, will be treated to 21 parades with little letup between Sunday and mid-morning on Mardi Gras when Rex, King of Carnival, starts his shortlived reign. At midnight, the penitential season of Lent begins and the fun's over.

You have to see New Orleans Carnival to believe it. There's nothing quite like it although other cities like Mobile, Ala., and Baton Rouge, La., have such celebrations on a lesser scale. And the

'LADY BE GOOD'

Diary Outlines Feelings Of Crew

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)— "No hope yet, very cold night." That's the dispairing final notation in a diary covering the Libyan Desert trek of the crew of the U.S. B24 bomber "Lady Be Good."

That was eight days after they ran out of gas and took to their parachutes. They were returning to North Africa from an attack on Naples, Italy, their first combat mission of World War II.

The bombardier, 2nd Lt. John S. Woravka of Cleveland, apparently was lost during the jump. The others reassembled and hiked north toward the Mediterranean, nearly 500 miles away, in hopes of reaching their base at Solukh Field, Libya.

Toner, a blond, 26-year-old former garageman and car salesman, told of prayer and courage in a battle against the elements—thirst they could quench with only about a thimbleful of water a day, desert glare and blistering heat by day, near-freezing cold by night.

The Air Force released the diary Saturday:

"Sunday, Apr. 4, Naples — 28 planes — things well mixed up—

18 Deaths Blamed On Icy Weather

By The Associated Press

A staggering onslaught of snow — reinforced by bone — chilling winds — kept portions of the East paralyzed Saturday while a new storm pasted the central plains and rolled northeastward.

Hundreds of motorists remained stranded on the New York State Thruway from Syracuse to Buffalo. Gale-force winds scooped more than two feet of snow into 15-foot drifts.

The storm which rolled across the South at midweek and then punched northward along the Atlantic seaboard buried vast sections of Upstate New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

18 DEATHS

At least 18 deaths as a result of the storm were reported in five states.

Traffic over the normally busy Pennsylvania Turnpike was tied up nearly 36 hours before men and machines won a battle against snow and wind. Parts of the big superhighway were closed for 185 miles until traffic began moving Saturday evening. One stretch had been closed since Thursday night.

Snow up to three feet swamped the western slopes of the Allegheny Mountains, and drifts topped 10 feet in many places. Motels, restaurants and churches were places of refuge for thousands of motorists.

More than 300 persons crammed into a small restaurant at Somerset, Pa., along the turnpike. They played cards, slept, read magazines, drank coffee—and even offered to help wash the dishes.

Aside from the thruway, other main roads in storm-raked areas of New York State were either closed or open only to one-way

One Killed, Ten Injured In Explosion

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — An explosion in a chemical plant at lunch hour Saturday injured 11 persons, twisted steel girders like pretzels and blew out brick walls. One of the injured later died.

One workman on the roof of the Diamond Alkali Co. factory was blown into the air but landed unhurt. Two of those injured were in serious condition. One was John Burton, of Cranford, the plant manager.

CREW

A skeleton crew of 18 was on duty in the two-story brick factory, which employs 90 on a regular working day. Just before noon, most of the men strolled to an adjacent building to prepare for lunch.

Thirty seconds later, the explosion bellowed from a 6x15-foot autoclave — a pressure-heat machine.

A company spokesman said a safety device on the autoclave apparently failed. The firm makes weed killers and agricultural chemicals.

The dead man was identified as Anthony Castelli of Moonachie. He died of a crushed chest at a hospital where eight of the injured were taken.

A fireman, Joseph C. Palmisano, 36, was in satisfactory condition. He was hit on the head by flying debris.

The explosion ripped clothing from the workers and tore a huge hole in the walls of the factory. Rubble showered over the floor and outside. All the windows blew out.

a price for the tax relief that many of the self - employed probably would not be willing to pay. It would deny the benefits to any self - employed person who has employes and does not provide them with a pension plan. The House-passed bill contains no such restriction.

Chief argument advanced for tax - subsidized retirement for the self - employed is that 18,000,000 employes with company-financed pension plans already are enjoying this benefit. These include high - salaried corporation executives.

Employers now can deduct as a business expense from taxable income contributions made to pension programs for their employes. The employe doesn't have to pay income taxes on the pension funds until he actually withdraws the money.

Self - employed persons, however, cannot enjoy this advantage unless their business is incorporated. In that case, they can, as a salaried employe, provide themselves with a pension as long as they do so for other employes and the pension plan isn't discriminatory.

traffic. All forms of public transportation were snarled.

Tow-trucks struggled to move abandoned vehicles to clear the way for plows along the snow-clogged thruway. State troopers counted 90 tractor-trailers, 300 passenger cars and 6 buses abandoned on a one-mile stretch south of Rochester.

To the south, Maryland was given its worst wintry pounding in two dozen years as up to 31 inches of snow covered mountains in western counties of the state.

Relief was seen Saturday afternoon when the winds which had hit 50 to 60 miles an hour over sections of New York and Pennsylvania began tapering off. Temperatures across the storm area were generally below freezing.

The western storm hurled a 6-inch snow blanket across portions of Kansas and menaced traffic with slickened highways. Hazardous driving conditions were predicted for eastern Colorado, the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles and south-central Nebraska.

Heavy snow was expected to extend northeastward across the Middle Mississippi Valley and into the Great Lakes region by Sunday. The Weather Bureau said it would miss the South, which was swept by two severe winter storms in a week.

He added that he was issuing a word of caution so that industry and those engaged in free enterprise would not be hasty in formulating plans and establishing businesses on the strength of the proposed nine-foot channel.

Mardi Gras Madness Here Once Again

Almost everyone has a chance to get in on the official Carnival fun. The krewes that stage the parades and their accompanying balls are composed of the very wealthy to the guy that sells suits for a living.

The parades, of course, are for everyone with kids from six to 106 crying "throw me something, mister," to the maskers on the floats. The trinkets tossed are almost worthless, but they are considered priceless Carnival mementos.

The Carnival balls are a bit different with admission by invitation only, and ducats to some of them are as rare as 50-yard line tickets for the Sugar Bowl game.

Only the krewe may take part in the tableau which may have as its theme a biblical motif or the Nutcracker Suite. The maskers' dances follow the tableau and ladies, or men in the case of a women's organization, who are asked to dance with a krewe member again receive a gift. These gifts, or favors, may be worth as much as $25 or even higher.

But for John Q. Citizen, the parades are his dish, and he will risk life and limb to grab the trifles tossed from the floats.

An when a half-million people jam Canal Street on Mardi Gras, well, you just have to see it to believe it.

cil at Ouachita Parish High school. After careful screening by the faculty, they picked three for this role. Freshman, sophomore and junior classes are represented in the role of Good Citizens.

Glenda Hart, member of the Student Council, a former Lionette and treasurer of the B.B.L.A., was chosen to represent the junior class. Danny Tousinau, sophomore, and Jack Trimble, freshman, member of the football team and student council, were elected to represent their respective classes.

Each home room nominated a student for Good Citizen. The Student Council and faculty then screened the list and checked leadership, services and scholarship as essential requirements. A list was then presented to each class to vote for the one Good Citizen.

Senator Lashes At Commission On Civil Rights

the south during the current civil rights debate in congress.

CITED

He cited a statement by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd (D) Conn., claiming that Louisiana state senator Willie Rainach was trying to reduce the number of registered Negroes in Louisiana from 130,000 to 13,000.

Long said there were 160,000 colored voters registered in Louisiana, or 16 times as many as when he first ran for the senate 11 years ago.

The senator also denounced the administration's plan to allow federal judges to appoint referees to supervise local elections wherever the judge finds evidence of discrimination.

"As I understand it," Long said, "that local referree is supposed to go look up colored folks and urge them to apply and then see that they are put on the rolls . . . even down to going into the voting booth with them."

"We don't like this second reconstruction era," he said.

First street cars in New York City in 1832 had granite ties to support rails. They proved to be too noisy. Wooden ties were substituted.

Leadership Fraternity Given Okay

A local leadership fraternity at Northeast Louisiana State College has been approved as a chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, the foremost collegiate leadership organization in the country.

The Gold Key Leadership Fraternity, organized at Northeast four years ago, will officially become a "circle" of ODK March 1. ODK is a naitonal leadership honor society for college men.

Word of the acceptance of the Northeast group has been received from Dr. Robert W. Bishop of the University of Cincinnati, national secretary of ODK's General Council.

The approval follows a petition to ODK last spring and a visit to Northeast by Bishop.

Northeast's ODK circle will be the fifth in the state. Others are at Louisiana State University, Tulane, Centenary College and Louisiana Tech.

PROVINCE

Louisiana is a part of ODK's Province 5, which also takes in Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee.

Bishop, who is also editor of ODK's news magazine, the Circle, will be in Monroe March 1 to present the Gold Key group its ODK charter. Officers will be installed by Robert B. Ellis, registrar at the University of Mississippi and deputy of Province 5.

While in Monroe last spring, Bishop met with the faculty members of Gold Key —John Luffey, assistant professor of business administration and faculty sponsor; President George T. Walker; Edward C. Whatley, associate professor of biology; Dr. Eugene T. Holtzclaw, dean of education; Dr. William R. Hammond, dean of liberal arts; and basketball coach Lenny Fant.

Present members of Gold Key plus active alumni will become members of ODK. Twenty-seven persons will become charter members of the group.

First Major Russian Film Is Released

Regular movie - goers in the U. S. will soon see the greatest film epic ever produced in Russia, according to announcement made recently by Sig Shore, president of Vitalite Film Corp., who have contracted to release the picture in this country.

Titled "The Sword and the Dragon," the picture was completed two years ago by Russia's foremost film producing company, and is the biggest motion picture ever attempted in that country from the standpoint of cast — which is in excess of a hundred thousand — and budget — which is the equivalent of ten million dollars.

The picture was selected by Shore after screening scores of recently made Russian pictures. "Generally, Russian made pictures are titled in English over Russian dialogue and are shown in so - called art houses to very limited audiences," Shore said in making the announcement. "In making this selection I was looking for a top audience picture, a picture that could play any theatre in America and one with all the elements that constitute top motion picture entertainment by our standards."

"The Sword and the Dragon" is just such a picture. It is spoken entirely in English and is produced in extreme wide-screen, color and in Stereophonic sound," Shore aded.

Three years went into the research, costumes and sets for the picture, which is truly heroic in concept. There are scenes in which more than 50,000 actors and 11,000 horses traverse the entire width of the mighty screen. These are not optical illusions or tricks of the camera, but are the biggest scenes ever photographed for a motion picture, anywhere.

Release of "The Sword and the Dragon" comes as a result of the accord reached last year between the U. S. and Russia calling for an exchange of recently made motion pictures. This agrument, arrived at by the cultural affairs officials of both governments, is a true milestone in international understanding marking the first free exchange of motion pictures between both our countries.

All the major U. S. film studios and releasing organizations have each selected one or several Russian made pictures for release to their theatres and circuits under this agreement.

"The Sword and the Dragon" will be the first of these to go into general distribution in the U. S. alongside the regular Hollywood - made product.

BROADWAY SEASON

Veteran Showman Sighs At Results

NEW YORK (AP)—The veteran showman sighed.

"The Broadway season seems to have collapsed almost completely," he said.

Such opinion is common these days along the White Way. Critics brokers, producers concur that the new show crop so far is sub-par in quality, variety and appeal.

Now at the midway mark, the 1959-60 Broadway year has tallied this score: 28 openings and 16 closings, with 8 of the remaining 12 likely box-office payoffs.

Five other big projects were withdrawn during tryout tour. Two were particularly significant. For the first time in their hit-making careers both Paul Gregory and David Merrick called off undertakings during a warmup tour: "The Pink Jungle" and 'Juniper and the Pagans."

This pair of retreats meant that every one of Broadway's major impresarios has been tinged with flop blight in a season that thus far has lost investors about $2,100,000.

Lawrence Langner, the Theater Guild founder who regards the season as being in a state of almost complete collapse, comments: "It all emphasizes the growing difference between theater tastes in New York and the rest of the country.

"A whole series of productions in the past several years have done well out of town, only to fold immediately here.

"It is not only the critics here, but many things. The growing popularity of benefit parties has made it difficult to produce without stars. Many shows are running, not because the audience likes the play but because it likes the star."

Roger Stevens, one of the busiest producers, sees the output "a little off" but finds no particular reason.

"The public mood has changed" he comments. "It is waiting for something different. But what it is no one knows. People just are not very interested in the expectable."

Stevens and the others agree that the downbeat results so far are on reason for alarm.

Tech Business Group Initiates More Members

RUSTON (Special) Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity at Louisiana Tech, has initiated 16 undergraduates and three faculty members. They were; Joe Atkins, Bastrop; Frank Betts, Shreveport; Louis Bufkin, Ruston; Thomas Daugherty, Shreveport; John Domminick, Vienna; James Frantz, Shreveport; John Glaze, Minden; William Hassell, Winnsboro.

After the initiation, the chapter held its initiation banquet in the Student Center. The speaker was Gayle Wells, an alumnus of the chapter. Joe Akins was named honor pledge and was presented a special pearl-encrusted badge. A cuff-link and tie-clasp set was presented to outgoing president Donald Craig.

JACKSON HOLE WINTER

Famed Outlaw Hideout Changed Little In Era

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — The first big storm had swirled in over the Tetons two weeks before. More than a foot of frothy snow covered the valley.

Elk moved down from the high country in search of food, coyotes held mournful debates at night and trappers set lines along the Snake River bottoms. Winter had moved in for a long stay in the remote northwest corner of Wyoming.

This is the Jackson Hole country of today, little changed from more than a century ago when the mountain men came down to hole up for the winter—and lend a name to the region.

In this spectacular country of towering peaks, abundant wildlife and hardy people, Jackson's 1,700 residents smile tolerantly at a flatlander's suggestion that God and progress forget them with the approach of winter.

Four and five - foot snowdrifts aren't uncommon. Water pipes freeze, coyotes raid herds of sheep and school for some youngsters is a 90-mile round trip. Big city shopping is available at Idaho Falls, Idaho, 100 miles and one 8,429-foot pass distant—when the snowplows have carved paths through the drifts.

For those in need of man-made entertainment, there is one theater, one television channel, four bars. For the faithful, five churches. For the ailing, two dentists (man and wife), two physicians.

In the warmth of an old Franklin stove in the living room of his home, artist Grant Hagen pulls on his pipe and tells about life in the Jackson Hole country.

"This valley is full of great people, people who haven't lost their identity. The town of Jackson itself isn't especially noteworthy; it could be built anywhere. It's the country around us that cannot be reproduced. It helps us to relate ourselves to that which is in natural perspective.

"Out here," says Hagen, "we don't live by our own rules. We live by standards which can't be manufactured or controlled."

Betty Michel 23, is a pretty Utah-born waitress in McGee's cafe. She is 5-feet-2, weighs 118 pounds. Winter before last, she hiked alone up Teton Pass and stalked and shot a 750 - pound moose, then dressed out the carcass.

Dr. Donald MacLeod has reason to be bitter at this stern country. He lost his only son when a snowslide engulfed the boy. But today, 14 years later, Dr. MacLeod is more dedicated than ever to the country and his fellow townsmen.

Hardship and violence are never far away in Jackson during the white months, yet they are a catalyst that binds the people more closely to their country.

Grocer Bud Walters, once a highway department employe, recalls that his rotary plow chewed through 300 separate snowslides in the area a few winters ago. Teton County's first superintendent of schools, Martha Marean, visited outlying schools by ski and snowshoe. Now and then an unwary skier dies or is injured. The majestic Tetons for years have lured climbers to their deaths.

Nor are the animals immune. Out on the National Elk Refuge, where up to 15,000 animals are provided winter feed by the government, Manager Ernest J. Greenwalt tells visitors that the handsome elk once starved by the thousands.

Hunting represents a substantial part of Jackson's winter economy, but townsfolk nurture a love for wildlife that transcends its income potential. Ranchers who live up the canyons often are called on to lend first aid to injured big game animals.

If Jackson has a dual personality, it is because of the town's dependence on tourist income. Last summer, 1½ million persons swarmed through the community on their way to Grand Teton and Yellowstone National Parks to the north.

But once the tourists and anglers and hunters leave, Jackson reverts to its chosen pace of leisure. Gum-chewing, levi-clad Floy Tonkin again finds time to write her weekly column of chatter in the Jackson Hole Guide; Drs. MacLeod and W. W. Elmore work only 8 hours a day instead of the 16 hours demanded by the summer population; Alva Richins and 60 others like him crank up their snowplanes—peculiar vehicles fitted with skis and pusher-type aircraft engines that speed over ice and snow at speeds up to 125 m.p.h.

They seek the lonely shores of Jackson Lake and cut holes in ice that sometimes freezes four feet deep. From such a hole a couple of winters ago one local angler pulled a mackinaw trout weighing 32 pounds.

The folks in Jackson ski, skate and play ice hockey. They play cards, see movies and hold a square dance once a week. The most frequent complaint is that from housewives who are victims of "cabin fever"—but a fishing trip or a session on skis usually provides quick relief.

Most Jacksonites are happy with things as they are. They're pleased to list the town's residents by name and not by total number, although it was not always this way.

As a prospective community back in 1914, civic leaders found they needed 150 residents to incorporate. They drew the city limits as broadly as possible, but came up one person short of the required number.

"We looked around and finally found a rancher's wife who was pregnant," recalls Dick Winger, retired businessman and one of the founders. "By the time all the red tape was done with, we had our 150th resident and we were in business as a town."

Negro Airman Killed After Holdup Try

BILOXI, Miss., (UPI) — A white service station attendant shot and killed a Negro airman early yesterday after he attempted a holdup without a gun.

Griffin was held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

A coroner's jury said Mays' death resulted from "a 20 gauge shotgun in the hands of Ora M. Griffin by attempting a holdup." The jury did not rule on whether or not the homicide was justified.

Griffin told police that Mays entered the station he was attending about 4:30 a.m. while Griffin was checking the cash register. Another attendant coming on duty was in the wash room.

Griffin said Mays had his hand in his pocket as if holding a gun and announced, "this is a holdup."

The other attendant heard him and emerged from the washroom. Mays turned and fled, the men said.

Police said Mays did not have a gun.

Officers said their investigation was continuing.

'MUSTER DAY'

National Guard Slates Display

The display will be held from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

"Muster Day" is being observed in connection with Washington's birthday by the Army and Air National Guard units throughout the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. Some 470,000 Guardsmen will conduct celebrations to honor the first president, who was a colonel in the Virginia Militia.

ON DISPLAY

On display at the Central School will be an army sedan, quarter-ton truck (jeep) with radio, three - quarter - ton truck (weapons carrier), M-75 armored personnel carrier, two and one-half ton truck and a five-ton wrecker.

Members of the battalion will be on hand to explain the workings of the various units, Major James L. Roberts, commanding officer, said.

The battalion, prior to July 1 last year, was an infantry unit, but has since been changed to transportation. Before the change, it was known as the third battalion of the 199th infantry division. Now it is officially designated the 539th Transportation Battalion.

Earlier this week, the mayors of the Twin Cities, along with Governor Earl K. Long, officially proclaimed Monday as "National Guard Muster Day in tribute to the officers and men of the National Guard who stand ready to serve ... in any emergency."

Thursday several officials, including Sheriff Bailey Grant, Mayor W. L. Howard and Mayor J. Allan Norris of Monroe and West Monroe, Commissioner of Finance and Utilities H. W. McSherry, were on hand at Selman Field for a demonstration of the M-75 armored carrier, one of the larger units to be on display. The carrier, displacing approximately 13 tons, will carry seven to 12 men in addition to a driver and observer. Taking turns at driving the vehicle were Mayor Howard and Sheriff Grant, both of whom were impressed with its maneuverability.

Although the Guard recognizes Washington's Birthday as Muster Day, it actually traces its foundings back long before Washington. The 101st Engineer Battalion and the 182nd Infantry of Massachusetts were organized in 1636 — nearly 100 years before Washington's birth. The Puerto Rico National Guard traces its history back to the year 1510.

Lawsuits Set Here Totaled At $111,061

The local stage is set for trial of four separate lawsuits, involving a water well, car wrecks and personal injury, and asking a total of $111,061.43.

All four suits were filed with the Ouachita Parish Clerk of Court.

Alvin Tucker, 41 of Ouachita Parish filed the largest suit — $73,424 — against Phoenix Assurance Co. of New York, which insured Ballards Inc. of Monroe.

Tucker says that he was injured while helping construct a dormitory at Grambling college on Feb. 23, 1959.

He says that Charles Dean, employed by Ballards, dropped a large stilson wrench from a scafford, and it hit Tucker on the head and neck disabling him.

PENDING

Russell A. Price of Monroe, Health Unit employee, and the Houston Fire and Casualty Insurance Co. of Ft. Worth filed the suit.

Price says that he slipped on grease at the Firestone Store, corner of Third and Washington Streets, on Feb. 24, 1959, fell, suffered a severe leg fracture, and is 15 per cent disabled.

A water well is the subject of a $10,850 suit filed by Mrs. Minnie Payne of Ouachita Parish and Webster Andrew Coon, Rapides parish, against Pan American Petroleum Corp.

Mrs. Payne says that seismic exploration explosions set off on her land by a Pan-American crew in June, 1959, caused sand and water veins to shift.

PRODUCTION

The well dropped from production of 500 gallons of clear water per hour to 100 gallons of muddy water per hour on March 15, 1959, due to the underground shifting, the suit maintains.

The suit charges breach of contract, and claims that G. E. Nightingale representing the oil firm said no damage would be done. It also says he promised to repair any damages caused by the explosions. This is the second such suit filed within two weeks by separate landowners.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Wayne Tanner ask $5,425 damages in the final suit.

They say that Mrs. Tanner, 21, received a neck injury when their auto was struck by another car at the corner of N. Seventh and Mill Streets in West Monroe on Nov. 15, 1959.

Bar Car Toast Of Railroad

NEW YORK (AP)— The Long Island Rail Road, once a target of abuse, now is the toast of its commuter customers—or at least as many as can crowd into its new bar car.

Spirits ran higher and higher as the 5:03 highballed it from New York to Port Jefferson late Saturday.

Passengers ordinarily risk life and limb just to get seats on the 5:03. This time they forgot the seats. The bone crushing occurred in jammed aisles as hundreds inched barward through the train.

A pint-sized portable dispensary had been established in Car 4 of the 14 coaches. It proved a staggering success.

The tiny bar was set up, for what the railroad called "a noble experiment," in response to popular demand. Heretofore, the railroad had been bone dry. Thirsting riders were forced to grab a quickie at the handiest tavern before hitting the rail trail home.

Long ago they began to develop an alcoholic inferiority complex. That was because another commuter railroad, the New Haven, ministered properly to its guzzling patrons from suburban Westchester County and Connecticut.

The Long Island's 260,000 daily riders, who make it the world's busiest passenger railroad, have gotten pretty much what they want since it was reorganized a few years ago to curb snaggled timetables, bypassed stations and trains taking off on the wrong tracks.

Thus Saturday's bar car test was held in anticipation of general institution of traveling taverns. The timetable went something like this:

4:28 p.m.—Train pulls into station for loading. Platform crowd, informed in advance that bar will be located in Car 4, begins countdown: "One . . . two . . three . . . four." Train halts. Crowd storms Car 4.

4:30 p.m. — Cosmetic salesman Robert Steinacher makes history, beating mob to bar. Lifts martini on high, declaims: "This raises us from the level of the herd to the level of a Westchester commuter."

5:03 p.m. — the 5:03 lurches to th.

5:10 p.m.—some of passengers now doing same.

5:23 p.m. — Arrives Jamaica Station. Another crowd on platform awaiting Car 4. Crowd in train shouts: "Don't open doors!"

5:42 p.m.—Scores still trying to reach bar, bar. "Mabye train will break down," hopeful comment of one.

6:32 p.m.—"Where you getting off?" one tippler asks another. "Haven't decided yet," is the reply.

7:03 p.m. — Bartender Russell Golding, a mixmaster for 24 years, totes up the score: 100 scotches at $1; 75 bourbons and an uncounted number of manhattans, martinis and beers at 50 to 75 cents. Almost no soft drinks at 15 cent.

"Never saw anything like it," said Golding.

300 Cram Into Cafe During Snow

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP)—What's it like when more than 300 snowbound travelers cram into one small restaurant?

An answer came Saturday from James Long, manager of a Howard Johnson restaurant near the Somerset interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Since a vicious snowstorm lashed the area Thursday night, the restaurant has been a haven for travelers forced to abandon their vehicles.

"I never thought strangers could get along so well as the 300 to 400 persons that jammed our place," said Long.

He said they payed cards, slept, read magazines, drank coffee or just chatted with their neighbors, "which in this case would be the persons in the next lineoleum blocks."

"People who didn't know each other from Adam played pinochle or poker," said Long. "Others slept wherever they could find a place — on the floor, on benches, on stools. Several people even caught a few winks leaning against the wall."

All walks of life were represented. There were life insurance salesmen, truck drivers, young couples, elderly couples, children and even a dog.

"The situation was not without humor," said Long. "Several vicious snorts during a snoring seige by one man brought a few hearty chuckles."

He added: "The biggest laugh came when the telephone rang three or four times about 3 a.m. and some 200 sleepy-eyed men, women and children jumped up thinking it was an alarm clock."

Of a burly truck driver, Long said: "It gave everybody a warm glow inside to watch this big guy going around tucking in the little tykes."

Waitresses scurried about warming baby bottles, serving coffee and food and cleaning up.

"There was no lack of food or coffee," said waitress Mary House. "People ate and drank in relays. We had to be on our toes to keep up with the demand."

IN TV VARIETY SHOWS

Carol Burnette Not Sure Of Greatness As Comedienne

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Garry Moore show fans may think Carol Burnett is a great comedienne. So may the viewers of top TV variety shows and the audiences at the Broadway hit, "Once Upon a Mattress."

"But I don't think of myself as a comedienne," insists the slight, red-haired young performer. "I am an actress who plays comedy.

"In the first place, I don't write my own material. Somebody writes it for me and I act it. In the second place, I'm never 'on' when I'm not working. At a party, I'm as quiet as a mouse, and I don't believe I've ever told a joke in my whole life.

"Laughter means acceptance," she says.

Now performing as a regular member of Garry Moore's professional family on CBS Tuesday night (courtesy of television tape) and clowning and singing live in a Brodaway musical, Carol gets plenty of acceptance.

Acting wasn't her childhood dream. Texas-born Carol entered the University of California at Los Angeles to study journalism. Some pals were putting on a one-act play, and they persuaded Carol to do a small comedy part.

"And the minute I heard that laughter—with me, not at me—I knew that this was for me," she recalls.

Carol immediately switched to the theater arts department and, in 1954, arrived in New York all set to become a star. At first she supported herself as a hat check girl, but soon had a job in summer stock. Then she started on TV with a ventriloquist.

Garry Moore hired her. Soon many doors began to open. She stayed for five months at the Blue Angel, a New York night club with a reputation for finding and developing bright new stars. She was tapped for guests shots on the Ed Sullivan and Dinah Shore shows.

The man who wrote her comedy material, Kenny Welch, and Carol were casting about for something new for her night club act in 1957. They had an idea there would be laughs in the idea of a teen-age girl going wild over some figure in the news. Welch wanted to pin the jokes on Khrushchev, but Carol came up with John Foster Dulles.

"It was way out," she says "but his name seemed perfect. We called it 'I Made a Fool of Myself Over John Foster Dulles,' and the audience at the Blue Angel loved it. Then I sang it on a Jack Paar show. Mr. Dulles heard it and—thank goodness—he thought it was funny, too."

The song won her a new notice and lots of publicity. In fact, the song became so closely associated with Carol that she stopped singing it.

"People were beginning to think I couldn't do anything else," she says. "I wanted a change, anyway. Those five months alone at the Blue Angel were tough. I don't like working in night clubs."

She snapped up a chance to work under George Abbott's direction in "Once Upon a Mattress," even though it was then to be a low-budget, off-Broadway show.

The show has now moved into the on - Broadway, tough ticket category.

Her parents have been dead for some time, so Carol is bringing up a 15-year-old sister, Chris, who is a student in a New Jersey private school and is home weekends and vacations.

In addition to appearing in the show daily and on TV weekly, Carol accepts an occasional extra TV job.

"All I do except work," she says, "is sleep, or try to. Right now I have to take care of seven dogs in my tiny apartment."

Pessimism Is Noted By Star Actress

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

"I felt I must do it because it was a bit out of my range—a type of role I had never done before," she declares.

Miss Tandy was basking with her husband, Hume Cronyn, on their private isle in the Bahamas when "Five Finger Exercise" offered. A hit in London, the play was being transported to New York with only one cast change. Would she take that part?

"Having John Gielgud direct very definitely was an attraction," she reports. "It could have been very trying to move in with a practiced cast. But he shook them up, and never once said to me that a particular bit of stage business had previously been done in a certain way."

Author Peter Shaffer also reworked some details, she discloses, the revision centering upon one vital scene which Miss Tandy felt "wasn't working."

After tryout tour experimentation, the final dialogue and performance was evolved two days before the Broadway premiere.

"As it turned out, it wasn't until opening night that the scene was tested on an audience," she says. "It is a good thing that it was right."

Miss Tandy is keenly aware of the press critics who settle the fate of theatrical offerings.

"When I started out in my career I read all notices," she says. "Then there came a time when I read them only after a show closed. That was because I felt that if one got a brilliant notice, one got to thinking of it and would never perform the part right again. And if someone annihilated you, it wasn't helpful.

"But now I read them all. For one reason—to see if they are going to sell tickets. I would like not to read them. What pleasure can they possibly give you if they are good personal notices but aren't going to sell tickets?"

That question is academic right now for Miss Tandy. The critical majority smiled on both show and star, and ticket trade is lively.

TOURING AMERICANS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indications are that more Americans will tour Europe by automobile next summer than ever before, says Russell E. Singer, executive vice president of the American Automobile Assn.

The AAA issued 94,000 international driving permits in 1959, he says. Early applications for 1960 permits indicate that approximately 120,000 will be issued this year, says Singer.

AAA issuance of permits in 1959 doubled the number issued in 1956 and were three times the number issued in 1955. "Americans," Singer says, "are finding that drive-yourself trips through Europe bring them the same flexibility for seeing out-of-the-way places as they enjoy at home."

TRUJILLO WON FIRST ROUND

Dictatorship Aims Blow At Challenge

Editor's Note—Morris W. Rosenberg of the AP's foreign staff returned this week from a visit to the Dominican Republic. He reports on the fight of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo to maintain his stronghanded rule in that Caribbean country.

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The longest and strongest dictatorship in Latin America is fighting a new, intensified challenge.

Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo won the first round this year in the struggle to maintain his 30-year rule of the Dominican Republic. But beneath an apparently calm surface, tension is growing and another battle appears in the offing.

In round one, Trujillo jailed an estimated 1,500 to 2,000 persons accused of conspiring to assassinate him Jan. 21 at the opening of a livestock fair. Many were released after interrogation, but Trujillo said later 127 were still imprisoned.

In four trials this month, 120 persons were sentenced to 30 years imprisonment at hard labor, the maximum legal sentence, and fines were levied totaling $600,000.

The affair disclosed the existence of an influential, widespread opposition to the Trujillo regime. Those jailed were university students, young lawyers, doctors, engineers and other professionals. Some of them were sons or relatives of government officials. Their arrest brought another powerful element into open challenge against Trujillo — the Catholic Church.

The Church issued a pastoral letter Jan. 31 denouncing a lack of human rights as "a grave offense to God." The archbishop and five bishops who signed the pastoral letter said they were sending an official request to Trujillo that "excesses be avoided."

They also sent a letter to all priests in the Republic asking them to abstain from political intervention, and to hold special prayers for the suffering. The bishops said the notice is effective until Ash Wednesday, March 2.

The pastoral letter was published only in the weekly church newspaper Fides. The newspaper itemize the following human rights mentioned in the letter: the right to life, to form a family, to work, to commerce, to a good reputation, liberty of conscience, of the press and free association.

Stung by the pastroal letter, which apparently took it by surprise, the government rushed its foreign minister to the Vatican to confer with the Pope.

Seeking to discredit the pastoral letter, the government published in the controlled press excerpts from Trujillo's past speeches, praising the role of the Church. A government spokesman reminded foreign newsmen Trujillo's regime had given millions of dollars to the Catholic Church and contributed generously to building churches and seminaries.

To counter the impression of growing opposition to Trujillo, a widely publicized campaign is urging the 68-year-old dictator to accept the presidency in the 1962 elections. His brother, Hector, now holds the office.

Trujillo has thus far kept the support of the Dominican military forces. It is difficult to assess his strength among the campesinos—peasants — and lower-class urban dwellers. They are quick to pay lip service to the man who has been their absolute ruler for 30 years. They recall his gifts of cash, houses and hospital care.

But as long as Trujillo commands the loyalty of the military it will be difficult to unseat him. Aware of that, the conspirators jailed last month apparently sought to eliminate him by assassination.

They failed, but the disclosure of a nationwide opposition in the young middle class, plus the stand taken by the church, have added elements to the Dominican scene that promise this year will be one of continuing crisis.

Indictments On Electric Firms Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—A series of federal grand jury indictments returned at Philadelphia last week, charging bid-rigging on public and private electrical equipment contracts has remifications in dozens of local communities scattered across the country.

To date, 14 companies—including General Electric and Westinghouse, the two leaders in the heavy power equipment field—have been named in the alleged bidding conspiracy.

Acting Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert A. Bicks, who heads the Justice Department's antitrust division, has made it clear the investigation is not over. He says: "Other phases of this general investigation are still in progress."

The year-long inquiry has engaged the attention of three Philadelphia grand juries, two of which continued to sit.

The return of this week's indictments, seven in all, was accomplished by the filing of companion civil antitrust suits which seek permanent injunctions against any future price-fixing or bid-collusion in the heavy electrical equipment filed.

In these suits, the government will attempt to show that bids rigged on purchase contracts awarded in 1958 and 1959 by 14 federal government agencies and by some 180 state and local governments and privately - owned utilities.

The federal agencies cited in the complaints include the Tennessee Valley Authority, Bonneville Power Administration, the Reclamation Bureau, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Atomic Energy Commission, Bureau of Mines, Army Engineers, Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard.

Similar bid-rigging is alleged by the government to have occurred in the last two years on these other equipment contracts awards, some financed by locally-voted bond issues:

Alabama — By Alexander City and the cities of Florence and Huntsville.

Louisiana — By the port of New Orleans and the cities of New Orleans, Opelousas, Rayne and Alexandria.

Mississippi — By the city of Leland.

General Electric Co. of New York City; Westinghouse Electric Corp. of Pittsburgh; Allis - Chalmers Manufacturing Co., West Allis, Wis.; I-T-E Circuit Breaker Co., Philadellhia; Federal Pacific Electric Co., Newark, N.J.; Lapp Insulator Co., LeRoy, N.Y.; Ohio Brass Co., Mansfield, Ohio; McGraw-Edison Co., Elgin, Ill.; H. K. Porter Co., Pittsburgh; Hubbard and Co., Chicago; Joslyn Mfg., and Supply Co., Chicago; the Porcelain Insulator Corp., Lima, N.Y.; A. B. Chance Co., Centralia, Mo.; Southern States Equipment Corp., Hampton, Ga.

The companies are charged with fixing prices for their products and with exchanging information on bids when heavy equipment projects are advertised for competitive proposals.

Arson Probe Slated For 'The Cottage'

BATON ROUGE (AP)—An arson investigator Monday will start poking through the charred ruins of The Cottage, plantation house near where Dr. Margaret McMillan was killed.

Joseph Norwood, of the state fire marshal's office here, said Saturday there still is a possibility of arson.

Norwood said a preliminary report on the fire states that lightning in a thunderstorm may have been the cause of the fire.

But he said the investigation is not complete. Owners of the beautiful old home asked an orson investigation.

Both the district attorney and sheriff's offices still have the fire under investigation although both have discounted the possibility of any connection with the McMillan probe.

The 24-room manor built in 1824 was within one-half mile of where Dr. McMillan, 38-year-old unmarried woman biologist, was clubbed to death.

Dr. George H. Mickey, 50, dean of the Louisiana State University graduate school, is held in the East Baton Rouge Parish jail charged with murder while the grand jury investigates.

Mickey is a brilliant scientist and father of two grown children.

The fire marshal's investigator said, "We are going to do some more looking around . . . We could come up with something but I have no idea we will."

The 12 grand jurors looking into the McMillan murder passed on the Mississippi River road near The Cottage the day before it burned. They went to the killing site.

Sheriff's deputies were asked if it is possible evidence in the McMillan killing could have been covered by an arsonist.

Most agreed there was no such possibility. Even if there were, one asked, "what could you find there? Just ashes and burned wood and bricks."

CHESSMAN

Calif. Official Enters Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A California official stepped into the Caryl Chessman case in his superior's absence, he said Saturday, because an ex-federal official warned him of possible Latin-American reaction if Chessman was executed.

Chief Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard R. Rogan gave that explanation for a series of moves he made which played a part in the 11th-hour reprieve of the convict-author Thursday night.

Rogan would not name the man he said called him from Washington. He called him a former high-ranking State Department employe and a long-time personal friend now in private business there.

"He explained the possibilities of incidents during President Eisenhower's trip," Rogan said, "and went over the troubles during Vice President Richard M. Noxon's visit."

Gov. Edmund G. Brown's 60-day stay of execution for the convicted rapist-kidnaper has kicked up a furor in this and many other countries. The California Legislature will be asked, Brown said, to consider abolishing the death penalty.

GERMAN COAL KING

Ex-War Criminal Back In Business

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Ten years ago Alfried Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach was in prison as a war criminal and his family's vast coal and steel kingdom lay buried in the ruins of World War II.

Today the ruins are gone, replaced by sprawling new factories, and Krupp — heir of Germany's "cannon kings" — is perhaps the richest man in Europe.

This astonishing comeback happened partly through Germany's general postwar recovery, partly through Krupp's own determination to rebuild, and partly through the postwar policies of the Allies toward the wounded Krupp giant.

In World War II, Krupp mines and mills provided much of the fuel for Hitler's war machine, but by 1945 Allied air raids had smashed most of them. An estimated 30 to 40 per cent of the main steelworks in Essen was in rubble.

When the Allies marched in, Alfried Krupp was arrested. Later an American war crimes court convicted him—in his ailing father's stead—of using slave labor and despoiling occupied territory.

All the family's property was confiscated, and Krupp — along with 10 company executives—was sentenced to 12 years in prison. It looked as if it was the end of a century-and-a-half - long industrial era.

It looked more like it in the first postwar years as the victors dismantled many of the remaining Krupp plants. But even while dismantling was going on, some people in the West were wondering if Germany and German industry might have to be rebuilt as a bulwark against Russia.

In January, 1951, American High Commissioner John G. McCloy released Afried Krupp from prison and restored his property on the grounds that his punishment was "generally repugnant to American concepts of justice."

The Alies were not through with him, however. Under a 1953 agreement he promised to stay out of iron and steel manufacture, with a few specified exceptions, and to sell within five years the huge Rheinhausen steel works and his coal and iron mines.

He retained a cast-steel factory and locomotive works, a machine tool factory, a tungsten carbide plant, an automobile works, shipyards in Hamburg and Kiel, and a bridge - building and engineering plant.

Krupp, known before the war as a sports - car driving playboy, threw himself with tremendous energy into rebuilding the family fortunes. A retiring man himself, he appointed a brash young general manager, Berthold Beitz, to supervise the reconstruction.

It went quickly. By 1955 Krupp had gathered 60 companies in West Germany alone, with a 1954 turnover of 230 million dollars. German workmen — the quiet heroes of West Germany's "economic miracle" — labored from dawn far into the night to rebuild shattered plants.

Today the annual capacity of Krupp - owned steel mills stands at 4 million tons and his coal mines have an estimated capacity of 4,500,000 tons yearly.

This amazing growth has been accomplished with the old Allied order to sell still hanging over the company. It becomes less and less of a hindrance each year, however.

MEDELLIN, Colombia (UPI)— A cordial reception awaited Adlai Stevenson when he arrived here Friday on the fifth stage of a 12-nation tour of Latin America.

The twice-defeated Democratic presidential candidate is flying in from Panama to begin a weekend visit. He is scheduled to go on to Bogota Sunday.

NATIONAL TRAVELER.

9-Year-Old Says Career Is First

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"My career comes first," says Miss Evelyn Rudie, age 9.

Miss Rudie, you may recall, is the young lady who was so distressed about her sagging acting career last November that she hopped a cross-country jet in a vain attempt to consult an old friend, Mamie Eisenhower without leaving her sleeping parents so much as a note.

The result was a small search and large headlines—and to this day, the blonde moppet maintains the jaunt was entirely her idea, and not her parents' or press agent's.

Miss Rudie, who achieved fame at the age of 7 for her performance as TV's precocious "Eloise," explained it was more than mere distress that prompted her to seek out the nation's First Lady.

"I wanted a TV series," she said. "I felt I had enough single parts, and I wanted to ask Mrs. Eisenhower if she would help me. I once made a film for the Treasury Department with Jack Webb, and I met her at a White House reception. She gave me a personal tour of the White House, and once wrote me a very nice letter.

"I got a key to Washington, a replica of the Liberty Bell and was made a junior member of the Secret Service."

Miss Rudie, who will appear Sunday night on TV's "Lawman" show, said she may be getting her wish for a series.

"There's one in the making," she said. "I don't know what it's about, but my agents, the William Morris Office, are handling the whole thing.

"If it doesn't work out, I'll go on acting. It's in my blood. My father was in the theatre. And my grandfather, Rudolph Bernard, wrote the stories for the operettas 'Maytime' and 'The Chocolate Soldier.'"

Miss Rudie's presence in Palm Springs, Calif., several weeks ago—at the same time President Eisenhower was golfing there—had Hollywood watching to see if she would pull another stunt. But Miss Rudie, who was in Palm Springs to play the lead in "The Bad Seed," said:

"It might have been nice, but I was too busy. I didn't have one free moment. I didn't know he'd be there until he got there."

Miss Rudie said her parents never punished her for her trip East.

NEIGH WAS THE WAY "Ned" the horse summed up the situation in Bluefield, W. V. after his master, Verda Jarrell, rode him to work at the Bluefield water works. Jarrell, like many others in the Bluefield area, found himself snowbound after the big blizzard, the second in a week here. Snow often was up to Ned's belly during the two-hour, four-mile ride. Churchill's Daughter Is Fined

LONDON (UPI)Actress Sarah Churchill, fiery-tempered daughter of Sir Winston, was fined $5.60 in Marlborough Court Saturday on charges she insulted a cab driver by repeatedly calling him "a bloody fool."

The 45-year-old Miss Churchill, currently starring on the stage in "The Night Life of a Virile Potato," pleaded guilty in court to using insulting words to the cabbie during an argument in the Bohemian Chelsea section of London.

The incident, which occurred Friday, followed a series of flare-ups during the last two years in which Miss Churchill paid fines on drunk or disorderly charges in London, Liverpool and Los Angeles.

Policeman Raymond Herbert told the magistrate Saturday he was compelled to arrest Miss Churchill to prevent a breach of peace after she refused to pay a taxi fare.

During the argument, Herbert testified, the actress screamed at the cabbie and called him a "bloody fool" repeatedly among other things.

Miss Churchill's lawyer, H. K. Hardcastle, said the actress had been very worried and high-strung and "She wanted to drive around in the cab to give herself time to sort her thoughts out.

"She got into the cab, but the driver was completely uncooperative and showed lack of understanding," Hardcastle said. "That is all there is to it."

Miss Churchill opened recently in the London play, which was roundly panned. But her acting won critical praise.

Last September, Miss Churchill was fined two pounds ($5.60) for being drunk and disorderly in a London snack bar.

In Liverpool, England, last March 9, the actress was found guilty of drunkenness and disorderly conduct and fined the same $5.60. She had pleaded innocent.

In January, 1958, Miss Churchill was arrested and jailed for drunkenness in Los Angeles. She was fined $50 and released. The arrest came after neighbors phoned police complaining she was drunk and disorderly at her home in Malibu.

Miss Churchill, whose full name is Sarah Churchill Beauchamp, is the widow of society photographer Anthony Beauchamp. Beauchamp committed suicide a little more than two years ago by taking an overdose of sleeping tables.

NOT AGAINST GOLFING

APPLETON, Wis. UPI)—Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) says he doesn't criticize President Eisenhower for playing golf because the presidency is a back-breaking job and a man needs relaxation. Asked what he would do for relaxation if he were president, Kennedy replied: "I used to do quite a bit of boating."

Men, Machines Battle Winds And Snowdrifts

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — Men and machines battled high winds and deep drifts Saturday in an unceasing struggle to open the snow-clogged Pennsylvania Turnpike.

While the back-breaking work continued mile after mile, thousands of stranded travelers waited in restaurants, motels and churches.

Many had been marooned since Thursday night when a windblown snowstorm struck southwestern Pennsylvania and turned the turnpike into a motorist's nightmare.

There was no definite indication when the superhighway would be reopened. A spokesman for the Turnpike Commission held out some hope the job could be accomplished by nightfall.

Other sections of Pennsylvania, notably the northwest and northeast, also reeled under winter's one-two punch of snow and frigid winds.

On top of it all, the U.S. Weather Bureau warned that another storm system was approaching from the Southwest and probably would reach the state by late Sunday afternoon, bringing rain or snow.

The turnpike was closed to westbound traffic between Gettysburg and Irwin, a 185-mile stretch. Eastbound lanes were closed from Irwin to Bedford.

Up to three feet of snow fell on the western slopes of the Allegheny Mountains. Somerset and Bedford were among the hardest hit.

Stalled vehicles, bone-chilling cold and howling winds up to 60 m.p.h. hampered efforts to clear the turnpike. Drifts topped 10 feet in many places.

Most of those stranded seemed to take it in good stride. James Long, manager of one restaurant along the turnpike, said: "I never thought so many strangers could get along so well as the 300 to 400 persons that jammed our place."

Ike Orders Factory Plan For Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday ordered the security program in defense factories restored in a revised form.

The executive order was issued as the result of a Supreme Court decision last June 29 invalidating the government program covering employes of defense contractors.

The court said the program had not been authorized either by Congress or by the President.

In addition to Eisenhower's move, legislation to revive the program has been passed by the House and is pending in the Senate.

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo), chairman of the Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee, had requested that no executive order be issued until his group could question government officials about it. However, he has eld no hearings on the question.

Eisenhower said his order protects both the nation's security and affords the maximum possible safeguards for the individuals affected by it.

The order prescribes standards and procedures for granting individual nongovernment defense workers access to classified defense information. It expressly provides that decisions under it shall in no sense determine the loyalty of individual workers.

The White House said departmental regulations will implement the order.

Its general requirements include an opportunity for a worker to reply to the detailed statement of why he may be refused access to secret information.

It also provides an opportunity for a worker to appear personally in support of an application for access to classified information. The applicant would be allowed to cross-examine persons who have made adverse statements against him on disputed questions of fact.

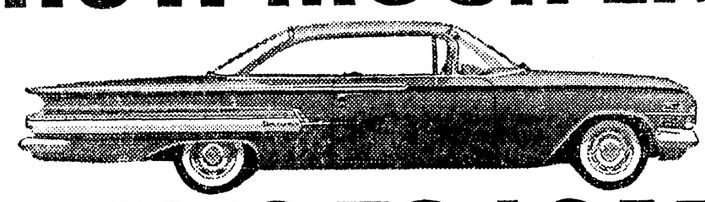
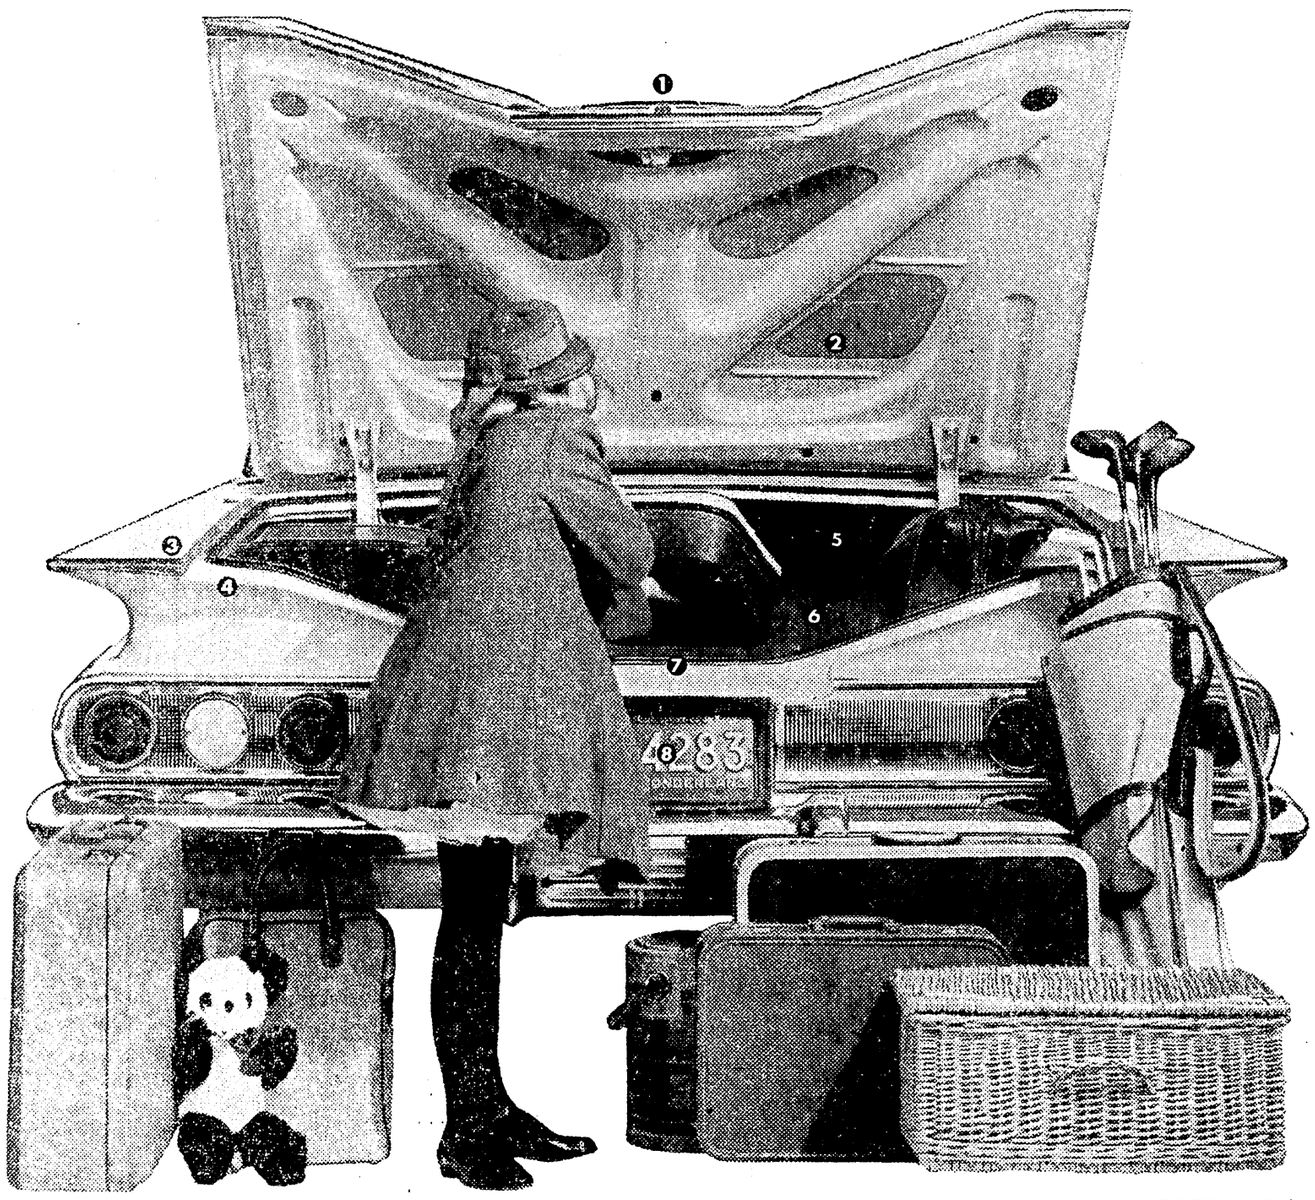
OPEN THE TRUNK...
PROVE HOW MUCH EASIER



CHEVY IS TO LOAD!



That vacation-sized, easy-to-load luggage compartment is just one example of the more usable room you get throughout the new Chevrolet. The loading height of the conveniently cutaway trunk sill is not only lower than Chevy's nearest competitor's, but the deck lid opening is more than a foot and a half wider. And when it comes to what you can actually pack away, specifications reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association show Chevy's trunk holds up to 22.5% more luggage. Wherever you look—from the lower and narrower front floor tunnel to the wider rear deck—here's the car that gives you more room where you want more room!

1 Single key locking for convenience Who wants to play guess-which-key-opens-the-trunk? One key opens Chevy's trunk, doors, glove compartment and starts the car.

2 No loose wiring Chevy's luggage compartment keeps snagging wires away from your cargo for extra safety and easy stowing.

3 Wider storage space And you don't have to reach underneath anything to take advantage of Chevy's wide open spaces, either. Just load away in this big trunk.

4 As much as a foot-and-a-half-wider trunk lid opening Chevy's wide deck lid lets you pack in the parcels from either side or the back, without twisting your spine out of kilter.

5 Up to 22.5% more usable luggage space in a Chevy You've got 30 cubic feet of solid air in Chevy's big trunk, and every cubic inch of it is right at your fingertips.

6 Deeper trunk for bulky loads You can stand most packages up in this deep well—no crushed groceries! Yet you needn't reach way down to unload.

7 Lower sill for easier loading Why should you hoist heavy bundles any higher than you have to? Chevy's sill is lowered for faster, easier loading.

8 And the gas tank filler tube doesn't take a big bite out of luggage room It's tucked away virtually out of sight and cargo area. Any way you look at it, Chevy takes mighty good care of your loads. You can open the door to all of Chevy's wonders at your Chevrolet dealer's. What's keeping you?

'Artifacts Abundant'

By DALLAS ROPER
State Editor

"Artifacts Abundant" would be a good alternate name for Poverty Point in West Carroll Parish, for here are to be found some of the oldest known products of man in America. And they are abundant enough to be found on the grounds surface after the spring plowing.

The wealth of archaeological specimens to be found here have been scratched, according to opinions by both amateur and professional archaeologists. Two such "diggers" visited the site of the old Indian village last week. And both expressed the hope that the treasures would not be removed.

For such removal would aid in destroying the value of the 2,600-year-old site which is under consideration as a national monument in the network under the jurisdiction of the U. S. Park Service.

The two who tramped over the site were John W. Griffin of the Park Service and Michel W. Beckman of Shreveport, an oilman and amateur archaeologist.

The specimens shown in the accompanying pictures were taken from a smaller mound near the main burial pyre by "diggers" from the Museum of Natural History in New York and are respresentative of the curiosities buried in the 75-foot high "hump."

They are not, however, the sort of thing to be found on the surface. Tools with edges, presumed to be used for knives, weapons and other utility equipment are fairly plentiful in the fields and clay balls used in cooking are no rarity.

A piece of real history may be preserved at Poverty Point near Epps for scientific study for years to come.

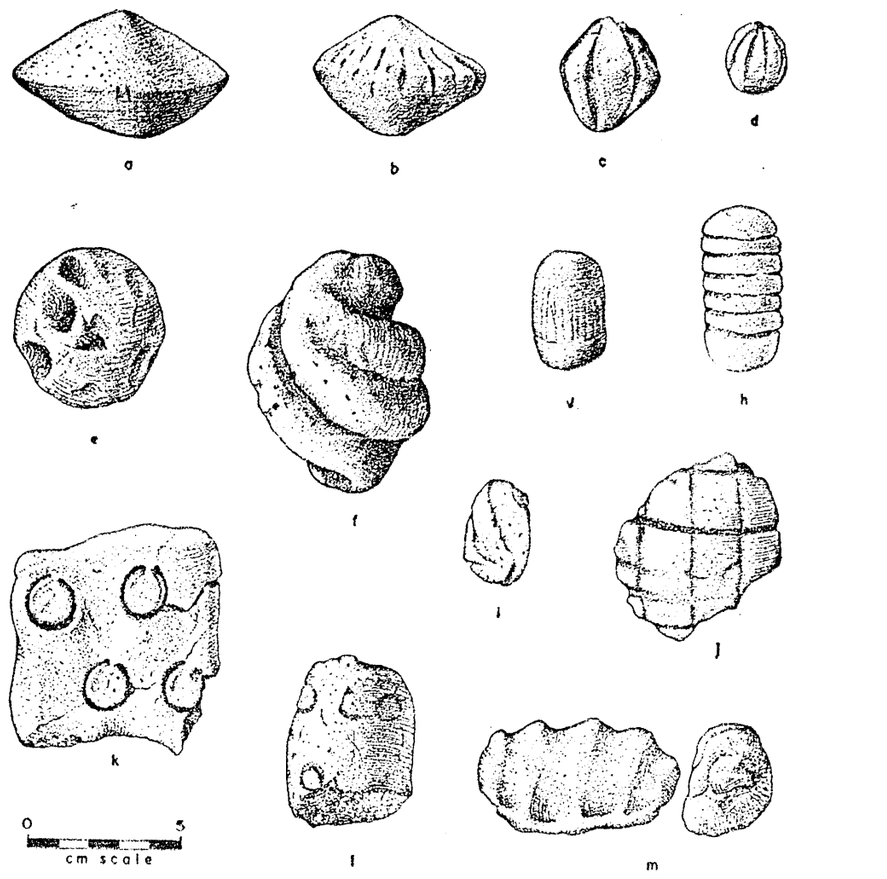

FIG. 14. Unusual varieties of baked clay objects.

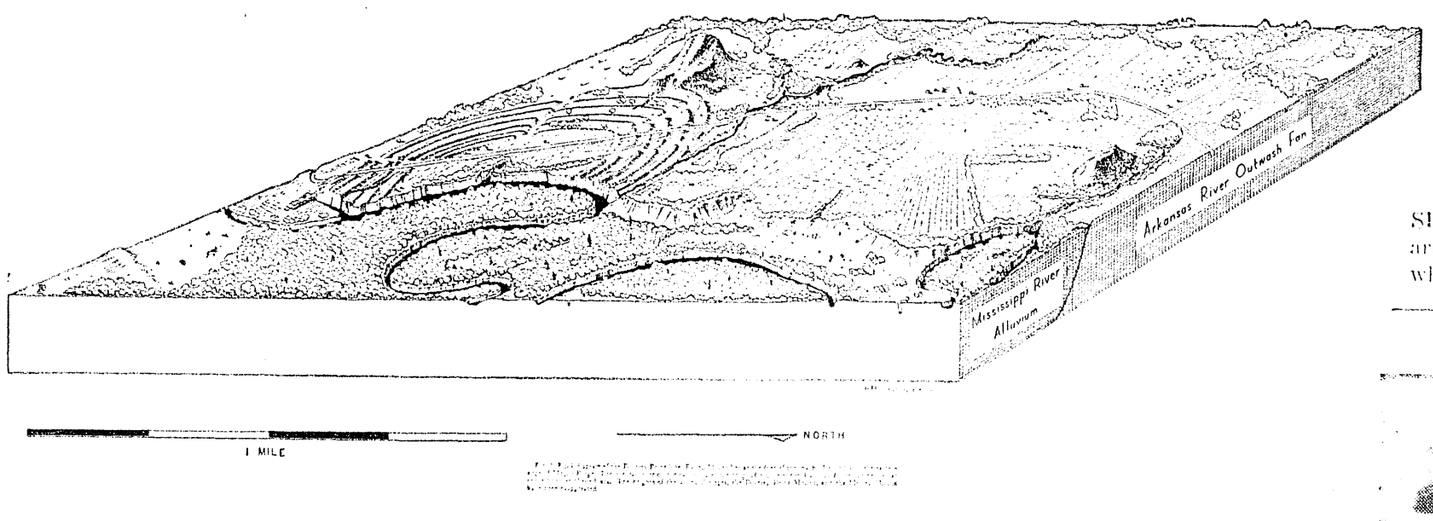
SHOWN ABOVE are samples of the relics to be found at Poverty Point near Epps. These artifacts are of baked clay and present a study in the primitive life of the Indian tribe which lived there. The civilization is believed to date back as far as 2,600 years.



HERE IS a scale drawing—done from the view of an aerialist—of the Poverty Point Indian village site. The geometric pattern of ridges at the base of the highest mound was the site of the actual village. The Indians—prehistoric in date—built their dwellings on the ridges. Notice that the mound—the second highest in America—was built in the form of a bird in flight.

Hospitality In Land Of The Bedouin

Familiar Wisp Of Steam

A cup of coffee, with its familiar wisp of steam curling upward, is a symbol of hospitality the world over. Wherever the fragrant brew is offered, however it is served, the gesture has but one meaning: "Welcome to our home."

In many lands, the serving of coffee is a small ceremony, even a formal rite. Nowhere is the coffee ceremony more intriguing or gracious than in the vast desert of the Arabian peninsula, land of the Bedouin.

SAND DUNES

Here, among rippling sand dunes, towering oil wells and lush oases, the wandering Bedouin tribesman cherishes an ancient coffee tradition handed down over the centuries.

Bedouins may meet at the coffee ritual after days, months or even years of journeying across the desert. It is a time of great joy and stern dignity.

Both strangers and friends may be invited to attend the Bedouin coffee ceremony. As they enter the long, narrow tent of their host, they all murmur the same, familiar Arabian greeting. As-salaam alaykum — "Peace be to you."

In reply, they hear one of the warmest, most complete expressions of welcome in any language, Ahlan wasahlan — "My home is your home."

After many inquiries about one's family and health have been exchanged and then exchanged again, the host sees that everyone is comfortably seated in a traditional and thoroughly sociable "U" formation.

ARM REST

The most important guest is placed at the bottom of the "U" and given a pillow or camel's saddle for an arm rest, while the rest of the company sits cross-legged on rugs.

As in the coffee houses of seventeenth - century England, only men are present. Arabian women, heavily veiled and hidden from public view, remain far in the background when guests arrive for coffee.

Now the ritual begins.

A magnificently carved coffee chest is opened and the family coffee brewer takes from it the dozen or so utensils he will need for preparing the darkly delicious beverage.

As host and guest politely discuss desert events, the coffee brewer moves silently to the center of the "U" and, with the aid of a desert breeze, starts a small, snapping fire.

His first step is to roast green coffee beans in a long-handled, cast-iron ladel, stirring and shaking them until they become an even, rich brown. While the beans are cooling in a shallow wooden dish, he heats water over the fire and then begins pulverizing the beans in a brass mortar.

The bright, clear ring of the pestle striking the side of the mortar is an open invitation to those in neighboring tents to join the party and meet the guest of honor.

RHYTHM

Every coffee maker has his own rhythmical beat and the delightful sound produced is reminiscent of musical bells.

Contrary to all western coffee-brewing rules, the fine coffee is added to the water and boiled to a froth several times. How many times is left completely to the discretion of the coffee brewer and is, perhaps, the secret of his particular success. After the coffee has brewed, it is poured into a coffee server which, like the pot for brewing, has a long, curving spout.

Now the coffee brewer adds the final ingredient, ground cardamom or crushed ginger, and the brew is allowed to froth up once more.

After the coffee is poured back and forth from pot to server several times, the crucial moment arrives. The expert tastes his coffee to make sure he has achieved a perfect flavor.

RITUAL

At this point in the Bedouin coffee ritual, guests focus their complete attention on the coffee. A sprig of palm is placed in the spout to strain the grounds, and the server — or della — is passed to the one who is to pour the coffee, usually the host's oldest son.

Beautifully decorated cups, small and handleless, are stacked in the palm of his right hand.

He grasps the della with his left and pours each cup to the half-way mark. To serve the coffee properly, he first strikes the della to the cup, then lifts the server high, high above the cup and pours quickly.

All in the same motion, he bows forward and gracefully offers the cup to the guest of honor. Swiftly, he repeats his sweeping gestures until all have been served three times.

In accepting a cup of coffee, the guest always takes the cup in his right hand and generally has no more than three cups at a sitting. The correct way to say, "No more, thank you," is to extend the right hand and rotate the empty cup by a movement of the wrist, the rest of the arm remaining motionless. If, by chance, a guest should not have mastered this gesture, it is also perfectly correct to say, bass, or "That's all."

By the time a visitor takes leave of his Bedouin host, they have indulged in many spirited conversations and become fast friends.

Whenever and wherever they meet again on the desert, they will renew their discussions with equal warmth and vigor. They will also honor one another with the most cordial welcome known on the desert—with a cup of steaming coffee, served in the traditional, and truly eloquent, Arabian manner.

Poverty Point Monument

Efforts to have Poverty Point in extreme Northeast Louisiana declared a National Monument by Congress and preserved as the site of an Indian city built in the time of Moses should have the support of the entire state. There are, at present, 84 National Monuments in the United States, none in Louisiana.

There are few areas in the United States today which, in the eyes of experts, seem more worthy of federal preservation historically and archaeologically than Poverty Point.

Poverty Point is near Epps in West Carroll Parish, directly north of Delhi and about half way between Monroe and Vicksburg in east - west directions. The Indian city which now has been located there is estimated by archaeologists to be about 2,800 years old and to represent a culture derived from usages that came to America from Asia by way of the Bering Strait between what now are Alaska and Siberia. It is the oldest known village of man in the lower Mississippi valley and includes the second highest Indian mound in America — a mound equivalent in height to a seven story building. The only higher mound is 1,000 years younger — in Illinois.

Dr. James A. Ford, Associate Curator of North American Archaeology for the American Museum of Natural History, conducted three excavating expeditions to Poverty Point — in 1952, 1953, and in 1955. Prior to the latter expedition he had described the area as "the principal archaeological enigma in the Southeastern United States."

Dr. Ford was accompanied in 1955 by Junius Bird of the American Museum and Stewart Neitzel of the Louisiana Parks Commission. They spent more than six months burrowing into Indian mounds. They brought out more than 800 pounds of relics showing that the inhabitants used spear throwers instead of bows and arrows, knew very little about pottery, and cooked their food with hot clay balls, some 20,000,000 of which are estimated to be at the site. Apparently culture of the original Poverty Point settlers was what is called the "Middle Woodland" culture of the upper Mississippi valley. There is no other record of this culture in the lower Mississippi valley and no knowledge as to how this upper Mississippi culture, originally from Asia, found its way into the lower Mississippi —in Louisiana.

Shreveporters have been especially interested in Poverty Point and in seeking to have it made into a National Monument. Among these are Michael W. Beckman, independent oil operator, geologist and amateur archaeologist; Clarence Yancey, attorney; and Dr. Clarence H. Webb, widely known as an amateur archaeologist and author of numerous articles on ancient Indian villages in this part of the country.

Recently these men accompanied John W. Griffin of the U. S. Parks Service on an examination of Poverty Point to determine whether it should be declared, by Congress, a National Monument. Mr. Griffin expressed great interest but he does not hold the final authority. His report must go to the Advisory Board of the National Parks Service. If the Board gives favorable action, it will certify the site to the Secretary of Interior as worthy of consideration. Then Congress must pass an act making the area a National Monument..

As a National Monument, the Poverty Point area would be under ownership of the federal government and under jurisdiction of the National Parks Service. It would become an attraction for tourists. It is especially suitable in that way, for it is easily accessible by federal and state highways. Further, the terrain — the mounds, ridges and other demonstrations of the human life and culture that existed there in the time of Moses and on through the birth of Christ into some indefinite later period—have not been harmed by nature sufficiently to destroy their value as evidence of the manner of human living in the lower Mississippi valley 2,800 years ago.

There are few National Monuments in the South and most of those in the South are battlefields of forts. There are various national battlefield parks and sites. Chalmette, site of the Battle of New Orleans in the War of 1812, is preserved as a National Historical Park. But Poverty Point would be the only National Monument in the lower Mississippi valley and, aside from its historical value, would serve as an extra attraction to the nearby Vicksburg National Military Park.

However, Poverty Point will not become a National Monument simply because it should be one, or because of requests that it be made one. There are communities all over the nation seeking to have various sites declared National Monuments and few succeed. Few have the qualifications of Poverty Point.

What is needed is organization to push the Poverty Point case. Perhaps some organization could take it over as a project, or a special organization could be formed. The press in Louisiana — and also in nearby Mississippi — should be united in behalf of the project. The State Legislature should be called on to take action urging action by the Department of Interior and later by Congress. Louisiana's members of the House and Senate must be lined up behind the project.

Certainly civic and community organiations of all types should do their part. The more pressure that is put on Washington for action, the quicker that action will come, whatever it may be.

A total of 6,723,505 motor vehicles were turned out by U.S. automobile plants in 1959, an increase of 31.3 per cent over 1958.

Kingston, now a ghost town in southern New Mexico, had a population of 7,000 during a silver boom in the 1880's. The town had 22 saloons at the time, says the National Automobile Club.

Weeds cause $1,000 in losses annually on the average farm in the United States. Weed losses for the country total some $4 billion annually.

The National Safety Council said that since 1952 the fatality rate per 100,000 farm tractors has increased from 18 to more than 27, while non-fatal accidents involving farm tractors totaled about 45,000 annually. The Council said the total cost of all tractor accidents exceeds $100 million annually.

An estimated 72 per cent of the U. S. population was covered by doctor and hospital insurance at the end of 1959. In 1940 only nine per cent was covered; in 1950, 51 per cent.

Sweden's population at the beginning of 1960 was about 7,475,000.

France Is In A-Bomb Club

End Of Monopoly By Any Nation Of This Devasting Weapon Has Come; Within All Nations' Reach

Now that France has joined the A-Bomb Club with an explosion in the Sahara, the end of a monopoly by any nation of this devastating weapon has come. As the "Insider's Newsletter" has said: ". . . any country with the capacity to produce an automobile or a wristwatch will be able to make an atomic bomb . . ."

It is absurd for Washington and Moscow to ignore the fact that Ghana or Cuba or any other tiny nation has gained new strength by the certainty that it is now possible for anyone to make bombs who has access to bomb-making material. And bomb-making material is becoming more available as reactors are used for peaceful purposes. The so-called "Atoms for Peace" movement therefore may become one of the most devastating devices for the destruction of mankind ever placed in the hands of irresponsible or less responsible nations.

There is, of course, another side to the coin. Those European nations which have observed the ridiculous policy followed by the United States with regard to Castro's Cuba, are becoming increasingly worried that in a tight moment the United States will fail them. They are therefore concerned with plans to defend themselves. In the economic field, the European Common Market and the Free Trade Association are successful expressions of a lessening dependence upon the United States. In the military field, France's A-Bomb explosion must be followed by other European nations, and we must anticipate many such developments over the world. The new independent African nations might arm use themselves with A-Bombs.

So far as the United States is concerned, the deal made between Castro and Mikoyan cannot be ignored. Theoretically, it is a sugar deal. There is also a promise of planes. Is there an "Atoms for Peace" deal? We shall not know that for some time, but if there is, the American situation would immediately become perilous. How we can avoid some action at this point is beyond reason or is it possible, as James Reston reports, that at last Washington has "a growing feeling of insecurity." It takes the State Department a long time to feel such things.

* * *

However, the risk that we face, every nation faces. Not a spot upon this earth is any longer safe. A nation that can make an A-Bomb can make an H-Bomb. Small bombs can do enough damage to force the Great Powers to act. In a decade, A-Bombs could be used by revolutionists against their own governments, scientists bootlegging the makings to those who want to use them.

The A-Bomb has altered the balance of power of the world. It set up two mighty giants, the United States and Soviet Russia, to dominate the Earth and to threaten and frighten other nations. The distribution of "Atoms for Peace" reactors and the possibility of bootlegging their products and by-products raise new international problems of enormous magnitude which cannot be faced by trifling political maneuvers.

Ghana has faced the problem realistically. It assumed an anti-French attitude as soon as France exploded the Sahara bomb. At that moment, the politics of the African continent changed and the small nations which were in their swaddling clothes on that continent suddenly realized that their independent existence could be wiped out by a shift in France's political personnel. Suppose M. Soustelle, who maneuvered de Gaulle into power, could maneuver him out of power and establish a new French imperialism on the African continent!

Is this beyond possibility? Certainly no one can say that. In the present shift of power, it is impossible not to believe any possibility. In a progressing military situation, the possession of weapons and the capacity to maintain a continuous supply of them is power. Such power can now be made available to the small as to the large nations. The concept of retaliation is unimportant because the damage once having been done, the capacity to restore strength lessens. The moral effect, for instance, of an A-Bomb on Miami would be as devastating as an H-Bomb over New York. Cuba can thus be as potent in its immediate effectiveness as Soviet Russia. What follows that first immediate act is commentary. This fact needs to be faced candidly and ought to be explained in some official manner so that we know exactly what the situation is.

Southerners To Wage Big Fight

Won't Give Up Civil Rights Without Mighty Struggle

WASHINGTON -- With the first skirmishes of the 1960 civil rights battle ended, the southern senators are settling down to a long battle of attrition.

Having suffered one defeat when they attempted to postpone debate on the issue, the Southern groups will now rely on two weapons they have polished to perfection: parliamentary skill and a talent for marathon speaking.

No one has yet publicly uttered the word "filibuster", which calls to mind uninterrupted harrangues from mail - order catalogs. Much more to the point this year is "extended debate."

A number of the Southern senators have ordered speeches prepared tracing the history of voting and elections back to the founding of the republic -- the Roman Republic. One such speech is already nine inches thick and is not yet complete.

"Extended debate", however, is a weapon of decreasing value. It will be held in reserve as a final resort if everything else fails.

There have already been some samples, however. Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D) La., gave the senate a prelude to a preface to an introduction to "extended debate" Wednesday when he addressed the senate for two hours in a diatribe against the civil rights commission. When he yielded the floor to a fellow southerner, he had three hours more to go on that one subject alone.

* * *

Sen. Herman Talmadge (D) Ga., followed the next day with a six - hour attack on the administration plan to set up federal referees to supervise local elections.

The fine edge of the "extended debate" weapon, however, was blunted Tuesday when Sen. Richard Russell (D) Ga., moved to postpone the civil rights debate for one week. The South mustered only 28 votes on the motion, and these included passionate civil rights supporter Wayne Morse (D) Ore. (who was grinding a private axe) four Republicans, and the Tennessee and Oklahoma delegations, which may or may not side with the south on a final showdown.

"Extended debate" could be stopped at any time with a vote of a cloture. It would take 34 southern votes to block this move. At this stage, the votes are not in sight if the GOP follows its present stand on the legislation.

Before the senate gets close to cloture, however, the southerners will have tried a number of other weapons in their arsenal. These include:

1. Pinning a Republican label on any civil rights legislation. The southerners are already buttonholing their Democratic colleagues to point out that most of the severe rights bills now being seriously considered can be claimed by the Republicans -- particularly the referee plan. They also point out that the senate could, by passing these proposals, merely add campaign fodder to Vice President Richard M. Nixon's silo, which is already uncomfortably full.

* * *

This weapon, however, is two-edged. It could conceivably force the northern Democrats to back the federal registrar plan -- the only major rights proposal strongly attacked by the administration.

2. Sparring in the senate until the house act on the civil rights issue March 10. It is well known that Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas would prefer to use a house bill as a vehicle for a rights bill. He did not enjoy serving up a minor bill pertaining to a Missouri school board as the vehicle, and may prefer to wait until the house bill arrives in the senate before forcing a showdown.

The Southerners strongly objected to the rider maneuver Johnson adopted, but were not surprised when he offered the Missouri school bill for amendments. They knew, despite published reports to the contrary, that if it were not the school bill, it would have been another measure equally innocuous.

3. Forcing votes on every section of every civil rights amendment. Russell, the acknowledged prime strategist for the south, launched this attack by insisting the senate consider every section of the administration seven - point civil rights package. Being forced to vote on every possible section of every bill -- emphasizing the voting stand over and over again --could prove embarrassing to Johnson himself.

4. Adding crippling amendments to any bill. A major point in this Southern attack would be the fact that the two major proposals — referees and registrars —have not had the benefit of much, if any, airing in committee hearings and are new this year.

5. Whittling the bill down in conference. By a parliamentary quick, the Missouri school was handled by the armed services committees in both houses and the conference committee would be selected from those committees if normal procedure is followed. The armed services committees in both houses are stacked five deep with southerners.

Views Of Our Readers

Winnsboro, La.

To the Editor:

Your editorials in today's paper were of special interest to me, because it was on a subject to which I have given much study and thought lately. There you stated that Russia went to no end to disprove and discredit the Bible. I admired your defense of its truths, and your evident acceptance of it as the Word of God, and not a fable of an ignorant and superstitious age. But I believe you will not have to go to Russia to find those who will discredit its truths and record.

Not long ago at a church meeting in our community, we were discussing the Divine Authority of the Bible. During that discussion I asked if science was not questioning and denying its truths on every hand. I was then informed by a pastor and a high school principal as well as several deacons that our scientists today, as well as the accepted teaching of science, were pointing men more in the right direction, the direction of belief in God and the acceptance of His Word. I had just finished reading a book on the geological, geophysical and geochemical conclusions of the past 500 years in which the creative acts, as well as the governing power, and the purpose of God was denied on every hand. Not too many months ago, I had read an article whereby Paul Tillich, on the faculty of the School of Theology, at Harvard — a leading theologian from an outstanding college — admitted error in the Bible in face of these same teachings, making the Cross a mere symbol, not a reality.

I began to wonder if I had become unduly alarmed by a few exceptions rather than the general rule. For an answer I went to my children's textbooks as well as college textbooks, and there I found some of the very same teachings, even in the lower grades of school, built around a very fundamental structure of learning that denies the truths of God. Darwin's theory of evolution is accepted by the American system of education whether we want to acknowledge it or not. I know what Darwin said. I also know what the Scriptures say. Either God or Charles Darwin is a liar. And let every man be a liar that God may be true.

Do you know what our American children are taught about the earth, its origin, man's life span upon it, the origin of life, as well as species of life? Do you know what the Bible says? Are they the same? Is there even a vague similarity?

You do not have to go to Russia, only just across town to Northeast Louisiana College, and there find a copy of the History of our Civilization, second volume, covering that period of time from 1500 A.D. on, and find there in the concluding pages a summation of the world as it stands and its future outlook. There, you will find the author classifying this generation in three classes. First, the Prophets of Doom, secondly, Christians, third, those who believe not in God.

In his concluding opinion, the Christians and the atheists are those on whom the future of Democracy depends. The first group the Prophets of Doom, are its enemies. Now among those Prophets of Doom are those who are looking for the Lord Jesus Christ to return. Have those who believe the New Testament teachings on the return of the Lord become enemies of democracy?

I could write many times this amount on the subject. My expression is poor, I know, and my writing, too. But, Mr. Editor, I beg of you, look for yourself, and see what we are teaching our youth and also read what the Bible says. Are they the same? These things are not hidden. Let's look at home, and fight atheism at home before we can fight it in Russia successfully. For the end of Godless Democracy is not far from the end of Godless Communism, according to the first chapter of Paul's letter to the Romans. For there it is stated that those who do not give God his glory, do not accept God's truths, nor do not like to retain a knowledge of God all end up in the gutter, covered with the spiritual filth of their own perverted lusts.

And God is no respector of persons, be he Democrat, Republican, Communist or what you may have.

AGAINST CLOSING COOLEY

West Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

Since you gave front page publicity to the closing of the G. B. Cooley T. B. Sanatorium on March 15 and the reasons for closing the institution by the board of governors, will you give a little space to take a look at the reasons for not closing the hospital at this time?

I want to make it clear that I am not critical of the honest opinions and the unselfish service rendered this fine institution by Mr. Claude Harrison and the board of governors. They are to be commended rather than critized for their free service through the years.

First, is it not a fact about as many patients enter this hospital for treatment as have entered it in the past, but they are soon treated and cured, thanks to modern antibotics and surgery?

Second, tuberculosis is just as contagious as ever, so far as I know, and people can still take the dreaded disease by contact with the bugs just as they could one hundred years ago. By all means, a patient with this disease should enter a T. B. hospital at once. We enter hospitals for all other diseases, why not have near - by hospitals for this disease which is still a killer, dangerous and contagious?

Third, we have this T. B. hospital, it is paid for, out of debt, and even had enough surplus to operate a year after the small one mill tax had run out. Why close it after a partial victory over this disease, why not keep the doors open until we have completely stamped out T. B. in our parish?

Fourth, many poor people will not go to far - away hospitals for treatment. They will remain at home and not take care of themselves, spread the disease and finally die from it.

Fifth, why not try to solve the problems faced by this institution and add to the services and facilities until we gain a complete victory over this disease: The path of least resistance is to close shop when serious problems are faced, but is that best in the case of the G. B. Cooley Sanatorium?

Sixth, in a few more years T.B. will be conquered just like yellow fever, small pox, malaria and other diseases have been. Why not keep our good Ouachita Parish T. B. sanatorium open until the final whistle blows on this deadly killer that has caused so much suffering, misery, fear and death?

I do not have any official connection with this hospital or personal gain by its continued operation. This is written in the interest of a good humanitarian institution that might still be used to help sick people.

EDITORIAL INTERESTING

To The Editor:

I found your editorial of Saturday, February 13, entitled "Year of Decision Here" most interesting, and I read with amazement the following excerpts:

" . . . The man who doesn't join the Chamber of Commerce but who hopes to ride along on the benefits it brings is the one who complains most about the things it does not do . . . In unity there is strength. Our modern writer holds to the theory that all success is based on several or many minds working for a common goal. He thinks that not only are all the minds utilized but that the strength of each is multiplied through unity with others . . . No one who counts on business and merchandizing has a right to shirk the duty of becoming a member of the Chamber of Commerce and of giving it his loyal support and financial assistance . . . There is only one way to correct a situation of this kind — those who have been shirking their duty must become members . . ."

Mr. Editor does your logic and reasoning here apply also to the trade union movement? If not, why? You have presented some of the basic principles unions recognize in their struggle for existence and in their defense of the "union shop". It may be well to remember your statements when there is an attempt to organize some local industry or when advocates of the so called "right to work law" seek its readoption.

Ike Ready To Leave On Latin Tour

President Eisenhower on Monday departs in a direction traveled by few of his predecessors. Only President Franklin D. Roosevelt in office — made a comparably extensive tour of Latin America, and that was almost a quarter of a century ago.

The earlier Roosevelt and President Taft had inspected Panama in 1906 and 1910 respectively. President Coolidge on Jan. 16, 1928 had addressed the Sixth Pan-American Conference, which was held in Havana. Herbert Hoover did make an extensive tour in November 1928, but only as President-elect. His itinerary included Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Equador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Peru, and Uruguay.

The second Roosevelt sailed from Norfolk on the cruiser Indianapolis on Nov. 12, 1936. He spoke at a joint session of the Congress and Supreme Court of Brazil in Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 27, and addressed the opening session of the Inter-American Conference for the Maintenance of Peace at Buenos Aires, Argentina, on Dec. 1. He was the guest of the Republic of Uruguay in Montevideo on Dec. 3, and 12 days later landed at Charleston, S. C.

President Truman visited Mexico City in March 1947 and Rio de Janeiro the following September. President Eisenhower previously has crossed the border for a Mexican festival in October 1953, attended the Presidents' Conference in Panama in July 1956, and visited President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico at Acapulco in mid-February 1959.

Operas Home Grown Featured By COmpany

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK (AP) — An American opera company will leave here Tuesday with a repertory of four contemporary American operas for a tour of 20 American cities — something that never happened before.

It's not going to be "Aida" but "Baby Doe;" it won't be "Carmen" but "Susannah;" not "Masked Ball" but "Street Scene." And the fourth work is "Six Characters in Search of an Author."

In the last two years the New York City Opera company, with the generous support of the Ford Foundation, has put on 20 contemporary native operatic works. It is a selection from this group that goes on tour thanks to $150,000 more of Ford funds.

"We have distilled the best of these, or the ones the New York public liked most," said company director Julius Rudel, "and we shall perform them before audiences that might total 70,000 people.

"Central City, Colo., has seen 'The Ballad of Baby Doe.' with music by Douglas Moore. Cincinnati at its summertime zoo music programs has heard and enjoyed Carlisle Floyd's 'Susannah.' Local companies in a few other places, for instance, Hartford, Conn., have staged a couple of these works.

"But on the whole," Rudel declared enthusiastically, "this is going to be a brand-new homespun operatic experience for all our audiences in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, as far off as Missouri and Michigan, and up into New England."

Would it have been easier to arrange a tour of the standard works, the classics that everyone knows?

Rudel, who likes the new, who likes opera, who believes in giving living composers a chance and who has done just that in his bold pioneering experiment with the native product, leaned back in the chair at his desk and gave it a minute's thought. His answer was yes and no.

"Of course, with the $150,000 to start with, we could give local managers a better break than they usually get with opera companies. Furthermore, the managers knew about us and were receptive.

"But on the other hand, I would not have suspected it would take quite so much time to persuade the public outside New York that these works are so good. You could almost say that the way Americans feel about their native product is proof of an inferiority complex. I don't like to put this on the basis of rallying to a good cause, but the fact is Americans could do a great deal to enrich their own cultural lives if they supported their own cultural creations. And it isn't a dry-as-dust support I mean, either. Opera is meant to be enjoyed. Mozart, Verdi, Puccini wanted people to like to attend their performances. So do Moore, Floyd, Weill.

"Europeans look on our programs with interest. They envy us the chance to produce our 20 new works, chosen from the 300 scores submitted to us."

A convincing speaker, completely sold on the Rudel idea and the American talent it sponsors, Rudel went on: "I think the Broadway musical has given American composers a sense of theater that they are putting to good use in opera. The success of 'Susannah' in Cincinnati came after bad advance notices. People agitated against it, some even charging it was immoral. But the drama in it helped put it over.

"The four we are taking provide a considerable variety, and they are the ones that have stood up best to the audience test here. I expect audiences elsewhere would be about the same as in New York."

Rudel comes from Vienna — where he was as fond of taking chances, and as smart at it, as he is here; he staged 'Kiss Me, Kate' at the Vienna Opera House and it's still in the repertory. But his local company is mostly American born and bred, and he by now is American through and through.

He will take 35 musicians, in effect his full orchestra; a chorus of 24 persons; coaches, chorus master, conductors, makeup and wardrobe men and librarian; and about 50 principals. They and their scenery, costumes and luggage will travel in three trucks, two buses and two station wagons, one fitted with beds to rush scene shifters from one town to another. First performance will be at Rutgers, last, on Feb. 26, in Hartford, Conn., and places in between include Chicago; Columbus, Cleveland and Cincinnati, Ohio, and Rochester and Syracuse, N. Y.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A wide variety of new books both fiction and non-fiction have arrived at the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week. "The Dedicated" by Willa Gibbs is a novel with a medical background. It has it's setting in England in the late 18th and 19th centuries and is focused on the battle for vaccination. Stories of this type are popular with our readers and it will have a good reception. "Sea Change" by Elizabeth Jane Howard is an absorbing story of theatrical life. It is a modern story and holds the readers interest extremely well. A book which will appeal especially to women is "Hamilton Terrace" by Elizabeth Corbett. It has a pre-world war setting and is a comfortable book to read. "Thunder Heights" by Phyllis Whitney is a story of adventure and intrigue and makes exciting reading. A book which men will enjoy is "Night Without End" by Alistair MacLean. It has it's setting at a government weather station on the Greenland Icecap and is an exciting adventure story by the author of "H. M. S. Ulysses." Those who like the books of Howard Spring will welcome another long family story. It is called "All the Day Long." It is English of course and is extremely well written. New mysteries are "One Way Out" by George Harmon Coxe and "The Case of the Careless Thief" by Christopher Bush. A slight but interesting story is "The Paper Mistress" by Dorothea Malm. It has it's setting in pre-Victorian England and will be enjoyed by those who like period stories.

For months people have been asking us for "May This House Be Safe From Tigers" by Alexander King, the author of "Mine Enemy Grows Older." It has finally arrived and we hope everyone is going to enjoy it. "Books In My Baggage" by Lawrence Clark Powell is an account of the pleasures of book-collecting. "Literary and Library Prizes" contains a wealth of information. "The Vanishing Adolescent" by Edgar Friedenberg is a new analysis of teen-agers. "Freedom is My Beat" by Jules Dubois is an account of the adventures of a roving photographer. "Markets of the Sixties" by the editors of Fortune Magazine will be of interest to all of those engaged in trade. "Undercover Teacher" by George M. Allen recounts the adventures of a government agent who worked as a teacher in one of the public schools of New York.

A lovely and useful book is "The Easy Expert in Collecting and Restoring American Antiques" by Moreton Marsh. It is beautifully illustrated and contains much valuable information. Books about sports are always popular and we have two new ones this week, one dealing with softball and the other with boxing. Both of these books tell how to master the sport. An interesting collection of short stories will appeal to those who lived in the twenties. It is called "These Were Our Years" and was edited by Frank Brookhauser. Those who enjoyed the "Adventures of the Mind" series in the Saturday Evening Post will be happy to know that it is now available in book form. Probably few people in our community are planning a trip to Russia, but if you are, we have a new guide book called "Travel Guide to Russia" written by Irvine R. Levine. Many people are planning trips to Alaska and will welcome "McKay's Guide to Alaska" by Robert G. Hart. "The City That Would Not Die" by Richard Collier is a tribute to London during the Blitz of 1941. All who lived through that experience will want to read it.

Students of the Civil War will welcome a reprint of John Esten Cooke's "Wearing of the Gray." which has just been reissued by the University of Indiana. "The Jazz Age" by Marvin Barrett is a pictorial history of the early 20th century.

This week we have a number of books of special interest to teen-age and young adult readers. "The Pink Dress" by Anne Alexander is a delightful love story. "The Boys Who Vanished" by John F. Carson is an interesting story of intrigue and mystery. "Miss Charity Comes to Stay" by Alberta Constant is a good family story. "New Dimensions of Flight" by Lewis Zarem adds much to our knowledge of aviation. "Secrets in the Dust" by Raymond Holden is a fascinating story of archaeology. "Aboab; the First Rabbi of the Americans" by Emly Hahn and "Keys to a Magic Door" by Sylvia Rotchild are accounts of the lives of two Jewish leaders who contributed much to their people and their country.

Van Winkle's Modern World Psychopathic

THE HIDING PLACE. By Robert Shaw. World. $3.50.

Deep inside the extra thick, bombproof walls of a cellar in Bonn, two Englishmen, Connolly and Wilson in handcuffs are chained to a post.

The barred door clangs open and Hans Frick, their jailer in army uniform, comes to waken them for the new day. Keeping his loaded pistol at the ready, he tosses them the key so they can loosen their wrists, rolls toward them a trolley with their food, sweeps their floor, has a furious exchange sparked by Connolly's savage taunts.

The prisoners were in a Lancaster shot down over the heart of the German city. A mob in the square seized the other crewmen as they parachuted to earth and clawed them to pieces. Connolly and Wilson landed a street away, ran for a wall, ducked through a door and Frick the occupant put off their pursuers, hid them, and kept them his own private prisoners. Connolly keeps busy thinking of his wife; he meets her out on a bright day in a field, he courts her, they marry, they have a son — and he does it over and over again to help get to sleep, to dream, to wake, to pass the dreary and unpassable days. Wilson had taken to writing. They can hardly remember how long they have been buried in this hole in chains. And no wonder: The capture occurred in 1942, it is now 1952. Frick works in a little store; he attends meetings of unrepentant Nazis; and though he risked his neck for his prisoners, he has at last stepped just beyond the pale of sanity. The time comes when he must let loose in a Germany long at peace the two who suppose the war is still on.

In plot alone this is a novel to hold you as fast as Frick holds his prisoners. A hundred wonderments arise one after another in your mind as you read on: you're never for a minute free of asking, what in the world will happen next? But more than this, here is pure drama as well as melodrama; the author is profoundly concerned with his tortured men and their prodigiously aborted lives. Freedom has its pitfalls, and habit, its solaces; and companionship can be more than friendship for this pair of perplexed Rip Van Winkels. Furthermore, it's not just two sorely tried prisoners, but three. Shaw has brilliantly devised a psychopathic world to fit modern psychopathic man.

Humor Forgets Its Meaning In Duo

LOOK TO YOUR GEESE. By Jacquin Sanders. Putnam. $3.75. LOVE ON A BRANCH LINE. By John Hadfield. Little, Brown. $4.

Thomas Hewitt, his son, 10, his daughter, 8, each bearing a gun, come by night to Gruel, in Massachusetts, take over a vacant cottage and decide defiantly to stay. Magistrate Ord sides with them, gives them land, helps them keep it despite the tricks of Redskins and the brothers Worthy.

That's the story by the American Sanders. Jasper Pye, hero of the matching English work, comes not to Gruel but to Arcady. A civil servant, Jasper has been sent to investigate the need for a government office that managed to keep going ever since the war. Is it not "redundant," in the official phrase? Lord Flamborough owns the ancient seat where the professor carries on, and the other principals are a peacock and my lord's three nymphomaniac daughters. Jasper after a wonderful time with wonderful people, as he sees it, fears he'll lack the courage to close the bureau as he's expected to.

These books are transatlantic brothers under the skin—American humor, the "mad" kind, says the jacket, and English humor, "light hearted . . . satirical . . . just not too improper."

Sanders says his novel is not for historians, it's for fun. So he tells supposedly funny stories — whites screaming at the stake, a goodwife's head split with a tomahawk, a family knifed, scalped, gutted and beheaded and — particularly hilarious — a child terrified by witches. Hadfield has one macabre touch: Flamborough loses both legs in a railway accident. But his humor is arrows shot through windows, trysts atop ivied walls and in a lake, secret doors, Latin tags, and the names Chloe, Belinda and Matilda.

Some critics have liked Sanders' earlier novels. Some Britishers like Hadfield — I like him as witty editor of "The Saturday Book." But I tried dutifully to laugh, smile or even chuckle at these books, and I failed. Sanders strains too much, it's horseplay; Hadfield doesn't strain enough, it's whimsy. Where did England get its ancient title "merrie?" Matilda moans that her passes at the unreceptive Jasper were an "awful bish." Bursting Bear dismisses the feeble art work of his tribesman Crazy Carver as "Foof, bwop, meep." That's my critical reaction "Bish — foof, bwop, meep." But I wouldn't go so far as Bursting Bear who also threw the offending artist 30 feet, bang, against a tree.

This Trio On Lincoln Seems One Of Best

Every year, come Lincoln's birthday, comes a crop of Lincoln books. Here are introduced three representatives of the 1960 crop.

A. LINCOLN, PRAIRIE LAWYER, By John J. Duff. Rinehart. $7.50.

One of the best Lincoln books to come along in a great while. As the title indicates, it deals with Lincoln's law career but it is more than a recital of the cases he handled. Duff goes to the roots of Lincoln's earliest contacts with law and lawyers and traces the impulses which turned Lincoln to the bar for livelihood. In developing the story of Lawyer Lincoln, Duff does not confine himself to the courtroom; he rides the circuits of the time and imparts their atmosphere and flavor. He writes with skill and the resourceful knowledge gained from extraordinary research — the bibliography fills more than 710 pages.

LINCOLN AND THE CIVIL WAR. By Courtland Canby Braziller. $5.

Canby's format is an anthology, but the book has a unity beyond the ordinary anthology. The reason is that Canby has a theme — "Lincoln and the Civil War are inseparable; the one has little meaning without the other" — and he makes his point not only with selections from other writers but with his own talented writing. He quotes many sources — biography, analyses, special studies, letters to home folks — and many authors. The organization is somewhat confusing but that is not a serious detraction.

It's just 100 years since Abraham Lincoln came to New York to deliver the Cooper Union speech which introduced him to the East. So, with that centennial in mind, it is doubly appropriate that this Lincoln's Birthday should bring a slender volume in which the Cooper Union speech is the central event. It is a charming story.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

The lively arts gave way to sculpture early last week with the coming of a plentiful supply of snow. There were standing, reclining even seated snowmen and women throughout Monroe and West Monroe. Due credit must be given to the workers of this highly flexible but extremely temporary medium. Some of the snow sculpture lasted only one or two days but the memory will linger on in the form of runny noses, water-soaked shoes and, of opportunities to see a blanket of snow on Spanish moss.

B MINOR MASS

The Robert Shaw Chorale and Orchestra will perform this week as the next attraction on the Louisiana Tech Concert Series. Two concerts have been scheduled — one Monday and another Tuesday in Howard Auditorium on the Tech campus in Ruston. Both will begin at 8 p.m. and will feature the Mass in B Minor by Johann Sebastian Bach.

Several years ago, this same organization appeared in Monroe on the Community Concerts billing, and more than proved its musical worth. The many membership holders in the Tech series will certainly want to take advantage of this musical milestone in the area.

LOCAL SCENE

The Twin City Symphony simultaneously opened its performing season and membership campaign last week with a concert featuring the annual concerto auditions winners. The local musicians have found a nice slot for the orchestra's season — four concerts spaced throughout the late winter and spring months.

At the same time, two musical comedies are headed for the boards involving local casts. Little Theatre is formulating plans for "Guys and Dolls" following a successful run of "Sabrina Fair," and the speech, music and art departments at Northeast State are preparing a production of "The King and I."

Musicals have caught imagination of the playgoing public here since Little Theatre's presentation of "The Boy Friend," a couple of seasons ago. This whoop-it up recap of the 1929's led to an "in the round" version of "Pajama Game" last season which had to run an extra week or more to take care of the demand. Such a spirit of teamwork developed among members of that cast until an unprecedented summer production of "Oklahoma" played in August of last year.

So this spring, there will be two musical comedies — both tuneful and colorful — in the works for Northeast Louisiana showgoers. If the demand demonstrated over the past two seasons continues, both should be well supported.

THE FINAL BALL

A Powerful Indictment Of The Material Life

THE FINAL BALL. By Gerd Gaiser. Translated from German by Marguerite Waldman. Pantheon. $3.95.

A paralyzed girl, who sits in a chair while life goes past; Soldner the teacher; the seamstress, mother of Korfiz; Paws Foerckh the go-getter; Herse Anderoth, mother of Diemut; and Ditta, Diemut's friend, tell us this story of the postwar, new-rich German town of Neu-Spuhl. It has suffered from 1939 to 1945, but it rebuilds, it gets a manufactury that pollutes the air; cars fill the streets; from the ruins rise pretentious modernist houses.

With the prosperity and the showiness come the prosperous, showy people.

The young folks are to end their season with a dance, and Gaiser's story leads up to that one dramatic evening. It begins in the war years, when Soldner still had his Rosamund, and when Herse was saying farewell to a husband who has never yet come back and to whom she remains movingly faithful. The old simple ways have vanished. A girl now must have an expensive dress for a dance. The wealthier youths form a dancing class exclusively for their own set. The best painting, the new generation is convinced, is the one with the highest price tag.

One boy, Rakitsch, is clearly unbalanced; an overseer is a brute; these could be met with in any land in any time. Gaiser writes more damagingly about the core of this little society, where the standards are the car, the yards of tulle in a party costume, the servile conformity. Shy, pretty Diemut, the staunch Soldner and the unhappy Herse are almost alone in preserving standards uncorrupted by the get-rick-quick new times. Music plays on to four in the morning, and under cover of an empty gaiety a life is taken, a life is forfeit, and hurts are suffered which can't be healed.

Gaiser cruelly indicts a town and townspeople content with tawdry material goals. The "mass-produced" man of Neu-Spuhl, he mocks, "makes money in its sleep, nevertheless strikingly resembles a human being. No expensive upkeep, inside genuinely synthetic." The perfect illustrations for this novel about post - World War II Germany would be the vitriolic caricatures of post-World War I Germany drawn by artist George Grosz.

POPULAR

"ROAD SHOW," Stan Kenton and his orchestra with June Christy and The Four Freshman. A 90 minute program recorded in concert at Purdue University. Capitol STBO - 1327 (stereo), TBO-1327 (LP). A two record album. On September 28, 1959, Stan Kenton, his orchestra, June Christy, and the Four Freshmen began a five-week road tour. On October 10, the group arrived at Purdue University and was in full swing. The fine acoustical properties of the Music Hall governed Capitol's choice of Purdue night as the time to record highlights of the cross-country tour. The hall permitted studio - like quality of recorded sound; and the large, appreciative audience provided the enthusiasm and spirit that helped these musicians and singers to deliver the outstanding performances heard in this album.

"A JOURNEY WITH THE TRAVELLERS." Kapp KL-1167 (LP), KS - 3051 (stereo). Vic Chung, Barbara Gannon and Byron Walls are the three young people who call themselves The Travellers. Originality is the keynote of their every song, which is put across with the sort of winning enthusiasm that will delight the most critical listener. Whenever they sing its for love and fun of it — a feeling which is transmitted to their audiences wherever they perform. The stereo effect is great for it puts these performers right in your own living room.

"BELOVED MELODIES OF STEPHEN FOSTER." John Gart at the Conn Electronic Organ, with The Southlanders. Kapp KL-1140 (LP), KS-3023 (stereo). Stephen Foster was able to touch the hearts of his fellow countrymen in a way that few others have ever done. His contribution to music earned the immortality for him that is normally reserved for a strictly 'classical' composer. John Gart brings you a new interpretation of these very popular melodies. The sound is clean and the stereo effect is above average.

CLASSICAL

BEETHOVEN: SYMPHONY NO. 7 IN A MAJOR, OP. 92. Georg Solti conducting The Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra. London CS 6093 (stereo). Beethoven's Seventh and Eighth Symphonies appeared in 1812 five years after the completion of the "Pastoral." The Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh viewed as a whole seem to make an important symphonic cycle: the Fifth with its dramatic tension, the Sixth with its gentle pastoral tranquility, and the Seventh with its irrepressible gaiety constitute a series that clearly indicates the scope of Beethoven's imagination. Georg Solti and the Vienna Philharmonic give a very splendid performance. The stereo is solid and well balanced.

FRANZ LEHAR: OPERETTA WITHOUT WORDS "THE MERRY WIDOW." Conrad Lieder conducting The Vienna Theater - Konzert Orchestra. Kapp KL-1151 (LP), KS-3035 (stereo). This three-act operetta was first performed in Vienna in 1905. Charming in music, dialogue and situation, it was a reigning favorite when first produced — both abroad and in New York and still remains in regular repertory. Franz Lehar began his career composing serious operas, but none of these were successful. The Merry Widow, his first light opera, made him world famous. The performance given by the Vienna Theater - Konzert Orchestra is excellent. The stereo is very well balanced.

LALO: SYMPHONIE ESPAGNOLE (OPUS 21), RAVEL: TZIGANE (1924). Ruggiero Ricci (Violin) with L'orchestre De Las Suisse Romande conducted by Ernest Ansermet. London CS 6134 (stereo). Here are two very pleasant works not so often heard. There is a beautiful balance between violin and orchestra in Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole. The stereo effect has plenty of depth which puts the orchestra a little behind Mr. Ricci. The works by Ravel opens with a long statement of the material by Mr. Ricci unaccompanied by the orchestra. The violinist exhibits his virtuosity very well in this selection.

'Face Lifting' Is Scheduled At State Park

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Chemin - A - Haut State Park located near Bastrop is scheduled for a special "face lifting" for the coming spring, according to an announcement by I. A. Talley, director of the Louisiana State Parks and Recreational Commission.

The state director said that some of the work has been completed and that the remainder will be finished in time for the forthcoming recreation season.

Visitors to the Chemin-A-Haut will find a new parking area adjacent to the swimming pool area; newly painted bath houses; new walks installed around the picnic shelters; and cabins renovated and painted, according to Talley.

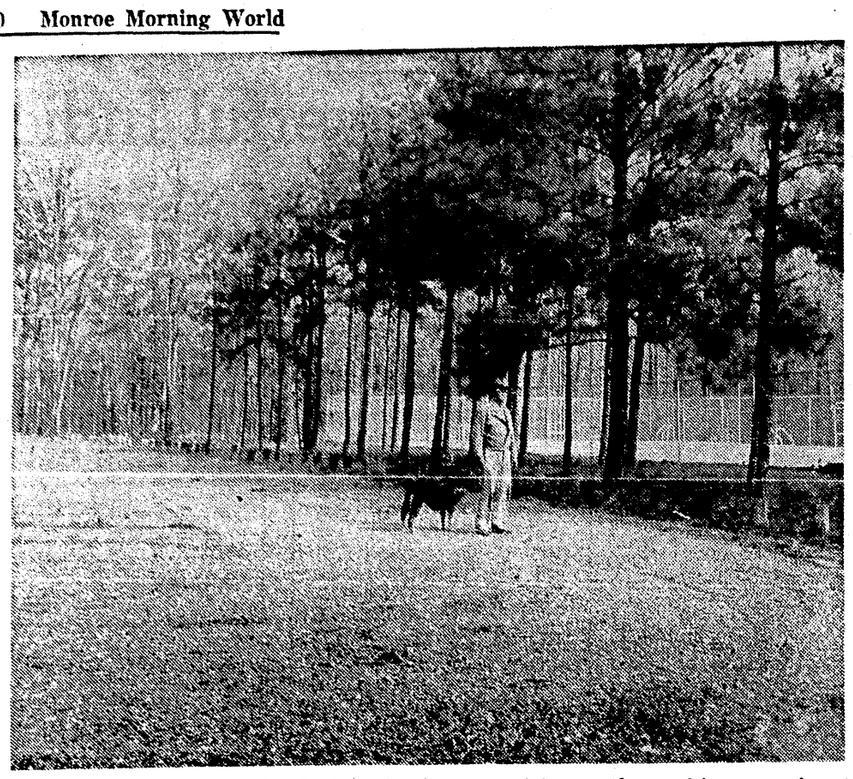
FACILITIES

In the tent and trailer area, Talley announced that two acres of land are being improved to be added to the present site and plans have been made for the addition of modern facilities in this area.

Also, the main lodge of the park has been renovated for the coming season.

Chemin-A-Haut State Park is located 10 miles north of Basirop and is composed of some 500 acres. It has an artifical lake stocked with many varieties of fresh water fish. More than 100,000 persons visited the park last year. S. E. Harrison is superintendent of the park.

Chemin-A-Haut State Park was established in 1936.



S. E. HARRISON superintendent of the Chemin-A-Haut State Park located near Bastrop, inspects the new parking area recently added to accommodate the many visitors. The parking area is adjacent to the swimming pool. Other improvements have been made at the park for the coming outdoor season.

"THANK YOU FOR THE TRUTH"

A word of thanks from behind the Iron Curtain

Today, at this very moment, 76 million oppressed people in captive nations behind the Iron Curtain are denied the truth. Their Red masters fear the truth because it is such a powerful weapon in the Cold War.

RADIO FREE EUROPE brings this truth. And RADIO FREE EUROPE is effective—proved by the many letters of thanks from the people of captive nations. But your dollars are needed!

Girl Admits Love Race Was Hoax

BANGOR, Wales (AP) — A pretty Welsh brunette said Saturday night a much-publicized love race between identical twin brothers—to decide which would lead her to the altar—was a hoax.

Jean Wowans, 19, gave this account: "We dreamed the whole thing up. It was a hoax from the start. We wanted to put Bangor on the map but we only expected the story to get in local Welsh papers."

Instead, the announced 104-mile race between Vaughn and Howard Clarke was given worldwide publicity.

The stunt was a climax to Rag week—a time of student high jinks at the University College of Bangor, where the twins and Miss Gowans are students.

Jean said her father, a local insurance broker, had pressed the three to "own up to things."

"Daddy is fuming," said Jean.

There never was a serious plan for an actual engagement, she added.

"It was just a gag," she said. "But it got out of hand."

Neighbors said they thought the youngsters got scared by the publicity stirred up.

"We are forced to say that the engagement will not now take place and the race is canceled," they announced.

IN EDUCATION

Teacher Training Critical Problem

Training teachers to provide quality instruction has become a critical problem in education, the Northeast Louisiana Reading Association was told yesterday at the organization's annual meeting on the Northeast State campus.

Dr. Gladys Jones of Nicholls State College urged the group in considering in-service training programs to examine present concepts and asses their adequacy for teaching reading.

No comprehensive study of preparation of teachers or of their effectiveness in the classroom has been made, according to Dr. Jones, associate professor of education and psychology at Nicholls and formerly a member of the Special Education faculty at Northeast.

SURVEYS

Spotty surveys, the speaker explained, indicate that:

1. A large number of elementary teachers have had little or no preparation in the area of reading instruction.

2. Despite having had a course or two in reading methods, their present knowledge is inadequate for demands placed upon readers in a complex society and for individual differences found in the classroom.

3. Most teachers lack professional training that enables them to identify particular abilities, needs and interests of many children.

4. Inadequate and faulty instruction can be blamed for a significant portion of difficulties in reading problems of children who read below their mental level.

5. Lack of knowledge on the part of teachers that children can be taught how to think and read critically, beginning with youngsters starting to school and continuing through college.

6. Emotional and educational damage which can be done to children and teachers when pupil loads are too large.

IMPLY NEED

Dr. Jones said "these conditions imply the need to be met by in-service training of teachers, principals, supervisors, superintendents and school board members in various units and systems."

The development of thinking citizens as the overall objective of education is not being currently achieved at its maximum level at the primary stage, the speaker asserted.

Evaluating the reading program in the broader program of thinking and learning activities in school, Dr. Jones advised the group to test, inventory and appraise. Where schools in the past have relied heavily upon the use of tests, especially standardized tests, as their sole appraisal of methods, today the informal teacher devises techniques which are becoming more characteristic of the modern education program.

The informal reading inventory is a recommended technique for helping youngsters to locate grade level difficulties and to plan an approach for attacking their problems, the speaker pointed out.

Knowledge gained from the application of evaluative techniques, Dr. Jones explained, can be used as criteria for grouping pupils in order to select activities that are stimulating to the learner. This knowledge can also be used as a basis for selecting appropriate teaching procedures to assure the learner the satisfying felling necessary to successful reading.

Evaluation techniques have aided in the detection of individual differences or pupils. As a result, materials can be selected to motivate the bright children and to interest the slow learning youngsters.

The need to educate gifted children demands early recognition in primary grades; the juvenile deliquent must be detected and provided for; the retarded reader needs to be located in order to provide situations which tend to reduce his chance for failure.

These problems should be considered as important factors of an in-service training program, Dr. Jones declared.

Secretaries Hold Meeting In Ouachita

The day-long affair was kicked off at 8:30 a.m. with registration, and at 9:30 Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard gave the invocation and welcome address to the NSA as the first seminar began.

Dr. Raymond P. Witte of Loyola University, New Orleans, was the principal speaker, discussed the place of the secretary in today's business world.

TOPICS

The four topics discussed were (1) The appearance of a secretary, led by Mrs. Mabs Jolissaint; (2) How the secretary acts, led by Jim Williams; (3) How she does her work, led by Mrs. Edna Roop from Shreveport, and (4) The professional secretary, with D. E. Vines leading from Northeast College.

At noon a luncheon on the Roof of the hotel was served, and a style show presented by Mrs. Mabs Jolissaint, of Patricia Stevens Charm School followed.

The latest business machines, typewriters, and bookkeeping machines were exhibited and demonstrated by local firms.

At 2 p.m. Mrs. Pauline H. Peters, CPS, from Dallas, Texas, spoke on the "The Secretary Charts her Course".

There were 150 members present for the affair from the Ouachita chapter and sister chapters in Shreveport, Alexandria, and New Orleans. Co-Chairman Beverly Dodson said the NSA seminar would become an annual event because of the success of the one held yesterday.

UNUSUAL PETS

KENILWORTH, N. J. (AP) — Jack Birgel runs a pet shop but says he has two personal pets that are not for sale.

One of his prize possessions is an albino lung fish, native of Africa. The other is a giant fruit-eating Indian bat.

The fish, about 28 inches long, is said to be one of only six ever found and one of the two live ones known to be in existence. Birgel values it at about $1,000.

The bat, which has 30-inch wingspread, consumes its weight in food daily. Birgel says he has been able to train it and has given it the freedom of the house.

LIKES HIS MEDICINE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The "prescription" wasn't in the traditional Latin but druggist Thomas H. Garnett got the message.

A man handed him a note which read "This is a stickup." "Now," said the robber, "fill that prescription."

Mississippi Highest In Church Count

By LEWIS LORD
United Press International

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Mississippi, known by many as the state with the lowest per capita income, has a distinction few persons are aware of: It has more churches than any other state.

Such was revealed recently by the social science center at Mississippi State University, which made a study of churches throughout the state.

In Mississippi there were only 289 persons per church in 1957, compared with a national average of 814 persons, the study showed.

Omitting Catholic and Jewish groups, the number of persons per church in the state totaled 279. That's 25 less than the total of the runnerup, North Dakota. South Carolina and Alabama were third and fourth respectively

Northeast Triumphs In Coliseum Relays

Indian Thinclads Break 6 Records

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (Special) — Led by the wing-footed Styron twins, Northeast's record-setting track team made a shambles of the Coliseum Relays here Saturday night, romping to a surprisingly easy victory over university competition.

The Styrons, Don and Dave, carried a personal assault on the meet record books, setting four new marks between them. Don established new records in the 60-yard high and low hurdles and shared a new figure for the 60-yard dash. Northeast's John Pennell, a freshman, broke the standing pole vault mark and sophomore distance man Buddy Elland toured the two-mile run in a record pace.

Northeast ran away in the team scoring, compiling 43 points for a wide margin over runnerup Kentucky which netted 20. Defending champion Florida State was third with 16, Alabama fourth with 11 and Georgia Tech fifth with nine. Following in order were Georgia and Auburn with seven points, Clemson with 4, Memphis State and Mississippi State with 2 each.

The terrific twins scored 21 points of the Northeast total and helped add five more by running the first and final legs of the winning mile relay.

A total of eight records received new entries in the annual meet. Other record performances were turned in by Ed Nuttig of Georgia Tech in the shot put, Roger Gunn of Kentucky in the 880-yard run and Mark Carr of Georgia in the bread jump.

Northeast freshman Jerry Dyes topped the previous bread jump record in an earlier event, only to see his effort erased on Carr's final jump of the night.

The Styrons, considered top prospects for the coming summer Olympics, battled almost to a standoff in the 60-yard dash. Don ran the sprint in 6.3 seconds in a preliminary event to top the old mark of 6.4 and Dave came back in the final to edge his brother in the same time.

Don twice broke the old 60-yard low hurdle record, turning in identical times of 6.9 in preliminary and final events. The old record was 7.2, tied by Dave in a qualifying race.

Pennell, in his first college competition, cleared the bar at 14 feet, ¾ inches to win the pole vault at a record height. He later topped the 14 feet, 4 inch mark which was disallowed.

Elland, the steady soph injured in an auto accident last year, was hit by the flu only Friday and spent much of yesterday in bed before his brilliant two-mile victory. His time of 9.33.5 bettered the old mark of 9:41.9 set by Fred Abbington of Vanderbilt.

Northeast's crack mile relay team, two-time winners in the Sugar Bowl, wound up the meet with a first place berth in 3:29.4. The Indian foursome, which had been clocked in 3:15 for the event last year, was hampered by a winded Dave Styron, still suffering from the after affects of the flu.

Jim Mouser and Dick Hays, other members of the mile squad along with the Styrons, turned an outstanding job. Hays was clocked in 2:01.3 for the 880-yard dash in a qualifying run and finished third in the finals. Mouser finished third in the preliminary event behind Gunn's record time and E. G. Plummer of Kentucky, former holder of the mark.

Bradley Finds North Texans Easy Target

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Second-ranked Bradley outshot and outran North Texas State Saturday night for a 69-39 victory that kept the Braves and top-ranked Cincinnati tied for first place in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Cincinnati defeated Houston 57-47 with Paul Hogue scoring 22 points while Oscar Robertson was limited to 14.

The Braves hit 31.7 per cent from the field throughout the game, with many of their points coming on a smooth, fast break. North Texas wound up hitting only 26.4 per cent.

Bradley spread its scoring evenly with four men shooting between 13 and 17 points. Chet Walker was the high man. The Eagles' top scorer was Darrell Rieitzel with 2.

DODSON, La. (Special) —Dodson High School will sponsor an independent basketball tournament the first week in March, coach Buddy Bates announced this week.

Originally slated for some time in February, the meet was switched to March because of bad weather. The tourney will open Mar. 1 at 6 p.m. and after a one - day layoff will resume Thursday night and continue through Saturday night.

Deadline for entries is noon Friday. Tournament fees, payable with entries, will be $10. Cash awards of $20, $15 and $10 will be made to first, second and third place teams.

Team records and desired times should be submitted with the entry, Bates said.

Bucks Barely Trip Spartans In Big 10 Duel

EAST LANDING, Mich. (AP) —Fourth-ranked Ohio State remained unbeaten in Big Ten Conference play Saturday night but had to battle to the wire before subduing Michigan State 84-83 on Jerry Lucas' foul shot in the waning seconds of the game.

The Buckeyes, 19-2 over-all, now have won 11 straight in Big Ten competition play. If they sweep 14 games, they will be the first league team since the 1942-43 Illinois "Whiz Kids" to go undefeated.

Then, Lucas, Ohio State outstanding sophomore and a candidate for All - America honors, dumped in one to make it 84-81.

Michigan State's Horace Walker was able to get in one final basket in the last seven seconds to account for the final score.

The game was a scoring duel all the way between Lucas, 6-foot-8, and Walker, 6-foot-3 senior. Lucas outscored Walker, 28 to 23 points, however.

Suggs Grabs Big Lead At Lake Worth

LAKE WORTH, Fla. (AP) — Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., bested par again Saturday in the $7,500 Lake Worth Women's Invitational, firing a 69 for a 54-hole total of 210 and a five-stroke lead.

Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., the defending champion, shot a 1-over-par 72 for 25 and second place. She blamed her iron play for landing her in five traps.

Her score for the first eight holes was par. On the ninth hole, the veteran golfer missed a 4-foot putt for a bogey. On the second nine, she missed another short putt on the 12th hole and a 6-footer that would have given her a birdie on the 10th.

She sank birdies on the 13th and 14th with putts of 10 and 12 feet. On the 16th, she just missed another birdie.

It was her second straight sub-par round. She went out in 36 and came back in 33. A stiffness in her neck, she said, was improving.

Play was over the 5,654-yard par 70 Lake Worth Course.

Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., who won the St. Petersburg Open Sunday and led here opening day, withdrew because of an eye injury. Miss Hanson was hurt Friday while playing with a dog.

AFTER 25 YEARS

Old Indoor Jump Mark Shattered

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Irvin (Bo) Roberson smashed the world indoor broad jump record—the oldest on the books—with a leap of 25 feet, 9½ inches Saturday night and Hal Connolly shattered the record in the 35-pound weight throw with a toss of 71 feet, 2½ inches in the National AAU Track and Field Championships.

It was a quarter of a century ago, Feb. 23, 1935, to be exact, that Jesse Owens set the indoor mark of 25-9 in this same meet. It has withstood the challenge of the years until now.

But Roberson, an ex - Cornell football player and now officer at Fort Lee, Va., still has a long way to go before he can challenge Owens' outdoor broad jump record of 26-8¼ which also was set in 1935.

Roberson became a really top broad jumper last summer when he won the Pan-American gold medal with a 26-2 effort. This was the high of his career.

Bo made his record - breaking jump on his first try in the final round. Three of his jumps were over 25 feet.

Mike Herman of the New York Pioneer Club, the defending champion, could do no better than third with a 24-8¾ leap (in the trials) behind Ralph Boston of Tennessee A&M.

"I was a little disappointed," said the 24-year-old Roberson. "I had hoped to do better."

Still, it was far better than his best previous indoor effort of 24-7¾.

"It was a feeling of accomplishment, breaking Owens' record," he admitted. "But I wouldn't exactly call it a thrill since I disappointed myself."

"I think I can do 27 feet or better indoors and I definitely hope to go over 27 feet in the Olympics."

The weight throw record by the 23-year-old English teacher from Santa Monica, Calif. cracked another "impossible" barrier in track and field, just like the 4-minute mile and the 60-foot shotput.

German Skiers Wreck U.S. In Women's Downhill Run

By TED SMITS

Associated Press Sports Editor

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — The combined German team wrecked U.S. hopes in the women's downhill ski race Saturday and captured two gold medals in a surprise show of strength at the Winter Olympic Games.

Heidi Beibl, an 18-year-old fraulein from West Germany, sped down the mile and one-eighth course in 1 minute, 37.6 seconds to nose out the No. 1 American hope, Penny Pitou of Gilford, N.H. who clocked 1:38.6.

To add to the American disappointment, Betsy Snite of Norwich, Vt., Penny's roommate and ranked with her as one of the worlds best took a bad spill and had to be helped from the course.

The United States collected an unexpected bronze medal in the 500-meter speed skating, won by Mrs. Helga Haase, a 25-year-old housewife from Communist East Germany. Mrs. Haase, a mother, won in 45.9 seconds, shading Natalija Denchenko of Russia, :46 flat, and Jeanne Ashworth of Wilmington, Mass., a 21-year-old Tufts College student who was third in :46.1.

The Soviet Union scored a 1-2-3-4 sweep in the ladies 10-kilometer (6 1-5 miles) ski race and jumped into a commanding lead in the battle for unofficial team honors. The Russians, with five events complete, have a total of 38½ points compared with 27 for second place Germany, 19 for Sweden and 13 each for the United States and Canada. Points are based on 10 for first, 5 for second, 4 for third, 3 for fourth, 2 for fifth and 1 for sixth.

Marija Gusakova, a 29-year-old Leningrad dressmaker, led the strong Russian delegation in the cross-country, winning in 39 mintes, 49 seconds. The United States had no representatives in this event.

At the Blyth Arena, Carol Heiss of Ozone Park, N.Y., the world's figure skating queen, took the first steps toward her conceded Olympic title. She went through the first two of her six compulsory figures almost flawlessly. She skates for the championship next Tuesday.

The downhill race was a bitter blow to the United States.

Miss Pitou was first down the course — considered a disadvantage in skiing—and almost lost her balance near the finish.

She brushed off congratulations on winning a silver medal for second place by saying:

"Thank you. I'm sorry it wasn't gold. I lost all my time on the corners."

The most surprised contestant was Miss Biebl, a tiny miss who works as a clerk in a ski factory at Oberstaufen.

I could almost cry with happiness," she said. "I took the gate up there completely wrong and came almost to a standstill."

Back of Miss Hiedl and Miss Pitou came game little Traudl Hecher of Austria, third in 1:38.9. She raced despite an injured ankle.

Two other U.S. entrants fell and finished far down in the field of 43. Joan Hannah of Franconia, N.H., was timed in 1:47.9 and Linda Meyers of Bishop, Calif., in 1:53.6.

In figure skating, Miss Heiss took a commanding lead with an aggregate of 262.8 points. Teammate Barbara Roles of Temple City, Calif., was second with 246.9.

Two more figures will be skated Sunday and two Monday with the spectacular free skating finals on Tuesday. School figures count for 60 per cent in the final score.

In hockey, the United States Friday night beat favored Czechoslovakia 7-5.

Also on Sunday's schedule are the biathlon, a combined skiing and shooting competition in which the Russians are favored; the women's 1500-meter speed skating and the combined ski jumping. Americans aren't expected to fare well in any of these events.

MARIJA GUSAKOVA of the Soviet Union crosses the finish line at McKinney Creek yesterday apparent winner of the ladies' 10 kilometer cross country race on the second day of Winter Olympic competition. Unofficial results indicated the Russian team took the first four places. (AP Wirephoto)

Braves Bag Buhl

MLWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves Saturday night signed pitcher Bob Buhl to a contract for 1960.

Buhl, who had a 15-9 record last year, became the 26th member of the club under contract for the coming season.

Some Baby Pays

LONDON (AP) — Some Baby came through royally Saturday at Lingfield, paying 5-1 to horse race bettors mindful of Great Britain's day-old prince.

But Handsome Prince and Welcome Tidings, other favorites of the sentimental bettors, were out of the money in another race.

BUCHHOLZ TRIUMPHS

Fraser Ousted In National Tourney

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Buchholz, 19-year-old U.S. Davis Cupper, blasted Neale Fraser, the world's leading amateur 5-7, 11-9, 6-4 Saturday to reach the semifinal round of the National Indoor Tennis Championships.

And Cup teammate Chuck McKinley, another 19-year-old, also registered a quarter-final upset, 6-8, 6-1, 7-5 over Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn.

McKinley, a freshman at Trinity University in Texas, fought off three set points for his triumph over Holmberg, the No. 3 domestic seed.

In Sunday's semifinals, McKinley, who resides in St. Ann., Mo., a St. Louis suburb, will meet Dick Savitt of New York, top-seeded American and two-time winner of the tournament. Savitt gained his spot by halting Andres Gimeno of Spain, 10-8, 6-2.

Buchholz, who comes from St. Louis, goes against his Cup mate, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, who had surprisingly little trouble with Roy Emerson, Fraser's Aussie teammate, 6-2, 6-3.

MacKay was seeded No. 2 on the American list, Buchholz No. 4. Emerson was No. 3 among the foreigners and Gimeno No. 4. All the foreigners have been eliminated.

Holmberg was the second of the seeded players knocked out by McKinley, the only unseeded entry in the semis, Friday night. Chuck eliminated Sweden's Ulf Schmidt, No. 3 on the foreign list and 1956 champion.

In the tenth game of the third set Saturday, McKinley found himself down 0-40 on his service. One more point and the match was Holmberg's. But it never came.

"I told myself: 'This is a fast court, so try for the ace,'" said McKinley.

That he did and it whizzed past Holmberg's ears. Then he hit an unreturnable smash and it was 30-40. Another ace and it was deuce. Then a cross-court volley for advantage. Finally, Holmberg overshot a lob and the game was McKinley's.

Holmberg fell apart after that and lost his service at love, and McKinley, confident now ran it out in a hurry in the 12th game.

Fraser, who won the American grass court title last year a week after burying the Americans practically single - handedly in the Davis Cup, knew he was in for a battle from the start.

He won the first set only after breaking in the 11th game with two passing spots. Then, in the second set, Buchholz broke in the first game only to have Fraser break back in the seventh.

But Butch ran it out in the 20th game when he broke again. In the third set, Buchholz scored the only break in the 10th game—and that was the one that decided it.

"No excuses," said Fraser. "He outplayed me. I had two foot faults called on me. Before this, I've had only two foot faults called on me in the last seven years."

Twyman Hits 2,000 Mark In Cincy Win

CINCINNATI (AP)—Jack Twyman Saturday became the fourth player in National Basketball Assn. history to score 2,000 points in a season as he tallied 40 in a 110-107 victory by the Cincinnati Royals over the Detroit Pistons.

Twyman's performance gave him a season total of 2,033. Only George Yardley, Bob Pettit and Wilt Chamberlain have scored as many as 2,000 points in a season. It was Twyman who broke the Royals out of a 104-104 tie with 2:58 to go. He hit four points and Phil Jordon got two to give the Royals a lead that stood up.

Early in the first quarter, however, the Pistons had as much as a 15-point lead. The Royals closed the deficit to 30-32 at the quarter and led 59-53 at the half. They still were ahead at 85-84 going into the final quarter.

Jordon and Arlen Bockhorn pitched in 43 points between them to aid Twyman in the scoring effort. Jordon got 23 and Bockhorn 20.

District NAIA Event Slated For Grambling

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Coach Fred Hobdy and his Grambling Tigers will have to ride with a tight rein and a velvety touch to buck the Dillard Blue Devils from their lofty perch in the NAIA district 6 tournament here Friday and Saturday.

The 4,500 seat Grambling Gymnasium was selected as the tournament site Friday.

Dillard (20-1), Grambling (20-4), Southern University (15-9) and Hudson-Tillotson 14-7) will vie for honors where the wrong bounce of the ball could put either team in a precarious spot.

Grambling and Dillard are bing underlined as strong favorites. But area fans have divided themselves into seemingly contradictory groups. The Tigers beat Dillard for NAIA honors last spring.

The articulate segment has picked Grambling while other groups are pointing in the general direction of Dillard and, Southern. With typical optimism, Huston-Tillotson is being given an outside chance.

Elliott Burch, trainer of Sword Dancer, once majored in English at Yale then switched to animal husbandry at the University of Kentucky.

FIVE BIG MEETS

Tough Track Slate Faces Southwestern

LAFAYETTE, La. (Special) — SLI Track Coach and Southwestern Relays Director Bob Evans, yesterday released one of the finest track schedules the Bulldogs have had in some time. Five big meets, highlighted by the 32nd annual Southwestern Relays, are listed with three dual meets and three triangular affairs filling out the season.

The initial meet is on March 26 when the Bulldogs go to Lake Charles against McNeese and Southeastern. On Thursday, March 31, Southeastern will come to Lafayette for the Bulldogs first home appearance.

Tulane and Mississippi College will go against SLI in New Orleans in what will be SLI's final chance to get into tip-top shape for the big Southwestern Relays, which many proclaim the best in the South, to be held in Lafayette, April 7, 8, and 9.

Don Bragg, holder of the world's indoor record in the pole vault, has already agreed to participate in the Relays and several other "Big Name" attractions have been contacted and are seriously considering appearing in the meet.

The Northwestern Relays are next for the Bulldogs, followed by the big LSU Invitational in Baton Rouge, April 23. Louisiana held at SLI will take place Wednesday, May 4, when McNeese and Northwestern tangle with the Bulldogs at home.

The Bulldogs close out the season with the big SAAU meet in Baton Rouge, a dual meet with SLC in Hammond, and the GSC Meet in Lake Charles.

Freshman will play an important role on this year's Bulldog trackteam. Dan Fusilier, Jim Collins, and Dick Bedell, all freshmen, will all be in the middle distance events with Jim Spirros and Robert McJimsey both darkhorses.

Big John Price, a 220 pound freshman, should be tough in the shot putt and discus and Ray Ronquillo, last year's second highest scorer, back to throw the discus after placing second in the GSC last season, give the Bulldogs a boost in the field events.

But the biggest help in the field events will come from Bob Hartquist, hailed as probably the best javalin thrower in the South.

Hartquist holds the Southwestern Relays record in the javalin and consistenty hits 200 feet or better.

High jumpers Larry Simon and Gale Hopkins should get points for the Bulldogs and Joe Calloway and Jim Davidson will be jumping in the poll vault.

The Bulldogs appear to be of medium strength in the middle distance events, rather strong in the field, and weak in the sprints. But Coach Bob Evans thinks it should mold into a fair track team.

OJH Quintet, Jefferson's Girls Victors

The Ouachita Junior High boys repulsed the efforts of Jefferson to sweep the Ouachita Junior Basketball Tournament's top awards last night. The host quintet stopped Jefferson, 38-34, in the title final after Jefferson's sextet had defeated Bastrop, 46-22 in the championship scrap of girls' division. Ouachita and Jeffferson are rival Monroe schools.

Slusher led the Ouachita boys in the final with 15 points, but Canal of Jefferson was the game's high scorer with 19. Couson, with 30 points, led the Jefferson girls, and Rogers was high scorer for Bastrop with six.

In yesterday's semi-finals of the tourney that had been in progress three days, Ouachita's boys beat Lee of Monroe, 25-24, and Jefferson beat West Monroe, 21-17. Leading scorers were Slusher, Ouachita, 12; Irvin, Lee, 7; Canal, Jefferson, 13, and Roberson, West Monroe, 8.

Jefferson's girls beat Lee, 33-21, in the only semi - final of the day in their division as Couson led with 22 points. Crow paced Lee with ten. Lee also fell in the girls' consolation, Ouachita notching a 15-12 victory as McCaa led with seven. Ensminger led Lee with four.

The boys' consolation was won by Lee in a 25-23 conquest of West Monroe. Garrett was high scorer for Lee with 13. Williams led West Monroe with seven.

College visits SLI on the 28th of April for a dual meet in Lafayette.

San Felipe's Purse Taken By Flow Line

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Flow Line, a rambunctious California colt, Saturday won the $58,300 San Felipe Handicap and became a major threat to capture the $100,000-added Santa Anita Derby next month.

Jockey Bill Boland made it a wire-to-wire victory on Flow Line by 3½ lenths over T.V. Lark, with John William third.

The time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:42 2-5.

Flow Line paid $9.60, $7.20 and $5.40; T.V. Lark $9.20 and $5.40, and John William $4.80.

COACH OPTIMISTIC

U.S. Expected To Sweep Track-Field In Olympics

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio, (AP) — The United States will dominate the track-field sector of the Olympics starting Aug. 31 in Rome.

So said Larry Snyder, silver-thatched Ohio State mentor who will be head coach of Uncle Sam's cinder stars in the Summer Games, as he looked over the potential field Saturday.

Snyder conceded the USSR could dominate the distance events, that foreign athletes attending American universities could be a definite threat, but said American speed in the sprints and hurdles would be the deciding factor.

"I have great confidence in our boys and our educational system," Snyder said. "I've always felt that you need a good, strong body to house a good strong mind, and our system provides that. As little kids our Americans want to be athletes, and from junior high on through college they get the finest of coaching. I like it that way."

Snyder, who has watched three of his Buckeye greats pick up nine Olympic gold medals — Jesse Owens, Mal Whitfield and Glenn Davis—says making the U.S. team will be a bit tougher this time due to the standards of entry which set up times and distances which must be matched by qualifiers.

Final tryouts are scheduled July 1 and 2 at Stanford, but the first three in each event will not qualify automatically. All three must meet the standard to make the trip to Italy, and some of the times are red hot.

Snyder cited one instance. In 1948 and 1952 Ohio State's Mal Whitfield won the 800-meter event in 1:49.2, the best any Olympic winner had ever done. In 1956 Tom Courtney of the U.S. team lowered it to 1:47.7—but to even qualify for this year's 800-meter the entrants must match Whitfield's time, which has been bettered only once in the international contests.

Among other standards which must be met are :09.5 for the 100-yard dash :21.4 for the 220, :47.6 for the quarter-mile, 4:02 for the mile, 6 feet 8¾ inches for the high jump, and 24 feet 7¼ inches for the broad jump.

Should none of the entrants in the Stanford tryouts match the standards, only the winner of the tests would be permitted to go to Rome, since each country is allowed one entrant in each event regardless of time or distance.

The United States has always had trouble in races from 1,500 meters on up, and Snyder said difficulties could start this time with the 800-meter. No American has ever won the 1,500-meter, 5,000-meter or 10,000-meter runs, or any of the walking events ranging from 3,000 to 50,000 meters.

"The hop-step-jump is definitely an event in which our athletes do not excel," Snyder said, "and the hammer throw and steeplechase are strangers in most of our meets. But the Olympic standards will be a boost for us in our weaker events, since our distance runners and the others will be competing against the clock and the tape as well as against live opponents—and they must beat both to make the grade.

Snyder said the new standards, and a chance at the Olympics, would cause some changes in American meets this year.

"Coaches who have outstanding prospects in running events," he said, "probably will want them to participate in individual events rather than relays. When the weather gets good, every opportunity a man has to run his specialty will enhance his chances of equalling or bettering the Olympic standards."

The Ohio coach, a stunt flyer after serving in the Air Corps in World War I, isn't adverse to the unofficial awarding of points and the naming of champions in the Olympics—or to the inclusion of some minor sports in the final ratings.

"The press is going to award points and name a champion no matter what the Olympic officials say, so we might as well accept it," he said. "After all, the NCAA didn't recognize team champions for quiet a while, but has now accepted such ratings and no one is the worse for it.

"As to the inclusion of minor events in the modern games, that's all right with me. The original Olympics included such things as art, poetry and wrestling and no one worried about it."

Grambling Football Schedule Released

By COLLIE J. NICHOLSON

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Coach Eddie Robinson released the 1960 Grambling College football schedule Saturday and hinted that the Tigers might return to the free-wheeling, wide-open attack that made them the scourge of the area during the past decade.

Last year Robinson junked his ancient single-wing for a new wing-T alignment and finished the season a disillusioned man, winning only three games.

Icy practicability will probably dictate a return to a multiple offense featuring solid fundamentals and devasting blocking and tackling, aimed at grabbing short, sure yardage.

Robinson is cautiously drawing battle plans and will concentrate on running attacks in spring drills.

Passing will become a threat rather than the chief dependence, he said.

One of the shrewdest coaches in the business, he has supplemented his art with a fiercely efficient talent for administration and an instinctive comprehension of the sport to win 120 games, while losing 55 and tying six in 19 seasons.

In releasing the schedule, Robinson said the Tigers will be capable of throwing the Southwestern Conference grid picture into complete confusion in September.

Sept. 17—Bishop College, Home.
Sept. 24—Tex College, Tyler, Tex.
Oct. 1—South. Univ, Baton Rouge.
Oct. 8—Tenn. State, Home.
Oct. 15—Miss. Voc., Itta Bena, Miss.
Oct. 24—Prairie View (La. Fair), Shreveport
Oct. 29—Jackson State (Homecoming), Here.
Nov. 5—Tex. Southern, Houston, Texas.
Nov. 12—Arkansas AM&N, Here
Nov. 19—Wiley College, Here

Speedsters Rout Celtics To Win Junior Tourney

The Speedsters crushed the Celtics, 48-34, yesterday afternoon to take first place honors in the annual junior basketball tournament sponsored by the Monroe Recreation Department.

The Speedsters had downed College Place "B" squad, 37-23, earlier in the day to gain the finals. Warlick and Kilcke scored 9 points apiece in the win and Sims connected for 17 counters in the losing effort.

The Celtics whipped the Rebels, 40-36, in the other semifinal contest. Miller with 21 points led the Celtics while Barrios netted 15 for the Confederates.

COPS WIDENER 'CAP

Bald Eagle Sets Hialeah Record

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cain Hoy Stable's Bald Eagle came flying into the stretch, overtook the leaders, and went on to win the $126,000 Widener Handicap Saturday and set a track record.

A Hialeah crowd of 35,014 made Bald Eagle the 6-5 favorite over Sword Dancer and the big, long-striding, 5-year-old son of Nasrullah ran the mile and a quarter in 1:59 3-5 to shatter the old mark of 2:01 set by El Mono in 1948.

Calmut Farm's On-and-On finished second, three quarters of a length back of Bald Eagle. Ada L. Rice's Talent Show was third.

Frank J. Recio's Noble Sel, a Florida-bred, was fourth and Elmendorf's Day Court finished fifth, followed by Claiborne Farm's Dunce, Brookmeade's Sword Dancer and his stablemate, Oligarchy.

Bald Eagle, second to On-and-On in the recent McLennan, was back in the pack early in the running of this 32rd Widiner but moved to third as they turned for home and had plenty left to overtake On-and-On and Day Court in a great stetch run.

Bald Eagle, carrying 123 pounds with Manuel Ycaza up, paid $4.70, $2.60 and $2.40. On-and-On returned $3.30 and $3, Talent Show $5.30.

Betting on the race was a thumping $445,920, far above the old Hialeah record set on Widener Day in 1956 at $332,660. Betting on the daily double also set a new track record of $280,685.

Fractional times for the Widener were :23 3-5, :46 4-5, 1:10 1-5 and 1:35 1-5.

Bald Eagle's winning share was $79,700.

Ycaza, the 22-year-old Panamanian, said Bald Eagle "got out of the gate good, and when I asked him to run he was good and strong."

Eddie Arcaro, who flew from California to ride Sword Dancer, the '59 horse of the year, said the Dancer "was completely empty. I felt like I had nothing under me. I don't think weight (129) had anything to do with it. You could have put one pound on him and he still wouldn't have run."

Former President Harry S. Truman appeared briefly in the winner's circle while the trophy was being presented to Harry Guggenheim of New York, owner of Cain Hoy Stable, by George D. Widener, nephew of the late Joseph E. Widener for whom the race was named.

Bald Eagle's track record performance was the second of the day. In the fifth, Victoria Park did the trick with a smashing triumph that made him the favorite over Bally Ache in next Saturday's $100,000 added Flamingo.

Victoria Park blazed a mile and a sixteenth in 1:40 3-5 to knock 1 4-5 seconds off the Hialeah mark held by Troilus and Greek Page.

Bally Ache and Greek Page, another Flamingo eligible, set a blistering pace in the fifth race and ran each other down. Victoria Park laid back, then came on to pass the leaders and win by 2½ lengths. Bally Ache was second and Cuvier Relic third.

Victoria Park, owned by E.P Taylor of Toronto, Canada, recorded fractional times of :21 4-5, :44 1-5, 1:08 4-5 and 1:33 4-5 in his first start since Nov. 11. He carried 118 pounds and was ridden by Manuel Ycaza.

Bald Eagle's victory was the third of the day for Ycaza, who rode Salason in the second and Victoria Park in the fifth. Bill Hartack, Hialeah's leading rider with 41, also had a triple with Mince Pie in the sixth, Quiz Star in the eighth and Kathy Kim in the ninth.

The crowd shoved $2,839,716 through the parimutuel machines, shattering the old Hialeah record of $2,783,676, set on Widener Day in 1956 when the appearance of Nashua packed in a crowd of 42,366, still Hialeah's alitime record turnout.

Aaron Meets Harvey In Tourney Final

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., and Bill Harvey of Greensboro, N.C., won semifinal matches Saturday in the National Tournament of Golf Club Champions.

They will meet for the title in a 36-hole match Sunday.

Aaron, a member of the U.S. Walker Cup team, said he is just getting used to the contact lenses he started wearing a couple weeks ago. His expert putting attested to the truth of his statement as he shot subpar golf in beating Truman Connell of Jupiter, Fla., 5 and 4.

Harvey opened his match with John Eisinger of Washington, D.C. with birdies on the first two holes and contined to score well all the way in winniung 7 and 6.

On the morning 18 Harvey was five strokes under par 71 for the 6,545-yard Ponce de Leon Course and went 3-up. He again birdied the first two holes this afternoon and kept a commanding lead the rest of the way.

Aaron shot 69 in the morning round and was 4-up on Connell. Aaron increased it to 6-p after 27 holes and coasted in. Connell won only two holes in the afternoon—the 26th when Aaron's driver broke as he swung at the ball and the 31st when Aaron had trap trouble.

Purvis Named To Southern Hall Of Fame

FERRIDAY, La. (Special) — Tommy Purvis, former Ferriday High School gridiron star halfback, who made most of the all-state teams in Louisiana when he romped the field for the Bulldogs, has won additional honors.

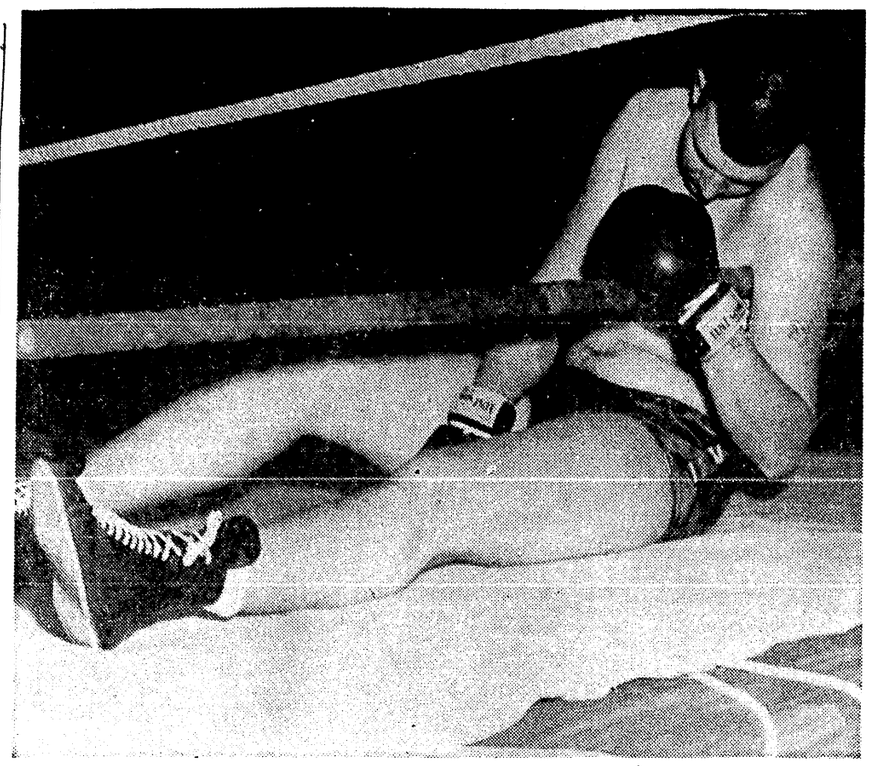
Purvis, a three-year-letterman, has been named to the Mississippi Southern Hall of Fame. In addition to being a standout football performer for the varsity team at Mississippi Southern, Purvis is also rated as a near-All A student at the college.

The Ferriday youth is a pre-medical student and he plans to enter medical school in New Orleans in September. He played on Southern's only near perfect record football team during his gridiron career. He is acting as a student coach during present spring football practice.

A member of Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership fraternity, he is also affiliated with Phi Ega Sigma, scholastic society; and Pi Kappa Kappa Pi, scholarship society.

He is also a supreme court justice at the school and is listed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges".

Local and area friends and relatives are congratulating young Purvis on his latest honors. He is spending the week-end holidays here with members of his family and watched one of the workouts last Friday afternoon of his alma mater, the Ferriday High School Bulldogs.



JUMP'S NOT JUMPING, in fact, Dick Jump, 229-pound heavyweight from South Sioux City, Neb., slumps against the ropes as if he were snoozing. Reason for the snooze was a beating at the hands of Bill Nielson of Omaha in the Midwest Golden Gloves tourney at Omaha, Neb. Nielson was credited with a TKO at 28 seconds of the second round and given a berth in the semifinals. (AP Wirephoto)

HARRISON STROKE AWAY

January Uses Late Birdie To Take Charge At Tucson

By MURRAY SINCLAIR

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Don January dropped a birdie on the last hole Saturday to take a one-stroke lead in the $20,000 Tucson Open Golf Tournament with a 54-hole 8-under-par total of 202.

January's 225-yard wood shot to the green left him 25 feet from the hole. He two putted for his birdie 4 and 63.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the host pro for the 6413 yard, par 70 El Rio course blazed home in a 5-under-par for a 203 total and second place.

Dave Marr, Cedarhurst, N.Y., the 36-hole leader, had been in a duel with January all afternoon. They came to the last green tied. Marr took a bogey 6 on the hole for the 1-over-par 71 and a total of 204.

Both January and Marr needed pars to tie with the veteran Harrison, who was already in the clubhouse. Marr's approach was headed for a trap when it rolled into a crowd of spectators and stopped on the fairways. His chip went over the green and he needed three putts.

January, of Denver, Colo., hasn't won a PGA scheduled tournament since his rookie year in 1956 when he captured the Dallas Centennial. This year he had planned to make the Carribean tour but stayed home to collect enough points to make the Masters.

He started out tied with Tom Nieporte, Bronxville, N.Y., one stroke behind Marr. Nieporte quickly blew himself out of contention with bogies on the second and third holes.

January forged ahead when he dropped a 35-yard wedge shot for a birdie on the 205-yard eighth hole. Marr went one over par.

"I'd like to forget that last nine," Marr said. "I took three strokes on the edge of the green three times—on the 10th, 14th and 17th."

January had finished strongly each day, making five birdies on the last two holes. He has birdied the 18th three days in a row.

Harrison barely missed a 4-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th green that would have put him in a first-place tie.

"But I dropped an 18-footer on No. 17 and a 20-footer on the third hole so I can't complain," he said. "It was just a case of shooting good golf from start to finish."

MAINTAIN SEC LEAD

Ga. Tech Nips Bulldogs, 69-68

By HARRY J. STATHOS

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI)—Georgia Tech's eighth ranked Jackets staved off a desperate last minute attack by Georgia's Bulldogs Saturday night to win 69-68 and remain in a tie for first place in the Southeastern Conference.

Trailing 40-36 at halftime, the Jackets put on a 14-point drive to move out in front 50-46 early in the second half. But the Bulldogs, aiming for an upset win over their arch rivals, rallied to come within one point of Tech.

With only two minutes left, the Jackets moved into a four-point lead, 67-63 and began freezing the ball.

When Georgia's flashy guard, Allan Johnson tried to steal the ball from Roger Kaiser, he fouled the Tech ace and Kaiser sank two free throws with deadly calm, and this proved to be the margin of victory.

The Bulldogs charged back and scored quickly to move within three points of the Jackets. With only seconds remaining, Georgia stole the ball and Joey Miller pushed one in as the gun went off to end the game.

The victory gave Georgia Tech an SEC record of 10 wins and two losses. It was the third straight time the Jackets had beaten the Bulldogs this season, but this was the first game that counted in the conference standings.

Kaiser, Tech's captain, and the SEC scoring leader, was the game's high point man with 25, including 13 out of 14 free throws. Georgia's Phil Simpson was the leading scorer for the Bulldogs with 16 points. Four other Georgia players scored in double figures: Don Kaiser had 13; Ken Taylor, 2; Allan Johnson 11;, and John Johnson, 10.

The Jackets won the game at the free throw line, netting 27 out of 32 attempts, while the Bulldogs hit on 20 of 27.

NEVILLE, ST. MATTHEW'S

Monroe Captures Spearsville Loot

SPEARSVILLE, La. (Special) — Championship trophies of the annual Spearsville Undergraduate Basketball Tournament are being added today to the treasure chests of two Monroe Schools — Neville and St. Matthew's.

Neville's defending state champion double-A girls, minus their senior members, romped over Spearsville, 60-44, in the girls' championship final last night, and the Fighting Irish of St. Matthew's, champions of district two Class A basketball for two straight years, also without their senior talent, took the measure of the Spearsville boys, 87-65, in their title contest.

Brenda Cobb and John Varino led their teams in the scoring department. Miss Cobb hooped 33 points in the title scrap after chalking up 32 in the 64-45 defeat of Marion in the semi-finals. Varino scored 22 in the championship battle with Spearsville to duplicate him semi-final production in which St. Matthew's toppled Bernice, 75-52. Buddy Embanato backed Varino's effort in the final with 21 points.

The Spearsville boys passed Byrd of Shreveport in the semi-finals, 74-56, as Alden Everett led the way with 24 points, and Mitcham hooped 18 points leading the Spearsville girls over Lisbon, 30-26.

Leading scorers for losing semi-final teams were Farley, Lisbon girls, 15; Binford, Marion girls, 23; Campbell, Byrd boys, 16; and Bailey and Lazenby, Bernice boys, 17 each.

The Spearsville meet annually features players who have at least one more year of high school eligibility and gives a picture of a team's prospect for the next season. No seniors are allowed.

Tenacious Scores Win In Letellier

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mrs. Joe W. Brown's Tenacious came rolling through on the outside to win the $17,700 Letellier Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

The 6-year-old son of Challedon took the lead midway in the stretch run and was nearly a length ahead of George D. Widener's Matinal at the wire. Greentree Stable's Audience took the show spot.

Tenacious, winning his third straight handicap at the Fair grounds, was the 4-5 favorite of the 13,000 fans and returned $3.60, $2.80 and $2.40. Matinal, who made a strong bid in the stretch paid $3.80 and $3, while Audience, second choice in the betting, returned $2.60.

Jockey Ray Broussard had a tight hold on Tenacious in the early stages of the mile and one-eighth run as John Gibson's Sun Better and T. A. Grissom's Pen Hollow fought for the lead.

Sun Better had a three - length margin in the back stretch with Matinal and Audience his closest rival.

Coming around the final turn, the six-horse field tightened with Broussard taking Tenacious to his customary route on the outside. Tenacious caught Matinal and the other front runners an eighth of a mile from the finish line and was pulling away at the wire. Tenacious was timed in 1:51 2-5.

Spring Training Officially Gets Under Way This Week

By MILTON RICHMAN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) —Spring training officially opens this week, meaning everyone starts off even with the same aches, pains and plans of dethroning the defending champion Dodgers and White Sox.

The odds-makers have installed the Yankees 4-5 favorites to win the American League pennant and the Braves 7-5 choices to capture the National League flag, but those prices are subject to change if there are any serious injuries or major trades within the next seven weeks of training.

All major league clubs are returning to the same training sites in Florida and Arizona as last year with the exception of the A.L. champion White Sox, who are switching their quarters from Tampa to Sarasota.

Sarasota is the winter home of the circus but there will be no shenanigans for the White Sox, who dealt liberally this winter in an effort to hold on to a title it took them 40 years to win. Major additions to the club are outfielder Minnie Minoso and Gene Freese, a long-ball hitting third baseman. Both were obtained for added punch and the White Sox may need it to stave off a challenge by the Indians.

Cleveland apparently plugged a long-time hole at second base this winter by getting Johnny Temple from Cincinnati, and bolstered third base, too, when it landed Bubba Phillips from the White Sox in the Minoso deal. Acquiring Temple, however, cost the Tribe 19-game winner Cal McLish and that could mean trouble if Herb Score, Gary Bell and Jim Perry don't come through as expected.

The Indians will train in Tucson, Ariz., again and most of their spring exhibition game competition will come from the three other clubs based in Arizona — the Giants at Phoenix, the Cubs at Mesa and the Red Sox at Ecottsdale.

Casey Stengel, whose Yankees will train here at St. Petersburg along with the Cardinals, can't understand why his club should be favored to win this year after the sorry third-place finish of last season.

Most important added starter for the Yankees is outfielder Roger Maris, obtained from Kansas City. The Yankees also are hot after another starting pitcher. Camilo Pascual of the Senators or knuckleballer Bud Daley of the A's would do nicely, but either one will be hard to come by.

The world champion Dodgers open training Wednesday — the same day as the Yankees — at Vero Beach. They were one of the few clubs to stand pat this winter although they made repeated efforts to land right-handed hitting Roy Sievers from Washington.

The Dodgers are counting heaviest on their pitching, bulwarked they hope by World Series hero Larry Sherry. Rookie Frank Howard, who hits the ball record distances, will be given a thorough look by manager Walt Alston this spring.

San Francisco, Kansas City and the Chicago Cubs are among the most drastically revised clubs from last year.

The Giants, who barely missed winning last season, have added Billy O'Dell and Billy Loes to their pitching staff and Don Blasingame at second base. Many experts already are claiming the National League pennant for them but the Giants' official family is claiming nothing on the theory perhaps, they would rather be pleasantly surprised than sorely disappointed for the second consecutive year.

Kansas City, which will train in West Palm Beach, has a new manager in Bob Elliott and some more ex-Yankees in Don Larsen, Norm Siebern, Hank Bauer and Marv Throneberry. The A's should be improved but the same can be said for the Senators, who make their camp in Orlando.

Pascual, one of the outstanding pitchers in the A.L. last season, is reporting fresh from a banner season in the Cuban Winter League and Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison figure to be better with a year of experience under their belts.

The Cubs have sacrificed some pitching to get men like Frank Thomas, Richie Ashburn and Dick Gernert. They have Ernie Banks to start with so they could be rough.

Detroit, which will be quartered at Lakeland, added shortstop Chico Fernandez and pitcher Ray Semproch during the off-season. The Tigers have the necessary hitting in Al Kaline, Harvey Kuenn and Charley Maxwell.

The Reds will do their training in Tampa where Manager Fred Hutchinson will look over such new faces as Billy Martin, Lee Walls, Bill Henry and McLish. At nearby Clearwater, the Phillies are hoping to move up with the aid of newcomers John Callison, Ted Lepcio, Alvin Dark and John Buzhardt.

Milwaukee has a new boss in Chuck Dressen but the same old second base problem as last year. The Braves, who do their training at Bradenton, are hoping Red Schoendienst can make it all the way back.

Center of considerable attention at Miami, where the Orioles are situated, will be outfielder Jackie Brandt, obtained from the Giants. Manager Paul Richards plans to play Brandt in center and hopes he'll also aid Baltimore's attack.

The Pirates, at Fort Myers, added Gino Cimoli and rookie pitcher Tom Cheney during the off-season, and some of the newcomers who will greet Cardinal manager Solly Hemus here are Ronnie Kline, Bob Nieman, Daryl Spencer and Leon Wagner.

Boston should be hard-put to find a replacement for Jackie Jensen, who quit, but the Red Sox still are hoping to crash the first division with such additions as Ron Jackson, Tom Sturdivant, Bobby Thomson and Dave Hillman.

OLYMPIC TRIALS

Konrads Shatters Freestyle Mark

By GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY (AP) — John Konrads shattered his own world record in winning the 220-yard freestyle race but his 15-year-old sister, Ilsa, was upset Saturday night in the Australian Swimming Championships. The event also is serving as Olympic trials.

John 17, holder of six world records, sped the 220 yards in 2 minutes, 1.6 seconds, slashing three tenths of a second off the mark he set here Jan. 22 and six-tenths off his confirmed record of 2:02.2, made a year ago.

Ilsa, who also holds six world freestyle records, surprisingly lost a 440-yard race to her keenest rival, Olympic champion Dawn Fraser.

Miss Fraser, trailing through most of the race, overhauled the spectacular teen-ager on the next to last lap and won in 4 minutes, 47.4 seconds. Ilsa clocked 4:50.

"It was my fastest 440 yards ever," Miss Fraser said excitedly afterwards. "Now I hope to set the record."

Ilsa bettered the world record last month when she swam the quarter-mile in 4:45.5, beating Miss Fraser by 20 yards.

"I was not surprised or disappointed at the defeat," Ilsa said afterwards. "I have been back at school the last few weeks and I have been feeling a bit tired."

Ilsa, who began breaking records at the age of 13, is being pointed for the Olympic Games by her coach, Don Talbot, who says he does not want to bring her to her peak too quickly.

"I felt great," he said. I will break two minutes for the 220 yards and 200 meters before the Olympic Games. I gave it a burst for the first 110 yards and was swimming well. I rolled a bit on the third lap but my strength carried me through."

John wasn't pushed in his race. He had a four-yard lead after two laps and was increasing it until the final touch. His times at each 55-yard mark were 28.4 seconds, :58.4, 1:30.4 and 2:01.6. John Dee was second in 2:05.8 and Ronald Day third in 2:07.7.

Ilsa, showing early speed, burst into the lead on the opening lap and after 110 yards led Miss Fraser by two. She was still two yards ahead at the 220 but at this point seemed to tire. Miss Fraser, 100-meter winner in the 1956 Olympics, caught up on the next to last lap and pulled ahead. She finished powerfully.

Champ Pleased With Promoter

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Ingemar Johansson, world heavyweight champion, said Saturday he is pleased that Roy Cohn has obtained a promotor's license from the New York State Athletic Commission.

Informed of Friday's development Johansson said, "That is good." But he refused to say anything further on Cohn's plans for a championship return bout between Johansson and Floyd Patterson of New York.

The Swedish world champion said he will leave for New York Sunday evening.

Elliott Wins Mile In Four Minutes Flat

MELBOURNE (AP) — Herb Elliott, perhaps the only miler in the world who can take it easy and do 4 minutes flat, did it Saturday under a blazing sun for the Victorian championship.

The lean, superbly conditioned Aussie took the lead at the start of the third lap, then finished with a 55-second fourth quarter to win by 50 yards.

Merv Lincoln, an old rival who has been ailing lately, finished even farther back. John Murray was second in 4:07.2.

Elliott, the world record holder at 3:54.5, was hardly puffing afterward. "It is a bit too hot to run really fast," he explained, "and when the pace is slow on the early laps, I'm just feeling myself out.

"I just wanted to win, and as in all championships, everyone wanted to win and no one was willing to go out and make a fast pace early.

"It's always the same. That's why runners who have a fast finish, like Ron Delany, win Olympic titles."

Elliott, who two weeks ago put away his 12th sub-4 minute clocking, added, "Now I can settle down to really hard work to get ready for the Australian championships March 5."

That mile, at Perth, is another check point in his training schedule for the Summer Olympics at Rome. He hopes to run at the Compton, Calif., Relays in June before going to Sweden prior to the Olympics. Elliott said it is unlikely, however, that he will accept an invitation to the Coliseum Relays in Los Angeles May 21.

Ron Clarke, a former junior star, took the lead at the gun in Saturday race, but kept the pace to a slow, 60-second first quarter mile. Lincoln was second, about four yards back, with Elliott at his heels.

Lincoln took over then and passed the half mile in 2:04. But he faded in the third lap when Elliott moved in for a 3:05 three-quarters.

Lincoln, who has been troubled by an upset stomach and laid off training the past three days, was bitterly disappointed. "This is the first time I've been beaten at a mile by anyone other than Elliott since 1956," he said. "It's not easy to take."

Wildlife Unit Sets Tuesday Meeting Here

The Ouachita Wildlife Unit will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Virginia Hotel with a program of several items to be considered, president A. S. Tidwell has announced.

Tidwell said the meeting would be opened to sportsmen with resolutions to take to the state convention, to be held March 11-13 at Lafayette.

In addition, a picture, "Big Game," will be shown by Walter Glass of Huyck Co.

Other items on the program include a firearm demonstration and a report on the upcoming turkey season by biologist Joe Herring. Fish biologist Jim Davis is scheduled to give a report also.

Tidwell pointed out that membership would be emphasized at the meeting. Co-chairmen of the membership drive are Jack Rushing and J. O. Fleming.

He explained that the meeting would be open to all persons interested in wildlife. Door prizes will be awarded.

Wilt Selected Top Pro Athlete In January

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain of the Philadelphia Warriors won the January poll as the pro athlete of the month in the voting for the S. Rae Hickok Award.

Chamberlain nosed out Paul Pender, conqueror of Sugar Ray Robinson in a Massachusetts and New York middleweight title bout. Chamberlain had 126 points, Pender 125 with sports writers and sportscasters voting on a 3-2-1 point basis.

Nero, Belkas To Meet In Main Event

Prince Nero, who fiddled away his chances for victory when time ran out in his last appearance here, will have all night if necessary to make amends Monday when he takes on Chris Belkas in a main event rematch at the B&B Arena.

The Prince, apparently of no relation to the ancient Roman emperor, figures he got a raw deal against Balkas last week, dropping only one fall of a two-fall affair but still being declared the loser. Belkas took the first fall in a marathon 43 minutes and the hour limit ran out before either contestant could make another pin.

This time the two grapplers will enter the ring without a clock. Two falls will decide the winner.

A four - man tag team bout takes semifinal billing on the card. Canadian Adrian Baellangeon, highly successful in recent outings here, will team up with Ken Cooper against Firpo Zybysko and Mexican Carlos Mendoza in the one - hour relay event. It'll go two out of three falls.

Newcomer Tony Jiminez, victor by disqualification over Zybysko last week, will officiate the bouts. Jiminez scored the win when Zybysko, a hard man to deal with sometimes, threw his opponent from the ring and wouldn't let him back in.

FINCH CASE

All Or Nothing, Prosecutor Says

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It should be all or nothing," the prosecutor argued. "The jury should be instructed to decide them guilty or innocent of only first-degree murder."

But the judge trying handsome Dr. R. Bernard Finch and shapely Carole Tregoff on charges of murdering his wife said no.

When he instructs the jurors, Superior Court Judge Walter R. Evans said last Friday, he'll say they can consider also a verdict on the lesser charge of second-degree murder. The penalty on conviction is five years to life.

And the judge said he's considering an even milder option, manslaughter, punishable by 1-to 10-years.

The state says Finch, 42, wealthy society surgeon, and Miss Tregoff, 28, a red-headed ex-model who was his receptionist before she became his mistress, coldbloodedly plotted and carried out the killing of his wife, Barbara Jean, 36.

And for this, Deputy Dist. Atty. Clifford Crail maintained during arguments in the judge's chambers, the couple deserves to be convicted only of first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit first degree murder—nothing less.

The penalty on both charges is life imprisonment—or death in the state's gas chamber.

Before deliberations begin, the jury will hear at least a week of final arguments. These should start Tuesday.

The jury has already been locked up at a downtown hotel in a surprise move by Judge Evans.

The order came last Thursday, catching the jurors by surprise. Usually Los Angeles juries aren't locked up until after they hear final arguments and the judge's instructions.

Judge Evans said he was ordering the five men and seven women, plus one man and two women alternates, locked up to keep them from being exposed to newspaper and TV publicity.

Before the trial of Dr. Finch and Miss Tregoff began, the prosecution said it would demand the death penalty for the doctor but perhaps not for Miss Tregoff.

Finch and Miss Tregoff contend they went to the Finch home in suburban West Covina last July 18 to talk to Mrs. Finch about a divorce plan. The doctor said his wife pulled a gun, he grabbed it and tried to throw it away, and it accidentally discharged. She was fatally shot in the back.

Testimony in the complex case ended Thursday.

MRS. ASHMEAD White, president general National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be the guest of honor at the annual D. A. R. luncheon to be held Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Civil Service Test Date Set

Persons interested in taking State Civil Service examinations may fill out application forms for examinations, S. W. Jackson, director of the Ouachita Valley Vocational School said.

Jackson has stated that the examinations will be given March 12 at his school, provided a sufficient number of candidates are scheduled from this area.

The final date on which applications may be filed is Feb. 26.

Application forms and information may be obtained from the local Employment Security Office, Parish Welfare Office, Parish Veterans' Service Office, Vocational School or by writing to the Department of State Civil Service, P. O. Box 411, Capitol Station, in Baton Rouge.

Sen. Kennedy Raps Ike's Workings

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) said Saturday night the Eisenhower administration has "sadly depleted this country's international credit balances of good will."

And, the Massachusetts senator said, "Foreign policy is going to be the dominant issue in a presidential election for the first time in 20 years."

In an address prepared for a Democratic Jackson - Jefferson Day dinner here, the candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination said: "The parades through the streets of Karachi, New Delhi and Kabul are not substitutes for policy. The disillusionment comes when one attempts to look behind the flag-waving, the bands, the marching elephants—and attempts to find a policy that can affect events with respect to these countries.

"The problem is that we have lost sight of the central struggle. In a world where millions of people are living on the marginal edge of existence, what really matters to them is how they're going to fill their bellies at night, and put a roof over their heads."

MRS. ROBERT HOUGH PIPES

Ensign R. H. Pipes Claims Bride In Calhoun

The first marriage to be solemnized at St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church, Calhoun took place on February 15th at 10:00 a.m. when Miss Mary Lucille LeBlanc and Ensign Robert Hough Pipes were united in marriage at nuptial mass with Rev. Father Finian McMullin officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. LeBlanc of West Monroe and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Pipes of Calhoun.

The church was decorated with large pedestal vases of white stock and gladioli. On the altar were lighted candles and arrangements of white stock. The pews were marked by large white bows. Mrs. Robert Easterling at the organ, rendered Franz Schubert's Ava Maria, the Wedding March and Ave Maria Stella by Balthasar Florence.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a wedding gown of delustered Skinner's satin made on princess lines featuring a dome shaped skirt, ankle length in front and touching the floor in the back. The overskirt in back was of hand-clipped rosepoint lace with scalloped edges. The overskirt fell from a large self-fabric rose, and was embroidered throughout with pearls. The bodice was accented by a scalloped trim of rose point lace embroidered in pearls. The sleeves came to points over the bride's hands. The French silk illusion veil was held by a Swedish crown of pearls and irridescents. The bride carried a cascade arrangement of white butterfly roses with lilies of the valley. In the bride's satin slipper was a coin that has been in her family for over a hundred years.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Miss Eileen LeBlanc who wore a dress of pale pink faille taffeta with a cummerbund of a deeper shade accented at the back with a large self-fabric rose. The skirt was of unpressed pleats and the round neckline also had unpressed pleats. On her head was a head band of several small self-fabric roses and she wore matching gloves and shoes. Her bouquet was a nosegay of pink briarcliff roses and chrysanthemums.

Miss Nancy Pipes, cousin of the groom, was the flower girl and wore a dress of the same pale pink material as worn by the maid of honor. Her bouquet was a miniature of the maid of honor's.

Serving his brother as best man was Louis Pipes. Ushers were William Ford Pipes Jr., Monroe and Charles Heck, Calhoun, cousins of the groom.

The bride's mother was attired in a violet embroidered sheath with black accessories and white gloves. Her hat was of white and lavender flowers. The groom's mother wore a dress of blue with a matching blue hat. Her costume was complemented by black patent accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at 500 Natchitoches, West Monroe. The reception table, covered with white lace, had as a centerpiece a candelabra with pink candy tuft and pink pom pon mums. Assisting in serving were Miss Catherine Livaudais, Mrs. Ethel F. Forey, Mrs. J. J. Genor and Mrs. J. A. Engstrom. Tea girls were Misses Sue Norris and Mary Ida Heck. Presiding at the bride's table was Miss Mary Lea Cascio.

Doctor's Wife Help-Mate In Many Crises

By DOROTHY ROE

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — A country doctor's wife knows more about life than almost anybody—the important things of life, that is

She knows the unique joy of hearing the first cry of a healthy newborn baby, ushered safely into the world after a breakneck ride over country roads by the harried doctor. She knows the miracle of seeing her husband bring a doomed man back to the land of the living. She knows the thrill of helping in the many crises of a doctor's life. And she knows the importance of keeping the doctor well-fed and happy, and getting him away from the telephone.

"Every so often you just have to get away from everything," says Mrs. L. G. Fincher of El Dorado, Ark., expertly preparing country ham and red-eye gravy, turnip greens and cornbread, in the kitchen of the Fincher hunting lodge near here. "That's why we love to come out here every weekend we can — no telephone, no television, not even the Sunday papers unless we drive out and get them. Of course Guinn (that's the doctor) is always on duty, even here. Because people seem to get sick wherever you are. But in between times he can hunt quail and wild turkey, and I can cook them, and both of us can look at the pine woods and talk to the neighbors and be glad we're alive."

Both Mabel and Guinn Fincher were raised in the back woods of Arkansas, near Magnolia, in Columbia County. Since then he has gained a national reputation as a general practitioner who saved the life of a man with 80 per cent of his body burned in an oil-field explosion — a man the medical records said could not survive. Since then she has become a community leader in their town, raising a family and running a home with one hand, always ready for emergency nurse duty with the other, and regarding the status of a doctor's wife as the highest privilege any woman could have.

"Things get kind of hectic some times, when the books have to be balanced, income tax returns prepared and half a dozen teen-age parties planned all at the same time. That's usually the time we take to the woods," she said.

The woods, where the Fincher retreat is located, are in the community of Wave, population about 20, consisting of a church and half-a-dozen farms scattered over 100 square miles of pine woods and worked-out cotton fields, where a man's best friend is his hunting dog and where nobody is in a hurry.

Wax Floors

It is always best to use thin layers of wax on floors. Not only does this save wax but thin layers are more durable if highly polished. Thin layers are not near as dangerous as thick layers for the thick wax may stay soft underneath and that makes it slippery.

Yankee Family End Civil War In The Delta

By DOROTHY ROE

It took a Yankee family from Binghamton, N.Y. to accomplish this miracle in the hearts of the Deep South where antebellum mansions are still preserved with loving care and where until recently "damyankee" was all one word.

The head of the peacemaking clan is Mrs. Sumter Gillespie, a lovely little Dresden doll kind of a lady, publisher of the up and coming Greenwood Commonwealth and generally conceded the Deta's hostess with the mostes'.

Her aides are her tall good-looking son, Bill Richardson, general manager of the paper, and her daughter, smart and pretty Mrs. William Michael Biggers, women's editor.

Another daughter, Nancy Richardson, teaches music at Ole Miss. It was 12 years ago that the widowed Mrs. Richardson of Binghamton came down to Greenwood for a visit and was wooed and won by the late Cumter Gillespie, Commonwealth publisher.

Daughter Jane then was persuaded to quit her fashion job in New York and join the staff of her stepfather's newspaper.

In less time than it takes to say General Robert E. Lee she was married to big handsome Mike Biggers, dyed in the wool son of the Deep South.

After the recent death of publisher Gillespie his widow found herself the head of the company.

Long Live The Noble Housewife

By A. HUSBAND
AP Newsfeatures

For two long, horrible weeks I committed housework, complete with apron and ladle, pots, pans, dishcloths, pressing iron, soaps, detergents, needle and thead — even down to chauffering the offspring to school.

May I be diced with the sharp side of a starched apron string and my soap bubbles blacken and curdle if I ever try it again.

I didn't enter the project with that spirit. There was a bit of that I'll - show - 'em - what - I-can do. Perhaps an innovation, here, a bit of a change in procedure there would ease the burden for female inmates in the 300 apartments surrounding us. Ha! Little did I know you just can't improve on something that is plain hard and unrewarding work.

Bonbon was thee weeks in the hospital, to be followed by two weeks complete rest in bed — pneumonia and its unhappy complications.

BRASH START

For better or worse the two weeks at home coincided with my vacation. Offers of help from relatives and friends were gratefully, albeit stupidly, turned down. If woman could do it, man could —better and more efficiently and faster — and Migosh! I recall I even said this aloud to some of the neighbor gals.

I embarked on the two weeks with the backlog of dirty windows, dusty shelves, and filled ash trays any normal male collects when the wife's away. The young daughter, farmed out while Bonbon was in the hospital, also returned to the nest. She carried her own backlog of school blouses and other young - daughter items.

Where did I go wrong? That's easy. I just got sick and tired of working in water, soap, detergents, garbage, rubbing and cleaning. But by far the most discouraging aspect was the realization that I was never going to be finished.

WISTFUL VISTA

I missed the eight - hour day and the male privilege of sinking into a chair at the end of it, knowing that task - time was over. I didn't relax once, although I took to having a third coffee to put off getting started. But that wasn't really relaxing because even as I sipped I was surrounded by clothes that needed ironing, floors that should be swept, furniture to be dusted.

Alarm at 7 a.m. Stagger to kitchen and start coffee, mix frozen orange juice, or clip the interior of grapefruit. Shave and dress (this got sloppier as the days went on). Breakfast, usually egg and bacon or oatmeal (each cost a clean pot or pan) toast and milk. Drive daughter to school, returning about 9:10. That second cup of coffee, maybe the third. This time also was spent in planning the easiest meal to get for dinner.

MAN'S LAMENT

Now, unable to postpone further, wash breakfast dishes, head for supermarket about 11:30, returning shortly after noon. Lunch, wash dishes, then vacuum and dust, tapering off shortly after 2 p.m. to prepare for return trip to school for daughter. Home about 4 p.m. and head for laundry in basement. Two tubs of laundry, extracted and dried, consume almost two hours. Start dinner at six. With a half hour out for news telecasts around dinner time, the last grease was melted from the last pot about 9 p.m. The last hours of the day were spent preparing for tomorrow.

Now that I'm happily taking the 8:24 to town every day, I no longer envy the girls who can sit down for a second cup of coffee. They pay a terrible price for the privilege. I can't understand how women can do all that work and still smile.

Statistics show that women live longer than men. For the life of me I can't see how.

On Dit'

by Denise

After the doldrums of January, February bids fair to bring us more excitement than we ordered. It seems that we got the most wintry weather and the deepest snows right in the middle of the theatrical season and Mardi Gras, gayest time for Louisianians.

"Sabrina Fair", which closed a six night run Wednesday, played at the Little Theatre in a snow storm on opening and on closing nights. Those who drove to Ruston for the Canadian Players' excellent production of "The Taming of the Shrew" on Wednesday had the added excitement of driving home through what looked like a real blizzard to Southern eyes. The cold weather held on for the first performance of the season by the Twin City Symphony on Thursday.

Lovers of theatre and the concert stage will continue to brave the elements for the outstanding presentations scheduled for the next few weeks. The Robert Shaw Chorale and orchestra will present Bach's B Minor Mass in two performances under the auspices of the Louisiana Tech concert association. The program will be heard tomorrow night and again on Tuesday night in Howard auditorium in Ruston.

Try-outs for "Guys and Dolls" will be held at the Little Theatre tomorrow, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights. The annual musical production has come to be the most happily anticipated activity of the local group. A cast of about forty is needed for this play; all sizes, types, and ages.

Next offering of the Northeast State concerts association will be Joan Blondell, starring in "Dark at the Top of the Stairs." This play is scheduled for Saturday, March 5, in Neville High school auditorium.

A really big treat is in store for NANCY SNELLINGS this week. She flies to Washington on Thursday, and will take part in the Mardi Gras ball given by the Louisiana Society Saturday night. This is, of course, THE affair of the year for those from our state in the nation's capital. Nancy will be accompanied by her parents, the GEORGE SNELLINGS, Jr.

In addition to the traditional party held for years at the Bayou DeSiard country club, two new Mardi Gras balls have been added to the Twin Cities' calendar. The Highland Park country club will hold its first ball this coming Saturday night at the clubhouse. This past Friday night, a Mardi Gras party for the teen-agers was held at the Bayou DeSiard club.

MAUD MAYO and her committee are planning a New Orleans scene for Highland Park on Saturday. Club members will not wear costumes, but will don masks as they enter. The entrance will be decorated with a fountain banked with flowers. Wrought iron furinture and screens will be arranged to create the effect of a patio . .Walls of the young people's lounge and the dining room will be hung with murals of New Orleans landmarks. Glimpses of patios and courtyards will be seen through "doors" in each room. Music for the party will be furnished by Mehl Addington and his combo.

The large window at the end of the young people's lounge at Bayou DeSiard club dominated the decorations at the Mardi Gras for teen - agers Friday night. Large drawings of comedy and tragedy masks were used against a harlequin background of black and white diamonds, which centered the bay window. Figures of Pierrot and Pierette, dressed in their traditional black and white, flanked the masks. Clusters of vari - colored balloons decorated the ceiling. The Kats played for dancing from eight until twelve.

"Beaux Arts Bal" is the name chosen for the Bayou DeSiard's Mardi Gras party scheduled for Saturday night. Carrying out the theme of art and artists, each room will be decorated to represent a style or period of art. Eighteenth century France will be porch opening from the ballroom, with decor copied from the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles. On the porch opening fro mthe ballroom, the formal gardens of the palace will be imitated with a fountain, rose trees, and tubbed flowers in bloom.

Oriental art will be represented by a Japanese temple garden in the dining room, while the paintings of ancient Egypt will be copied for the walls of the young people's lounge. . . The hall will be Pirate's Alley, where our native painters display their works. Various committee members are doing charcoals and pastels to be shown Very modern art, strange paintings, and unusual mobiles will be seen in the bar. Maybe there should be a beatnik reading some of that poetry.

Chairmen of the various room committees are: MARY LEE MILAM, ballroom; ANNE A. TERZIA and BARBARA EASTERLING, dining room; BESS COURTMAN, young people's lounge; FRANCES ADCOCK, hall GEORGIE TOUCHSTONE and TEEDEE DIXON, bar. KATHERINE JORDAN and VICKY HILL are in charge of the court.

For our poem today, we have one by an area writer. It was chosen by the National Poetry Association for publication in "Voice of America", a volume containing the best efforts of high school students of the United States. The author, now Mrs. Joel Ezell of Winnsboro, is the former Gloria Cannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crisler Cannon of Mangham. Title of the poem is "Mission Accomplished":

The first tinge of green on the meadows,
The fragrant purity of the air in Spring,
The blue sky with scattered wisps of snowy clouds,
The ditch bank sprinkled with violets,
The yard entwined with daffodils,
The snarled, sad limbs of the dogwood tree
Enshrouded by the impressive blossoms
Is only a partial list of my lovely things.
If I can find words to match this scenic beauty
So that you, too, can be touched,
Then I know my purpose in life.

Nuptial Vows Pledged In Delhi Ceremony

An out - of - town wedding yesterday claiming attention here was that of Miss Sally Ann Sumlin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Robert Sumlin of Delhi, and Mr. David Ernest Marchman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee Marchman of this city. The Delhi First Methodist Church was the setting for the double ring ceremony at 6:30 p.m. performed by Rev. Don Wininger, before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli and pom pon Chrysanthemums and spiral candelabra holding lighted white tapers.

Nuptial music was furnished by Mr. Frank McKay, who also accompanied the soloists, Miss Audrey Loftin and Mr. Rudolph Dozier, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in an original model of white silk peau de soie and hand-clipped Chantilly lace. The sculptured lace basque featured a scalloped sweetheart neckline accented with sequins and pearls. At the waistline was a tracing of blush pink peau de soie trim. The regal bell skirt, dramatized by a bow and worn over a Natchez hoop, swept into a cathedral train. Her tiered finger tip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a Queen's coronet. She carried white orchids and lilies of the valley on a white Bible.

Preceding the bride to the altar were the bridesmaids: Misses Mary Alice Insley and Paula Pittman, Mrs. L. E. Dorsey and Mrs. F. J. Dillon in ballerina-length gowns of pink silk organza over taffeta, style' with bertha collars forming portrait necklines, bouffant skirts and crushed cummerbunds at the waist. Headbands of pink satin leaves, satin pumps and pearl jewelry completed their attire. Their bouquets were crescents of pink Frenched carnations.

Miss Carol Sue Sumlin, sister of the bride, maid of honor and Mrs. J. G. Driskill, matron of honor, wore gowns identical to the bridesmaids' and they carried crescent bouquets of pink Frenched carnations and American Beauty roses. Miss Priscilla Thompson, the flower girl, wore a model fashioned after the dresses of the other attendants and carried a basket of flower petals.

Dennis Lee Marchman, brother of the groom, was best man. Serving as candle lighters were David Burk and Robert Williams. The ushers were George Sumlin Jr., Prent Seymour, Eugene Windes, Jack Rivers and Paul Hynes.

Mrs. Sumlin wore a gown of rose beige lace and chiffon with a V shaped neckline and elbow sleeves. With it she wore a small matching hat with feather trim. Mrs. Marchman chose a Canary Diamond silk chiffon model and accessories to match.

The parents of the bride were hosts at a reception following the wedding in the recreation rooms of the church. The bride's table was covered with a white organdy cloth over pink and centered with candelabra and the attendants' bouquets.

For traveling the new Mrs. Marchman wore a sheath dress of pure silk sand beige with bracelet length sleeves. To compliment her costume she wore a small straw hat and bone colored shoes and bag. She pinned the corsage from her bouquet on her shoulder.

The bride graduated from Delhi High School and attended Louisiana Tech at Ruston. The groom was graduated from Neville High School and attended Sewanee Military Academy.

MISS RUBY KAY ELKINS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Elkins of Spearsville and Mr. James D. Misenheimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Misenheimer, of Hampton, Arkansas, have selected March 5 for their marriage, which will be celebrated at 6 p.m. in the Mt. Union Baptist Church.

Tall Girls Can Make Stocck Soar

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The drawback about being tall, says glamorous Rosalind Russell, might be that "you can't curl up on a man's lap." Otherwise you can be Queen of Hearts.

The vivacious movie queen has capitalized on her own willowy build, and would welcome three more inches, she's that happy to be tall.

"Why do girls play down height?" she asks. "They even develop bad posture trying to take off inches, and just call attention to their discomfort."

Rosalind, who is 5 feet 7 and looks much taller, points out that low shoes are a dead giveaway if one is self-conscious about height. Stand up straight and lift your chest bones, if you'd adopt a graceful tall - girl stance, she says.

Anyone who has seen Rosalind cavort in musical comedy on stage, screen or television knows that she doesn't try to conceal her height. She believes in emphasizing it.

"The sheath dress is much better for tall girls, not the bouffant style, more suitable for smaller girls. The pencil silhouette can show the lovely line of the thigh, a tall girl's beauty line," she observes.

Rosalind likes long stoles, although she doesn't think tall girls should go out of their way for flamboyancy — flukey hats, junk jewelry or too - high - style clothes.

"Costume jewelry is good if well chosen, but there is nothing to replace Grandma's old pin as an accessory," she explains. The earrings she was wearing at lunch were large water pearls, handsomely enclosed in gold mesh and small diamonds, her own design. "They have paid for themselves long ago," she says, "because I can wear them with everyting."

Rosalind's Cardin suit was a lovely beige color with matching fabric hat in a mushroom shape. The color was just right for her creamy skin, warm brown eyes and dark hair.

"But you can wear the greatest costume in the world," says she, "and if your feet are not properly shod, you'll look horrible."

Rosalind likes sandals for evening wear -- not lucite, nor little bow styles. She says:

"I try to choose a light open sandal shoe that will keep my 7 triple A from looking like gunboats."

Rosalind is happily married to producer Fred Brisson and has a 15-year-old son, Lance.

She cautions tall girls married to short men not to make the difference in height obvious by trying to avoid standing next to their husbands:

"One of the happiest married couples I know," she points out, "is a girl who makes such a big fuss over her husband that few people ever notice the difference in their height."

Ogden-Roach Vows Event Of February 20

Saturday, the twentieth of February, at four p.m., the Memorial Methodist Church in Monroe was the setting for the marriage of Miss Betty Jo Roach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Roach and Doctor Samuel James Ogden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ogden of Mer Rouge.

The Reverend Spencer Wren, pastor of the church, solemnized the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate members of the families. The vows were spoken before an altar banked with white gladioli and greenery.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party, Mrs. Irene Nelson rendered a program of appropriate organ music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Clyde Sanders, who sang "Through the Years" and "O Perfect Love."

The bride had as her only attendant her sister-in-aw, Mrs. George Roach of Houston, Texas, who wore an ice blue sheath lace with matching shoes and hat. She carried a crescent bouquet of white feathered carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a delicate white lace fashioned with a full over skirt of tulle. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a crown of small white flowers. Her bridal bouquet was of white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Serving the groom as best man was Doctor Thomas McVea Higginbotham of Mer Rouge.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was overlaid with a lace cloth, centered with white carnations and chrysanthemums.

For travel the bride wore a light blue suit of silk, a matching flowered hat and black accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid from her bridal bouquet. After a trip to the Gulf Coast the couple will be at home in Mer Rouge.

MRS. SAMUEL JAMES OGDEN

Mingledorff-Lee Wedding Event Of Yesterday

An event yesterday of interest in Monroe was the marriage of Miss Catherine Loretta Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Lee Sr. of Indian Orchard, Mass., to Thomas D. Mingledorff Jr. of Windsor, Conn., son of Mr. and Mrs. Mingledorff of Monroe. Rev. James M. Gilmartin, uncle of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony at 10 a.m. at St. Matthew's Church in Indian Orchard.

Baskets of white gladioli decorated the altar. Mr. Gerald Dargis played the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. T. G. Brault, the vocal soloist, as she sang "Veni Jesu", "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride, on the arm of her father when she walked down the aisle, wore a ballerina - length gown of white satin. Re-embroidered alencon lace accented the scalloped scoop neckline. The bodice and skirt were cut on princess lines. She wore a mantilla of lace and carried a white orchid with stephanotis on a white missal.

Jerry Mingledorff, brother of the groom, was his best man. The ushers were Sheridan Lee Jr., brother of the bride, and Frederick K. Morris.

The mother of the bride was wearing a Limoges blue chiffon gown with a softly draped bodice and sheer floating panel. With it she wore a flowered hat of the same blue, matching accessories, and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. The groom's mother chose a model of French mocha brown silk peau de soie with fitted bodice, bell skirt and cropped jacket. Her corsage was of yellow tea roses.

At 12 noon the families of the couple and the wedding party were entertained at dinner. A reception followed for friends at the home of the bride's parents.

For travel the bride changed into a moss green wool sheath dress and white feather hat with moss green trim, worn with black coat and accessories.

The bride attended Cathedral High School and Springfield Trade High School. Mr. Mingledorff attended St. Matthews, Marion Military Institute, Marion, Ala., and was an honor graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y. He received his M. A. degree from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y. and is now associated with an industrial firm in Windsor Locks, Conn. as an engineer.

The couple will be at home at 60 Holmes Drive, Windsor, Conn., after the ceremony.

Men Cooks Best, So Let Them Do it

By BETTY A. DIETZ
Dayton News

DAYTON, O. (AP) — It's true — men are better chefs than women, concedes a Cordon Bleu-trained lady chef.

"That's because women go to pieces under pressure. There's so much tension in the kitchen," points out Helen Marie Roen.

Mrs. Roen, a tall, smiling woman with an unruly curl over her forehead, is the exception to her own rule.

"Mother used to say I had an even disposition — always difficult. So I don't go to pieces," she explains with a shrug.

Even if she wanted to act the prima donna, there wouldn't be much room for either histrionics or hysteria in the small kitchen of La Petite Gourmet which Mrs. Roen manages here. The big range and her shelf of spices and herbs are just a step away from a capacious refrigerator.

FIGHTING COOK

Mrs. Roen had to fight her way into a predominately male field. She says:

"My father was a fine chef. That's how I acquired a taste for good food."

Young Helen Marie, who frequently went to Belgium and France with her parents, had to do some tall talking to get herself enrolled at the famed Cordon Bleu in Paris.

"I was the only girl in the class. They don't want women," she says with a lift of the eyebrow, "but I wouldn't take no for an answer."

Mrs. Roen is a home economics graduate of Temple University and holds a master's degree from Cornell but, she says modestly, "That doesn't help your cooking, only your buying."

"Not very versatile. Some can't make sauces or bake."

But it's part of a national trend, she adds mournfully. Last year at the municipally supported Oglebay Park at Wheeling, W. Va., she had 43 home economics students for waitresses. Says she:

"All they knew was hamburger. None of 'em knew what a lamb chop was."

FIFTH BEST CHEF

The late Duncan Hines called Mrs. Roen the fifth best chef in the United States. He never got around to naming the other four.

For 16 years with a restaurant chain as trouble - shooter and training expert, Mrs. Roen was on the West Coast for a time and catered many Hollywood parties. Some of them — for such celebrities as Barbara Stanwyck, Joan Bennett and the late Errol Flynn — were so big they had to pitch tents outdoors. Flynn?

"He was a doll. I can say he kissed me on the cheek. He was the type you could forgive anything."

TAKES VOWS LYING DOWN

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — A dislocated hip couldn't stop the wedding of Warren Downing, of Low Moor, Va., an airman stationed here.

Downing, who had bee ninjured in an automobile accident, was married to Geraldine D'Andrea as he lay on a stretcher in a chapel at the Veterans' Administration hospital.

Miss Trousdale To Study At The Sorbonne

Miss King Trousdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Trousdale, Jr., of 206 Country Club Rd., Monroe, sailed from New York earlier this month on the S. S. America for a year at the Sorbonne on the Hollins Abroad program. She is one of 43 Hollins College sophomores taking part in this program of European study and travel.

Their trans-ocean and extensive summer tour arrangements have been made by the Council on Student Travel. The group will visit 17 countries, including the Soviet Union, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey, between the spring and fall terms at the University of Paris.

They are accompanied by Dr. F. Joseph McGuigan, professor of psychology at Hollins College, Va., and Mrs. McGuigan.

JUST FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Norman Gainey, 3, follows instructions to the letter. A nurse at a doctor's office told him to keep a thermometer under his arm. When he got home and his mother removed his clothing she found the thermometer still snug under his arm.

Club Hears Book Reviews At Paragon

The Jade Room of the Paragon was decorated with a tree of red camellias when Mrs. William E. Bennett, Jr., was hostess to the Review Club Monday, Feb. 15.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. D. W. Griffith. Miss Lallage Feazel was welcomed as a guest for the afternoon. After the business meeting, Mrs. Sam Smith introduced Mrs. N. R. Spencer, who reviewed "Inside Russia" by Gunther, and Mrs. Bennett, who reviewed "Mrs. Harris Goes to Paris" by Gallico.

A dessert course was then served to Mesdames: W. T. Walker, H. D. Touchstone, Spencer, Smith, Marcus Mapp, J. C. Lottin, W. M. Inabnet, Fred Huenefeld, Jr., DeWitt Henry, D. W. Griffith, C. P. Girl Scout News

Tomorrow, George Washington's birthday, is also observed in Girl Scout circles as International Thinking Day, because it is the birthday of Lord and Lady Baden - Powell, founders of Boy Scouting and Girl Guiding in England. Many communities and troops present their offerings to the Juliette Low World Friendship fund at that time, since the fund is spent to help spread Scouting around the world.

Troops in the Twin Cities have always presented their contributions at birthday programs held on Girl Scout Sunday, which this year falls on March 6. Plans are being made for programs in at least three neighborhoods. In their troops girls are learning about Scouts and Guides in other countries and are bringing their money, at least a penny for each year of her age to a troop meeting. At the birthday program each girl puts her small offering in the jar with those of the other girls. Pennies make dollars and do a lot of good. Last year the combined offerings of the Girl Scouts in the U. S. A. totaled $208,000. Our own area gave $166 of that; maybe we can do better this year.

Scouts in Newellton, about 40 in number, held an international program last week, seeing the films on "Our Cabana" and "Our Chalet," and contributing $5.90 to the fund. That's a nice start toward the total amount.

The same filmstrips have been used by a number of troops to learn about these interesting Scout centers, which belong to all of us in Scouting. Troop 5, Mrs. J. H. Keeling and Mrs. Frank Parrino leaders, saw them last week as did Brownie Troop 7, Mrs. Sidney Seegars, leader. The latter troop also invited Mrs. N. A. Randall, a native of Australia, and herself a troop leader, to talk with the girls about life in Australia. Mrs. Randall has been most generous in doing this kind of thing for some years. She made a list of common words and expressions that we Americans say one way and our English cousins another, such as "flashlight", which they call "torch."

Congratulations to Troop 48, leaders and girls, upon their fifth anniversary in Girl Scouting and their registration for their sixth. Registered as leaders are Mrs. M. A. Denoux, Mrs. Dean Carter and Mrs. Floyd Stone, Jr.; and serving on the troop committee are Mrs. B. O. Yeldell, Mrs. C. W. Overton, and Mrs. John Carso. Mrs. Denoux and Mrs. Stone, who also is a board member, have been registered with the troop since its beginning, as has Mrs. Yeldell, who is beginning her tenth year of Scouting. Mrs. Overton, also a board member, has been registered for five years in various capacities.

Not all of the girls have been with troop for five years but a check with office records reveals that Brenda Carso, Marilyn Denoux, Kay Joyce, Janet Kiper, Mary Elizabeth Reynolds, Catherine Stone, and Mary Alice Yeldell have. Others registered in the troop have transferred from other troops or communities. They include Jean Carter, Elaine Hanna, Carol Overton, Mary Eleanor Polk, Robbin Wadley. The troop has a long history of good program, camping, and service. This fall they had fun and learned a lot by working on the radio and television badge. They have put displays on scouting at the public library. Several of the girls have reached first class rank, all are working towards it and curved bar, which is the highest rank.

Hi-Fi Club Teen-Agers Good Citizens

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Two million members of teen-age fun clubs around the country are proving that the younger generation can be a force for good, when given a chance.

In 925 towns through out the United States boys and girls who have joined Hi-Fi Clubs, originally organized for recreation, music and dancing, are turning to serious community projects, giving help where it is needed.

In Spartansburg, S. C., members of a teen music club raised funds to aid little Larry Kent, seriously burned in an accident. They gave car-wash parties, held auctions and worked in teams collecting money to pay for the costly operations the small boy needed.

The Hi-Fi Cub of Worcester, Mass., gave their Christmas party for the children of St. Anne's Orphanage, distributing gifts and goodies that their own projects had paid for.

In Boston the teen club has worked diligently for the "Jimmy Fund," a community project to aid others stricken with the disease that took the life of a small boy, Jimmy.

These are a few examples of work being done by many teen groups all over the country, who are proving that juveniles can be good citizens.

'PARADE'

New Play Draws Critical Acclaim

By JACK CAVER

"There's no truth to the rumor that I also sell souvenir programs in the lobby," he commented. "I simply don't have the time."

Like Besoyan, Herman didn't come into the theater completely unknown. He followed the same routine of first attracting attention with some material used in a Greenwich Village night club. Last season Herman had a club show called "Nightcap" which played the Showplace for more than 400 performances.

"I've never taken a lesson in my life," he said, "and I play entirely by ear. I work out tunes at the piano and keep a tape recorder handy so I can preserve any melodies that come to me."

Herman got his training as writer, composer and director at the camp for teen-agers run by his father in the Berkshires. He was drama counselor there throughout his high school and college years and, along with putting on such standard stuff as "Rose Marie," "The Student Prince" and "Good News," he staged a few concoctions of his own devising.

A.A.U. Women Hear Talk By Mrs. Ford

Millsaps PTA Pays Tribute To Founders

Two themes were carried out in the February program of Millsaps P. T. A. on February 11, 1960. A tribute to the Founders, Mrs. Alice Birney and Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, was given in the form of a skit on "Speaking of Children." The skit projected the fact that parents and teachers of 1960 are still concerned with how to meet the needs of our children, as Mrs. Birney and Mrs. Hearst were sixty - three years ago.

In connection with the Valentine weekend a comedy skit on "Quest for Love" was then presented by five students from West Monroe High School, including Betty Carter, Wanda Adcock, Richard Booker, Jimmy Bond and Johnny Avery.

The business session followed with the election of the nominating committee for the coming year including Mrs. Dock F. Brown, Mrs. Eugene Scott, Mrs. Bob Branch.

The Honorary Life Membership Award was presented to Mrs. C. M. Eaker by Mrs. Floy Wilhite, Life membership chairman. Principal Gene Hardin was also recipient of an Honorary Life Membership award presented by the Ouachita Parish P. T. A. Council at their Founder's Day meeting held Wednesday February 9th.

Mrs. De Freese Gives Value Of The PTA

The Woodlawn P.T.A. met Thursday afternoon, February 11, for the regular monthly meeting in the gymnasium of the school, with Mrs. M. L. Defreese, program chairman of the Ouachita Parish P.T.A. Council, as speaker for the occasion.

Mrs. Defreese spoke on the real meaning of the P.T.A. and named the four cornerstones as the home, the school, the church, and the community. "We remember each year two women who with courage and intelligence dared to step forth and challenge the then prevelant idea concerning the nurture, education, and guidance of children and youth. Only time can prove the worth of an organization and these 61 years of P.T.A. activity prove that it is no longer an experiment, but one of the greatest forces for building good citizens in America today. It is a powerful dynamo having enlisted the cooperation of over 11½ million parents and teachers."

The Founder's Day program was directed by the president, Mrs. Billy Caples, and flowers and decorations carried the blue and gold theme of the P.T.A.

Room count was won by Mrs. Pierce's third grade and refreshments were served by the hospitality committee, Mrs. Courtney Caples and Mrs. Breard Bonnette.

The program was turned over to Mrs. E. F. Holdsworth, Life Membership chairman who introduced the evenings' guest, Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, state life membership chairman, Mrs. DeFreese discussed the founding of the Parent - Teacher Association and the strong points that strengthen the organization and that will preserve it in the future. Mrs. DeFreese presented two life membership pins and certificates to Mrs. James Eppinette and Mrs. Ted Brode from their unit for their efforts in it's behalf.

Mrs. Mary Alice Hoak's second grade presented the Founders Day program. Each letter of the program being represented by a child who in turn gave its definition in Parent Teacher work. The members adjourned for birthday cake and coffee.

But he's proud, anyway. The one he has measures 10 inches in circumference.

THE HOME SHIFT

Young People, New Outlooks

By MILDRED SWIFT

There's one thing sure and certain, there's no lack of imagination in our young generation. This showed up in the type snow men built last week. There was an excellent likeness of a grandmother with her spectacles and shawl over her head.

The old witch was in another yard, with her tall hat and astride her broom. There was one marked "teacher" and believe me she had a long nose and big ears. One fellow was quite obliging, thinking we'd not be able to determine whether his handiwork was masculine or feminine, so he put the name on a placard, "Herman."

One little sweet voiced fellow called to know if I could give him the recipe for snow ice cream. The snow is definitely for the children, even though this grandma enjoyed the snow ice cream, too.

FREEZE DAMAGE

Your gardeners are worrying about the damage done to plants in your gardens. Freezes do queer things. A plant never before touched by the cold can show up with severe freeze burn. An icy current of air can travel in a different strata level. One plant will suffer, one beside it remain untouched. So — I can only say what damage has been done in my own garden. All of this can not be determined for several weeks, yet.

Of course the open camellia blossoms are gone as well as buds showing color. Unopened buds should not be damaged. However, some may drop. This was a very wet freeze, though, which does not cause dehydration as the dry colds do. Some foliage may turn dark, later. If so, the plant will most likely lose this foliage. So — be sure to fertilize now and again six weeks from this date, to be sure there's plenty of food there to make leaves. Very large plants could stand some pruning. That information goes for azaleas, too.

You see now, why we recommend waiting until the last of February to prune roses. Freezing rains are not good for fresh open cuts on this plant. Of course you've lost the blooms from your bulbs, but those not blooming shouldn't have been touched at all.

A number of people have called in about split bark on azaleas, resulting from the earlier freezes. In every case this injury has been on the top limbs. It wasn't noticed until the limbs started dying. These limbs should be pruned beyond the dead area, best to cut back where the branch joins another.

Watch plants. Keep dead wood cut out. Fertilize. Spray. Prune when a plant begins to look sick This makes less foliage for the roots to support giving the plant a better chance to survive.

WISTERIA

Wisteria was named for Caspar Wistar and when this plant is in bloom in March, we know it is truly the queen of vines. It is time to plant wisteria now, and most any soil is suitable. We do notice that the year following a season of heavy rainfall, the plant blooms more profusely. From that we judge that wisteria likes plenty of moisture.

The wisteria will often grow to 100 feet and must have support. It takes over any trees nearby unless pruned. Pruning should be done soon after the plant blooms.

The vine drops a good many seed pods, but these, when planted, often fail to produce flowers for many years. One in my garden waited 14 years before putting on any blossoms. This is discouraging. Layered plants from flowering specimen make the best plants.

MORE JOBS

By March you should have your gladiolus bulbs ready to plant. Two new all-American winners are: Landmark and Little Pansy. Ask about them. The stores may have these. There are thousands of varieties for you to choose from. All glads on the market can be depended upon to have some merit. I've never seen an ugly glad bloom. Have you?

As soon as your roses begin to grow, the spray schedule should begin. Unless you are prepared to spray roses once a week, just don't try to grow them. Prune established roses now. Fertilize. Get our rose bulletin for complete instructions.

It's late to plant seed of the spring blooming annuals. It's best to buy plants, now. The seed store or nursery will only carry those that can be successfully transplanted.

NOT REAL

Ornamental foliage plants are popular in both home and commercial establishments. Often the owner lacks time to care for plants, though. Sometime there's insufficient light so that presents a problem.

For above reasons there's lots of interest in plastic plants, which can be purchased from the rosettes to the six foot plants. They so closely resemble real plants that many people need a second look to be sure about them.

Maintenance is simple with plastics. There is no watering, feeding, airing, pruning, dividing or repotting; no worry about insects or disease. They do need cleaning with a damp cloth from time to time. The foliage may be brightened with a wax cleaner or a push button spray. Reshaping is also needed, at times. The initial investment is more, but that's all. Plants should last several years. They are usually fadeproof and fireproof.

POLKA DOT SPRING

This promises to be a polka dot spring. Hurrah! There's nothing fresher, nothing so pert, not a print in this world so easy for all of us to wear as the polka dot.

But right now I'm thinking about perking up the winter wardrobe with springtime touches. Last year's spring suit can be brightened by adding a scarf of navy and white polka dot fabric. Add a bit of the same trim on the navy hat.

The little black dress is beginning to seem February drab. Choose white polka dots on flaming red for a cummerbund or stitch up a collar and cuffs of this — or ruffled polks dot edging around a plain neck line or for making a ruffled jabot.

Another idea — line your last year's spring coat with polka dot taffeta.

For the house, which perhaps could use a touch of spring, too. Why not consider a polka dot tablecloth for the breakfast nook and cafe curtains to match. No! It won't be spring until we see spots before our eyes — polka dot spots!

STAMP NEWS

The Falkland Islands, British colony in the South Atlantic about 480 miles northeast of Cape Horn, has released these stamps which also depict a portrait of Queen Elizabeth II and the St. Edward's Crown.

After difficult beginnings, the settlers, mostly Scottish (today more than 2,500), grew steadily more prosperous from the proceeds of their sheep herding until by 1885 the colony became entirely self - supporting. Today, claim the British, it is a land with no unemployment.

Postmaster Arthur E. Summerfield announces that a 4-cent "Famous American" stamp honoring Andrew Carnegie will be issued Nov. 25 in New York City. It will be similar in design to others in the series issued intermittently since 1940. The date of issuance coincides with the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Summerfield also announced that the 50-Star Flag stamp will be first placed on sale at Honolulu, Hawaii, on July 4. Details of this stamp will be given in this column as soon as they are received.

Minkus Publications has issued five new and up to date albums in their line of Individual Country Albums. Each space in the albums includes catalogue numbers. The new albums are Belguim and Colonies; Netherlands and Colonies; Japan; Panama, Colombia & Canal Zone; Tunisia, Libya & Morocco.

Austria has announced that, due to the increase in its postal rates starting Feb. 1, many new stamps will be issued. The first are part of the Austrian "Buildings" series. Included are a 1.40-schilling showing a building in Klagenfurt, 1.30-S depicting a hall in Tyrol, 3.40-S displaying Krems on the Danube, 4.00-S Hainburg, 5.50-S Feldkirch, 6.00-S Graz, 6.40-S Innsbruck.

If you collect United Nations stamps or are about to start such a collection, you can obtain an album for these issues for only 10 cents (to cover the cost of postage and handling). The pages are standard size, punched to fit any three-ring binder and contain spaces for all U. N. stamps up to and including 1959. The album also contains helpful tips on U.N. stamp collecting. Just write to U. N. Stamp Album, New York Stamp Exchange, 79 Wall Street, New York 5, N. Y. and enclose the dime.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Bird Pictures On Display

By MARY JARDINE

The National Council of State Garden Clubs has recommended garden clubs to have at least one program a year on birds. Through the courtesy of the Bastrop Garden Club, the Garden Center has been given a sizeable display of bird pictures, maps, and folders concerning birds. These are available on loan to garden clubs in the Fifth District. If you wish to use these props for your bird program be sure to make your reservation early. Other program helps are the long list of available slides in the January-February 1960 National Gardener, Mrs. Henry W. Powell, state program chairman, of the Louisiana Garden Club Federation, 1605 Charlton Drive, New Orleans has many program kits available to garden clubs. "Program Paterns" by Fay McWhorter Mayes is recommended by National Council. This may be ordered through the Garden Center. The Garden Center also has a list of speakers available in this area.

TWILIGHT CLUB

In the design division, Mrs. G. V. Williamson was awarded top score for her arrangement entitled "Fascinating Rhythm". The container, set on a round brown base, was of East Indian brass. Tall and slender of graceful proportions. Mrs. Williamson arranged eucalyptus foliage in a curved line following the form of the pitcher. The line was embellished with small bronze chrysanthemums. The combination of colors and textures was excellent. Suitable for a narrow table or chest.

WINDSWEPT CURVES

Mrs. Laverne Morgan created a colorful design featuring manzanita and daffodils. A manzanita branch with windswept curves was placed on a free - form base of wood finished in a natural tone. Mrs. Morgan arranged golden daffodils in a triangular pattern to follow the line of the branch. Coral was placed at the base to conceal the needle point holder. Title of this charming arrangement "It's Spring."

Mrs. Ocille Taylor arranged a "Camellia Tree." A white porcelain fruit compote held the tree-like design of Oasis, which was completely covered with brilliant red Professor Sargent camellias and self foliage. A truly unique way to display camellias.

The daffodils are blooming all over North Louisiana. Be sure to visit the gardens of your friends and make your selections for another year. The following varieties have been good "Repeaters" in our garden. Silver Star, Fortune, Carlton, Carbineer, Music Hall, Semper Avante, King Alfred, Unsurpassable and of course all the early old fashioned varieties.

Azaleas For Shaded Areas

By AUDREY DAWSON

If you have some trees for shade in your garden you will want a few azaleas. Partial shade is essential for small azalea plants and is beneficial to larger plants. The formosa is one of the easiest varieties of azaleas to grow. It grows fast and makes large plants and produces large purplish pink flowers. The Judge Solomon is a good pink sport of Formosa and Southern Charm is another pink sport of Formosa.

Pride of Mobile is another popular variety. The blooms of this variety are not as large as the Formosa nor does the plant grow quite as vigorous. This is a watermelon pink midseason variety.

If you need a white flower I suggest you get Fielders White. This variety produces large white blooms on medium low compact plants. The above varieties are known as Indica or Indian Azaleas.

Another group of azaleas known as the Kurumes varieties have smaller foliage and sometimes do not prove to be as hearty as the Indian. If you desire a red flower, I suggest you get Hinodegiri. This is a mid-season bloomer, flowers are brilliant red. The plant is low and bushy.

KITCHENS

A new cooking range with a portable timer — the homemaker can take the timer with her about the house and a buzzer reminds her when the food is cooked.

Homemakers will welcome a new control on the modern range which keeps food warm without overcooking. With the new dial control the oven can be set as low as 140 degrees. Previously, the lowest oven setting was about 250 degrees, but at this temperature food continues to cook. Lower oven temperatures with this control may be used to keep food warm until ready to serve or when guests arrive later. Also, homemakers will use these lower oven settings to thaw frozen foods quickly, warm bread and rolls, and heat leftovers like mashed potatoes.

TEXTILE LABELING

Mrs. Consumer you will be interested to know that beginning March 3 all products coming under the provisions of the Textile Labeling Act must be labeled or tagged with information relative to the name, contents, weight, name or registration number of manufacturer, county or origin (if imported) — all in English language. The main purpose of the new act is to protect the consumer by requiring truthful labeling and advertising of textiles.

COLOR TRENDS

The best selling color in furniture for 1960 is beige — and more beige. The tone is toward a yellowy beige rather than the pinky beiges in the past. Most furniture companies agreed that beige, ranging from off-white to beaver, accounts for 75 per cent of the sales. The all beige schemes will frequently be relieved by jewel tone colors in two chairs — peacock blue, lime green, lemon yellow or tangerine.

The blue and green combination of last year is still around; an olive green with clear sky blue. So are the citrus colors — orange, lemon and lime. Turquoise is on the way out. The color that's coming up faster from the bottom than any other in the mass produced is red. There are clear reds, siamese red (a purplish tone) and mandarin red (with an orangy cast.)

SEWING WORKSHOP

Sixteen homemakers from the Thrifty, Cheniere, Progressive and Cypress Home Demonstration Clubs made a garment in a workshop this week to get the newest information on the short cuts to sewing. The homemakers taking part were: Mrs. Jack T. Calvert, Cypress; Mrs. L. E. Douthit, Mrs. David Mahoney, Mrs. A. L. Wilbanks, Mrs. R. M. Lemoire, Mrs. George Harrell, Mrs. Milton C. Hall, Thrifty Homemakers; Mrs. Roy Simmons, Progressive; Mrs. Gwen Clark, Mrs. Lillie Street, Mrs. Gloria Greer, Mrs. Frances Carter, Mrs. Faye Lowery, Cheniere; Mrs. J. F. Monroe, 304 South College, Mrs. John A. Hummel Jr., 2509 North 11th, W. Monroe and Mrs. Fannie Whitten.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Flowers Meant Much To Her

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

In the death of Constance Spry, the gardening and flower arrangement world has suffered a great loss. This sprightly and energetic woman did two things in her lifetime: She taught people what to do with flowers, and she dug out of the past many fine old varieties and got them back into use again. When she would spy an old and forgotten variety in the great Covent Garden flower market, in London, she would buy it and order more. As a result of this, the older flowers began to come back into use again.

Mrs. Spry travelled widely on her lecture tours, spreading ideas about how to arrange and use flowers for all occasions. She was called upon by the royal family in England to "do the flowers" for many occasions including the coronation. She held a school of flower arrangement in London and had a shop in Audley Street.

One morning right after the war was over, I dropped in to see Constance Spry in her London shop. She was not there, but, in a moment, she burst into the shop with an armful of some unusual flowers and called everyone in earshot to see her new treasures. As we chatted about America and her trips over here, she frowned a little and said that, in one place, they had given her orchids to arrange when she really wanted just the beautiful weeds she could see out the window! I recalled that she had decorated President Roosevelt's roast with red roses and told her that some years before that occasion, I had been entertained in Vicksburg and that Mrs. Flowers' cook had decorated the roast lamb with Paul's Scarlet roses! So one of our southern flower arrangers had beat her to it. She went off into gales of laughter over this, and I realized at that moment how very much she was like the charming and delightful Billie Burke of the old films.

People remarked at Constance Spry's patience with other people's arrangements. She hated gaudy exhibitionism but was tolerant of an honest effort toward artistic expression — even if the effort failed. Flowers were not just so much "material" with her but something beautiful and alive. They excited her, and she responded by making the most of them.

Plan Layouts For Driveway, Walks, Trees

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Just because you have to spend many of your leisure hours indoors while winter winds howl is no reason to neglect your outdoor surroundings. While you are basking in the glow and warmth of your fireplace — or stove — is the best time to think about those new drives or walks you've been going to lay out to these many years.

You couldn't make a better start than to draw a plan of your home and garage and sketch in a walk or drive, as well as trees, shrubs and flower beds. A bit of graph paper will facilitate your efforts.

Your plan can be basic — one that may be carried out in short order if your pocketbook, time, strength and courage permit, or one that can be done piecemeal.

An important thing to remember is that you can erase a couple of lines more easily, quicker and less expensively than you can change the location of a shrub or tree.

The primary considerations in arranging your surroundings are utility, convenience and beauty. Put your prettiest features where they will be seen most often, by yourself if you please, or by visitors.

Then, of course, there is always the hope that your careful planning and success will encourage your neighbors to have more pride in their grounds.

If you are the average homeowner with the average small lot, don't put a walk where you really don't need it. If you, and visitors, park in the driveway, a broad walk from the street to the front door isn't necessary. The smaller the walk the more space for lawn or flowers. A larger lawn these days isn't much more care than a smaller one in the old days of hard-pushing mowers or handsickles. All it means is another swipe or two with the power mower.

Driveways should have a minimum base of 18 inches of crushed rock or coarse gravel. Your walk also should have a substantial base.

One of our gardening friends compares a lawn to the living room rug. He says the lawn is the setting or foundation for flowers, shrubs and trees, with the house as the center of interest. A big house should have a correspondingly large lawn.

Avoid steep terraces if possible. Such slopes are difficult to mow. Deep depressions or sharp irregularities also make grounds hard to maintain in good appearance. We'll grant that it is hard to grade a lawn that has large or old trees because of possible injury or exposure to roots.

Plant shelter or windbreak trees if your house is exposed to wind and snow. Recommended are evergreens, such as spruce, pine and cedar. But don't obstruct your window - view or plant so close to a building that roots may damage foundation or pipes.

Shrubs should be so placed as to tie the buildings and grounds together. They should soften the angles of the home, particularly at the entrances and corners. For color, plant flowers between and in front of such shrubs.

New Carillon Tops Original

SELLERSVILLE, Pa. (UPI) — The modern electric carillon, invented just 25 years ago, is sounding beyond the musical boundaries of its original religious purpose to an internationally responsive audience.

Some 6,000 carillons have been installed throughout the world. They are played at Vatican City, Arlington National Cemetery, Father Flanagan's Boys' Town, churches, banks, insurance companies and even in Michigan State Prison.

It all began in 1934 in the basement of the home of George Schulmerich, who was in the radio business at the time.

Schulmerich was intrigued with the large bronze cast bells which have pealed religious anthems from hundreds of European church towers for centuries. What troubled Schulmerich was the fact that these bells weighed thousands of pounds — up to 220,000 pounds, in fact — and playing them required the strength of a burley carillonneur.

Schulmerich believed there was an easier way, and his basement experiments led to the development of the electronic carillon. Its principle, achieved only after many months of research, is simple.

Rod Spared In Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Superintendent John W. McFarland said only about one per cent of Houston's 170,000 public school students ever require any form of disciplinary action for serious breaches of in-school conduct.

"We strive for discipline that is preventive rather than corrective," MacFarland said.

"We emphasize that it is part of the teacher's training to learn to handle discipline and ways of coping with difficulties before these difficulties become critical."

FOYLES

Book Boom Had Strange Start

By MARIS ROSS
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — Fifty-seven years ago, two brothers, William and Gilbert Foyle, flunked exams for a civil service career.

That initial failure started them on a road to success that has resulted in what may well be the world's greatest bookstore, known from London to Louisiana simply as "Foyles."

The Foyles' book business got started in their mother's kitchen when they began selling the textbooks that had failed to prevent them from flunking their tests.

Business grew as the Foyles began buying and selling more books and their trade outgrew the kitchen. Today, in London's book center of Charing Cross Road, Foyles spills over through two buildings — with some four million books, old and new, in stock.

Volumes dating back to the 15th century help fill the 30 miles of shelves with books of every topic.

Sections of books run the gamut of subjects from freemasonry to needlework, but for collectors the real treasure - ground of Foyles is the rare book section.

The oldest book on sale right now is "Astesanus de Ast," written in Latin about 1479. The price is a relatively modest $350. But it is not unusual at Foyles to have collectors vying for old finds at prices ranging up to $2,000 and more.

The walls in Foyles' two rambling buildings are hidden completely by books. With the treaties on freemasonry, needlework — and birds and fishing — are learned reports on nuclear power. Or the complete leather-bound editions of "The Gentlemen's Magazine" from 1733 to 1802.

Lack of space is an increasing problem for Foyles in its present quarters. When William and Gilbert made their first move out of their Mother's kitchen, it was to a small East-End shop where the rent was the equivalent of 70 cents a week. Continued growth brought the store to its present headquarters and the place is practically bursting at the seams.

The basement is piled high with books, new, old and ancient. Foyles buys an average 20,000 second hand books a week from libraries and private owners. When whole collections are bought, the best books are culled out, the rest sold in bulk to paper mills.

Lillian Manning, the firm's buyer, who says she was "brought up among books," checks the incoming books for collectors' items and catalogues and prices the worthy ones. The rest go out.

William Foyle at 75 still controls the organization, and his daughter, Christina, helps direct it. Gilbert Foyle withdrew as a director of the firm in 1956 and now lives in retirement in Sussex. The firm sells about $5,600,000 worth of books each year and an average 5,000,000 books.

Prospective customers are made so welcome at Foyles that students go there during their lunch breaks to lap up knowledge undisturbed and at no cost. Celebrities and noted writers are no strangers among the browsers.

Mealtime With Baby Important

NEW YORK (UPI)—When it comes meal-time, there's war or peace—all depending on how you approach the feeding chore.

The road to peace usually is guaranteed if you pay attention to the following tips.

Take It Easy: Baby likes meals on time, but likes time to savor foods. He likes to think that the eating business is something he is doing voluntarily and at his own rate of speed.

Not Too Hot, Please: The tykes go for moderation in temperature as in seasonings. Extremes of heat—or cold—can turn them against an otherwise acceptable food.

Eating Comfort: The lap-fed infant should be firmly yet comfortably supported in a slightly more upright position than in breast or bottle feeding. The older child needs a high chair.

Small Servings: A heaped plate dims the appetite. Small servings, meanwhile, encourage a child to come back for "seconds." The nursery school plan, followed by many mothers, lets children help themselves to more food from easily accessible serving dishes.

Spooning: First solids are fed from the tip of a small spoon. Place food well back on baby's tongue to overcome his tendency to suck the food from the spoon. As baby progresses, give him the spoon. Let him try to use it—even if he makes a mess of things. Through trying and watching, he will learn.

New Foods and Diplomacy: Acceptance of a new food depends a lot on the way it is offered. New foods are best introduced in small amounts at the start of a meal. A smile with each spoonful helps. Refusal of a new food doesn't mean a great dislike. It just shows that the child is being cautious about something that is strange.

Helpful Tools: Junior eaters need junior-sized silver. Forks about the size of an adult's salad fork are handy. So are short, straight-handled spoons with shallow round bowls. Unbreakable plastic dishes in bright colors also help to perk up interest in mealtime.

Color and Variety: Babies and toddlers respond to color in foods, too. Offer foods in interesting variety with some contrast in color, texture, flavor. For toddlers, complement soft foods with some that are crisp or firm.

WITH RECENT MOVE

Reds May Have West In Trap

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union appears to have caught the Western Allies in a damaging trap with its latest move aimed at building up Communist East Germany and destroying an independent West Berlin.

The United States, Britain and France reportedly see no way out of the diplomatic snare which does not represent some retreat or symbolic weakening of their position in Germany. The choice they have is the choice of the lesser evil.

The alternatives the Soviets have given them in practical terms is this:

1. To let some of their military officers in Germany use passes for travel into East Germany which would imply a degree of recognition of the German Communist government; or—

2. To scrap the system of military missions, now more than a dozen years old, by which the Big Four powers maintain liaison among their occupation headquarters in Germany and keep some check on what is happening in each others' areas.

The United States, Britain and France are understood to have agreed at least tentatively in the last few days on what they will do: If the Soviets will not abandon the new form of the pass they will abandon their own military mission arrangement with the Soviet missions from U. S. headquarters at Frankfurt, French headquarters at Baden-Baden and the British center, Muenchen-Gladbach.

Texas Demos Ignore Boom For Johnson

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Democrats of Texas clubs—DOT—Saturday ignored the presidential nomination boom for Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) and pledged support to party candidates "whoever they may be."

The clubs are made up of Democrats who favored Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson when the Texas Democratic Executive Committee broke with the party and supported Dwight D. Eisenhower. DOT members generally are considered liberals and prolabor, although some support the group on ground of party loyalty.

A resolution adopted at the fourth annual meeting of the DOT did mention Johnson by name but declared that the party must not be diverted by "mere intraparty contention for the presidential nomination."

The 300 DOT members also endorsed Mrs. R. D. Randolph, their state chairman, for renomination as national Democratic committeewoman from Texas.

Film, Video Star Slates Showing Here

The stage play, "Dark at the Top of the Stairs," will come to Monroe on March 5 for a one-night appearance under sponsorship of the Northeast State Concerts Association. Curtain time is scheduled at 8:15 p.m. at Neville High School Auditorium.

Inge burst onto the Broadway scene with "Come Back, Little Sheba" and two seasons later won the Pulitzer Prize for "Picnic." Then followed "Bus Stop" and now his current show which Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times calls "Inge's finest play."

An air of success has surrounded the play ever since it came from the typewriter. Elia Kazan, director of such hits as "Streetcar Named Desire," "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" and last season's Pulitzer Prize production, "J.B.," dropped work on another stage work when he read the first draft of the Inge comedy.

STUDIOS VIE

Movie studios began to vie for the production before it opened out of town, and Warner Brothers walked off with the property. The morning after the New York opening, a line of two abreast waited in a heavy snow storm to buy tickets for New York's newest hit. The critics unanimously hailed "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs" Inge's best play.

Joan Blondell was the playwright's personal choice for the role of Lottie Lacey, a brilliantly written character whose inner unhappiness is glossed over by a good-natured disguise. This is the pattern set by Inge throughout the comedy and brought to stunning life by Kazan's direction.

For Miss Blondell this tour marks a return to some cities she played years ago. At the age of five she became a member of her father's famous troupe, Ed Blondell and Company. From vaudeville she went to Hollywood, where she built an enviable reputation as an actress. Twice she was nominated for an Academy Award for her roles in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" and "The Blue Veil." Her most recent films include "Lizzie," "The Opposite Sex" and "Desk Set."

At the conclusion of the current tour in "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs" Miss Blondell is scheduled to star in her own television series.

Police Blotter

ARRESTED

Monroe police yesterday reported the arrest of Marshall Jarallas, 34-year-old Negro of 206 Morton street, Monroe, on charges of simple assault and criminal trespassing.

Bond was set at $500, officers said.

CHARGED

A Maplewood, La., man was charged here last night with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, reckless driving and disturbing the peace.

Monroe police identified the man as Dewey V. Tyler, 32, of 335 Parish Road, Maplewood. Bond was set at $500, officers said.

Third Possible Candidate Seen In Mayor's Race

He had been asked to enter the race, he stated, by a large number of friends and acquaintances, but at the present time was "too surprised to decide" whether or not to run.

If the minister decides to run, he will be the third to announce publicly for the mayor's race.

The present mayor, W. L. (Jack) Howard, has stated he definitely plans to campaign, and former police chief M. L. Peters also indicated he plans to run.

Injuries Fatal To Crash Victim Wilson Del Rio

Wilson Del Rio, 25-year old Jonesboro man who was critically injured in an auto crash on Feb. 7, died yesterday about 8 p.m. in Conway hospital. He had not regained consciousness since the crash.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete last night, but will be under the direction of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home of Monroe.

Del Rio was one of four persons injured in the crash which happened near the Ebenezer community when the auto, driven by a brother of Del Rio, failed to make a curve and plunged off the highway.

The other three injured persons in the car were also hospitalized but are no longer in critical condition.

Auto Wreck Brings Death To W.M. Man

Injured fatally was James Henry Scoggins, 50, 1321 North 6th Street, West Monroe, who was employed by United Auto Sales of West Monroe. State troopers investigating the accident said a school bus carrying 32 Adams County children had stopped to discharge passengers when a car ahead of Mr. Scoggins slowed to avoid passing the school bus. Both the car driven by Mr. Scoggins and the one ahead of him were towing additional cars. The accident occurred when Mr. Scoggins's car smashed into the empty vehicle in front of him. There were no other injuries.

Funeral services were scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday at Hixson Brothers Chapel in Monroe with the Rev. Filer J. Seal officiating. Interment will be in the Twin Cities Memorial Gardens, in West Monroe.

Mr. Scoggins is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ruth A. Scoggins; four daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Jowers, Mrs. Lottie Mae Garr, Mrs. Clemmie Lee Wainwright, Mrs. Marilyn Coates, all of West Monroe; two brothers, Odel Scoggins, Shreveport, Henry Scoggins, England AFB, Alexandria; four sisters, Mrs. Loura Wiley, Mrs. Helen Mireson, Mrs. Myrtle Mireson, Mrs. Bertha Copes, all of Shreveport; parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Scoggins, Shreveport; several grandchildren.

'Bramble Bush' Daring Picture

With "The Bramble Bush" Warner Bros. has undertaken a daring screen project and one rife with controversy and certain to evoke as much world-wide interest and astonishment as any film of the past decade.

It is based on the novel by Charles Mergendahl, which in itself was a monument of literary controversy and which aroused comment and lifted eyebrows from Cape Cod to Baja California. The film is a Milton Sperling United States Pictures production, and starts today at the Paramount Theatre.

"The Bramble Bush" cast is headlined by Richard Burton, Barbara Rush, Jack Carson, Angie Dickinson, James Dunn, Henry Jones and Tom Drake. It was directed in Technicolor by Daniel Petrie, motion picture stage and television director, who is making his directorial film debut with this picture.

The picture deals straight for weeks with the scandals of a small Cape Cod town. The more controversial aspects of the story have been treated by director Petrie for their narrative value only and not for sensationalism.

Richard Burton, the rugged Welshman, who won wide fame for his performance several years ago in "The Robe," returns to Hollywood for his first film here in three years. It is also the first time he has portrayed an American on the screen, "and," he says, "practically the first time I have ever been out of a period costume."

Twice nominated for the Academy Award—once for "The Robe" and once for "My Cousin Rachel"— Burton is a highly regarded actor in all mediums, including the stage, television and motion pictures. His last Broadway appearance was in "A Time Remembered" with Helen Hayes and Susan Strasberg; he was drama was recently noted effectively in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

His role in "The Bramble Bush" is that of a brash lawyer who is sucking for district attorney and who successfully defends Burton in the mercy-killing case. One reasen he stopped being an every-picture comic, Carson reports, is that his children "didn't like me making faces on the screen."

With her smashing success as Feathers in "Rio Bravo," Angie Dickinson was shifted quickly by Warner Bros. into "The Bramble Bush" as Fran, the bewitching nurse who has two men — Burton and Carson — in her life. Both Fran and the role are bursting with drama and sex, and Angie's future as a star is assured.

His first film role in 11 years is played by James Dunn, the likeable Irishman, who won an Academy Award for "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," and who was in all those early Shirley Temple pictures. Dunn plays the town drunk in "The Bramble Bush," and more than that, the man who is responsible for much of Burton's emotional distress.

Jack Carson, at one time a talented fixture at Warner Bros., returns to the lot in a straight dramatic role — the kind, he says, he wanted to do "during all my 11 years as a Warner comedian." Jack's adaptability to

"THE BRAMBLE BUSH" stars Angie Dickinson, Richard Burton, and Barbara Rush and is a Technicolor expose of a prim New England town and its people. The picture opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

HERMAN, a scene-stealing pigeon, adds to the hilarity of M-G-M's merry murder-mystery "The Gazebo," film version of the Broadway stage hit, which is now showing at the Jim Theatre. The picture co-stars Glenn Ford and Debbie Reynolds for the second time, and also has TV's popular Carl Reiner.

Little Theater

Everyone is still bubbling over about the beautiful set and the wonderful performances I truly believe you could say it was a Little Theatre "First", to say the least! The large number of first nighters who braved the snow, and the faithful cast who truly believe "the show must go on", deserve an honorable mention. But it was worth it! Then, too, it was king of unusual to view the beautiful set, the scene being a walled garden and patio on Long Island, in September, and look up to see snow drifting down. We are not getting a new theatre before it is needed! Hats off to Ivan for a wonderful, wonderful production, and to the gallant cast for their performances.

We hear that the Gallery Circle Theatre in New Orleans, of which Stocker Fontilieu is director, is doing "The Gazebo", as is the Shreveport Little Theatre.

TRYOUTS

There is always a large crowd of onlookers and participants at our tryouts for musical comedies. We are looking forward to an even larger crowd than in the past years because of the wonderful musical we are attempting to produce, "Guys and Dolls". So everybody be there! It's a lot of fun! As in the past, tryouts will be held on three nights, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 22nd, 23rd, and 24th. The singing and dancing and the third night to acting. Sheet music is not necessary for you singers. As for attire, girls should bring shorts, and the men should wear blue jeans and tennis shoes, or something similar. And men, you need not have ever danced or sung before! Come on out. You may have a hidden talent! As we have said before, your attendance is needed for all three nights. Tryouts will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. each evening.

There are forty to fifty parts in the show, with about twenty speaking parts. There are even non-speaking, non-dancing and non-singing parts. So, you see, there seems to be a part for everyone.

The characters who come out of Runyonland are a scintillating composite of all the broadway characters you have ever seen. Damon Runyon's "Angie the Ox", "Big Julie," "Harry the Horse," "Scranton Slim," "Sky Masterson", "Nicely Nicely Johnson" are just a few of these wonderful characters. Then, of course, there is the delightful "Miss Adelaide and her hot box dolls". Sarah Brown and her Salvation Army group are a part of this broadway delight.

I know you remember some of the wonderful music from the show — "Bushel and a Peck", "If I Were A Bell", "My Time of Day", "Luck Be A Lady", "Sit Down-You're Rockin the Boat", to mention a few. None of you will want to miss being in this show. Let's let down our hair, have fun, and come out Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Part of the staff for this production has already been assembled and are in the planning stages now. Choreographer will be Pat Whatley. Musical and choral director will be Loydell Birdsong. Musical conductor will be our ever faithful and ever popular "Slick" Lawson. As to imaginative set design, we are leaving that up to Dick Grider, John Hogan, Katharine McGruder, and Jim Nuckles. Costumes will be handled by the ever dependable Violet Holland of Bastrop. We need many more people on the costume committee. Anyone who can, serve, please volunteer. We need you and would love to have you!

We will see you at tryouts.

AT JIM THEATRE

'The Gazebo' Stars Ford And Reynolds

Co - starred in "The Gazebo" is television's popular Carl Reiner, with leading supporting roles played by John McGiver, Mabel Albertson, Doro Merande, Bert Freed, Martin Landau, Robert Ellenstein, Richard Wessell — and "Herman," a pigeon, who is a scene stealer if there ever was one.

An Avon Production for MGM, the comedy was produced by Lawrence Weingarten, who produced "Cat On a Hot Tin Roof," one of last year's outstanding films; and was directed by George Marshall ("It Started with a Kiss" and "The Mating Game") from the screen play by George Wells. It is in Cinema-Scope.

Ford is seen as Elliott Nash, who has a successful career as one of television's top mystery writers; an adoring actress wife, Nell (Miss Reynolds); a charming home in Connecticut — and a dead man buried under his gazebo

What more perfect place to bury a body than under Nell's surprise gift for him, a wrought - iron garden house purportedly once used by George IV to daily with his mistresses?

This has been Elliott's frantic thought when he invited blackmailer Harry Shelby — who wanted $25,000 for some innocent but incriminating photographs of Elliott and a public stenographer — to his home after Nell had departed for the theatre. He hadn't been able to raise the money by selling the house despite his secret attempts to convince Nell that it was in bad shape by stuffing sponges down drains, joining plumbing pipes that shouldn't be joined and short - circuiting electrical connections. Murder, he had decided was the only way out.

He fired his gun at the shadowed figure that came toward him at the appointed time of meeting, then proceeded to bury the body on the spot where concrete for the gazebo's foundation was to be poured the following morning. Shortly after, Elliott learns that Harry Shelby has been murdered in a New York hotel room.

Who lies buried under the gazebo?

Before this comedy - of - errors is resolved, Elliott becomes frantically involved with the contractor who has put up the gazebo; Matilda, the nosey maid; a lady real estate agent and a couple who want to buy the house (and plan to move the gazebo!); two thugs and, most intimidating of all, his assistant district attorney friend (Carl Reiner) who is intrigued by the movements of two forms — Nell's and the one under the gazebo.

He Learns While He Earns

His FIRST Elected Office

When a fellow's own friends recognize him as a leader, he has really arrived. Yesterday, Jim was elected president of the Booster Club of his school. This is one of the highest honors a lad of his age could receive. It made him feel good when his favorite teacher said: "Jim, this is not an easy job, but I know you will handle it well. You have the qualities of an outstanding leader." Many of these qualities of leadership were developed by Jim on his newspaper route. As a young man with his own business, he had learned how to think for himself, as well as the importance of serving others well. Throughout the United States, Canada, and other free nations of the world, young men with newspaperboy experience are demonstrating the value of this fine training – and society is the benefactor.

Bad Weather Causes Letup Of Oil Operations In Area

Snow, rain, and cold which plagued the Monroe district during the past week, resulted in only trouble for the oil and gas companies. There were only two completions and seven new locations staked in the 14-parish Monroe district of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

Roads washed out, or snowed under, rigs frozen up, and generally bad weather throughout the week, were mainly responsible for many of the active rigs in the fields coming to a halt.

There were seven rigs that were shut down on account of the weather listed in the report received from the Monroe district office, and the total active rigs in the fields dropped to 19, the lowest figure in many weeks.

Also listed in the report, compiled by Duncan S. Cook, district manager, were two holes declared dry and abandoned.

Oyster Industry Facing Crisis, Alarm Sounded

BALTIMORE (AP)—The American oyster industry, founded here 125 years ago, is facing probably the biggest crisis in its checkered career. Oysters are hard to come by and the scarcity is putting a price on the consumer.

The latest alarm was sounded this week by Maryland's Gov. J. Millard Tawes. He said a mysterious fungus which killed 70 to 90 per cent of the oysters in Delaware Bay during 1957-59 may have spread to the Maryland portion of Chesapeake Bay.

Normal production for the American oyster industry recently has been about 11½ million bushels a year, with about one-half coming from Maryland and Virginia.

The Delaware Bay loss, coupled with prospective losses in Virginia and elsewhere, may slice this season's production to less than 9 million bushels.

Another area reporting trouble is Long Island sound, where borers and oyster-eating starfish have invaded oyster farms and cut watermen's income by one tenth.

Two other major oyster-producing areas still unaffected by such bivalve enemies are Louisiana, which annually produces about 2½ million bushels, and Washington State, which produces about 1,300,000 bushels.

Cotton Moves In Generally Narrow Range

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures moved in a generally narrow range this week, closing unchanged to $1.30 a bale lower.

Nearby May was the only month which failed to lose ground in a week which lacked developments of sufficient importance to sway trading sentiments either way. Routine mills price fixing and short covering bolstered prices and offerings were furnished through light spot house selling.

The Census Bureau on Friday announced that domestic use of cotton came to about 735,000 bales during the four-week period from Jan. 3 to 30, which was slightly less than an earlier estimate of 760,000 bales made by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau. Mills used 800,000 bales in the preceding five-week period and 690,000 bales in the similar 1959 period.

The daily consumption rate in January averaged 36,700 bales compared with 32,000 bales in December and 34,500 bales in January, 1959. The trade noted that January was the 16th successive month in which the daily rate was higher than in the same month a year earlier. Although the percentage increase, in the daily rate from December, 1959, to January, of this year was not so pronounced as a year ago, it was somewhat better than the average for the past five seasons.

Based on estimated exports through January of 2,850,000 bales, total distribution by this country for the past six months of the current season came to about 7,417,000 bales compared with 5,651,000 in the first half of last season. Consumption was leading that of a year earlier by 352,000 bales, while estimated exports were up 1,414,000 bales.

Experts in the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 312,000 bales compared with 159,000 a week ago and 79,000 bales a year ago. For the season through Feb. 16 exports were pegged at at least 3,303,000 bales compared with 1,555,000 bales a year ago.

Rallies Scarce As Grain Shows In Loss Column

CHICAGO (AP)—Rallies were scarce and short lived in the grain futures market this week and nearly all contracts showed net losses.

Rye was the major exception, showing small to moderate gains on all deliveries. Corn and soybeans with the steepest losses ended the week again near their lows for the season. At one time during the week, March, May and July soybeans were at or below their previous minimum prices.

Corn was within a cent or so of its low on all months. Setbacks in that grain and soybeans ranged out to more than 1½ cents in spots. However, soybeans closed with some recovery posted while corn was near the bottom for the week.

At the end of the week, wheat was ⅛ cent a bushel higher to 1 cent lower, March $1.99⅞; corn ⅛-1¾ lower, March $1.12⅛; oats 1¼ lower to ¼ higher, March 73⅜-½; rye: unchanged to 1⅛ higher, March $1.25; soybeans ⅛-1⅜ lower, March $2.12⅛-⅜.

McComb Oil Field Lists New Wells

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The McComb oil field in Pike County listed five new oil wells during the week, bringing the total producers to 36.

Sun Oil Co. and J. Willis Hughes completed the Schmidt No. 1, sec. 10-3n-7e. It flowed 295 barrels daily from a sand at 10,908-14 feet. Sun and Hughes completed the Carroll No. 1, sec. 14-3n-7e. It flowed 298 barrels daily from a sand at 10,897,907-feet.

Lyle Cashion Co. completed the Glass No. 1, sec. 15-3n-7e. It flowed 318 barrels daily from a sand at 10,900-19 feet. Dorris Ballew completed the Smith No. 1, sec. 9-3n-7e. It flowed 301 barrels daily from a sand at 10,940-60 feet. Calto Oil Co. completed the Holmes No. 1, sec. 4-3n-7e. It flowed 264 barrels daily from a sand at 10,960-80 feet.

The State Oil and Gas Board has set the daily oil allowable for the McComb field at 150 barrels of oil per well per day, effective March 1. The board also scheduled a field wide bottom hole pressure survey next month.

In Amite County, about six miles southwest of the McComb field, Camellian Oil Co. abandoned a wildcat, the Carter No. 1, sec. 1-2n-6e. The venture logged oil shows of uncommercial worth at 11,191 feet.

Two other wildcat tests are underway in Amite County. Lagrange Petroleum Co. is drilling below 11,000 feet in the Hutchinson-Cleveland No. 1, sec. 21-3n-6w, and Larco Drilling Co. is at 10,180 feet in the USA No. 1-A, sec. 15-4n-2e.

In Clarke County, Broadhead and Stack are preparing to test a wildcat, the Longbell No. 1, sec. 10-2n-16e, to evaluate commercial worth of oil sands.

McLean and Hill have completed the Monroe County wildcat. The well is pumping from perforations at 2,563-67 feet at 34 barrels per day. Gravity of the crude checked 20 degrees.

In Wayne County, Lyle Cashion Co. is drilling below 9,600 feet in a wildcat, the Jarrett No. 1, sec. 27-10n-6w. Contract depth is 12,000 feet with asphaltic shows at 8,735 feet.

In Jones County, Amerada Petroleum Co. is drilling below 12,600 feet in a wildcat, the Addison No. 1, sec. 34-7n-11w. Contract depth is 13,500.

Callon and Callon completed the USA No. 1-F, sec. 36-5n-1w, located in the West Deerfield Field. The new oiler flowed 96 barrels per day from perforations at 4,245-48 feet.

In the Maxie Field of Forrest County, Ohio completed the SE-23, sec. 4-1s-12w. It flowed 2,513,000 cubic feet of gas per day from a sand at 8,294-8,302.

New Hearing Set During Payola Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—House investigators ordered two big government agencies Saturday to report early next month on what steps they have taken to stamp out payola.

Shifting the spotlight from disc jockeys and record companies, the probers scheduled new hearings for March 3-4 to hear from the Federal Communications Commission and the Federal Trade Commission.

The announcement by Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) of the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee shed little additional light on the group's future plans. Harris said merely that the FCC and the FTC will testify on "their actions and activities to date on payola."

The last time officials of these agencies appeared before the subcommittee last autumn, they were sharply criticized for not cracking down on the rigging of television quiz shows. This time they can point to steps, some far-reaching, they have taken against payola.

The FCC, which regulates the broadcasting industry, has asked each radio and TV station in the country to report whether its personnel have been involved in payola, or undercover payments for plugging records.

And the FTC which polices the trade industries, has filed complaints against more than two score record distributors and manufacturers accusing them of payola practices

Stock Mart Rebounds From Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's prolonged 1950 decline reached a selling climax this week and prices rebounded vigorously from their lowest levels in more than a year.

The long-awaited shakeout occurred Wednesday when stocks were battered down under intense selling pressure accompanied by a late ticker tape. The rebound got under way with the tape still late. Toward the end of the day a renewed buying drive, again accompanied by a late ticker tape, achieved the first of three days of rising prices.

Wall Streeters attributed the climax to technical rasons rather than to news. As pessimism reached its depths early Wednesday, many traders and investors dumped stocks at prices attractive to those on the sidelines with cash in hand waiting for "bargains."

The stock market declined sharply Monday and Tuesday. In the crucial Wednesday session volume soared to 4,210,000 shares, the biggest since May 9, 1959.

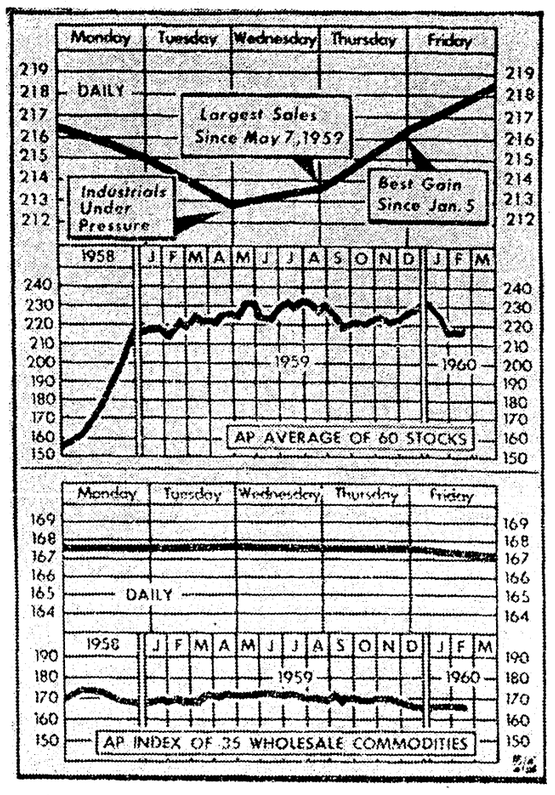
Turnover for the week rose to 17,290,350 shares from 13,483,960 the week before and was the biggest since the week ended Jan. 16 when volume was 17,680,696 shares.

Gainers outnumbered losers by 749 to 495. New 1959-'60 lows totaled 174 and new highs 21.

Most active issues on the New York Stock Exchange was Studebaker-Packard (when-issued), unchanged at 12⅝ on 575,900 shares. Most active on the American Stock Exchange was Siboney-Caribbean Petroleum, unchanged at ⅜ on 169,700 shares.

The vigorous rebound of the stock market brought an abrupt end to a six-week rally of U.S. government bonds. Corporate bonds continued to edge higher on balance but the tone was anything but firm.

The government bond rally saw both intermediate and long range issues improve almost four points from record lows around the first of the year. The rally blossomed during last month and a half as investors, seeking a safer haven for their funds, crossed over from stocks to bonds. A reverse tide of investors switching from bonds back into stocks became evident this week.



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks advanced sharply to 218.5 from 216.4 a week ago. Led by industrials, the commodity index moved lower to 167.1 from 167.6 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

ANTI-TRUST SUIT

Oil Executives Eye Tulsa Victory

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Oil executives believe their anti-trust suit victory at Tulsa was a victory for business in general.

They believe even professional men such as doctors may benefit from the broad ruling which federal Judge Royce H. Savage acquitted 29 oil companies of price fixing conspiracy charges.

The reasoning behind such thinking in the ruling possibly will prompt the Justice Department to proceed more cautiously before filing similar actions in the future.

Oilmen do not question the government's authority and responsibility to act in anti-trust matters. But they believe a number of actions against oil and other industries have been filed hastily and without adequate study of all factors involved.

One executive surveyed possible effects of the Tulsa ruling and said: "Protection is one thing but harrassment is quite another."

He said the circumstances of the Tulsa case should prompt officials of all industries to take a more active interest in governmental affairs — and politics.

An official of one company had this reaction:

"This may retard efforts to put undue restrictions, regulations, and controls on business, actions that are costly and injurious to the whole economy."

Augustus C. Long, board chairman of Texaco Inc., expressed hope the Tulsa decision of Feb. 13, will cause the government to "proceed in a more responsible manner before placing such unwarranted criminal charges in the future."

But they say the victory was very costly.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars were spent while preparing a defense that was not needed in court.

Also, the industry fears it has suffered inestimable damage from adverse publicity ever since an Alexandria, Va., federal grand jury returned an indictment against the 29 companies on May 29, 1958.

On one score, the time element, the oilmen feel they were lucky. Based on some of the government suits of the past, they feared the legal maneuvering over the 29-company indictment might continue several years. They feared the Tulsa trial might list from two to six months.

Federal attorneys had accused the two companies and four subsidiaries of overcharging the government $66,021,257 for Middle East oil purchased in 1951-1952 and resold to foreign countries under the Marshall Plan.

Last Aug. 19 the U.S. Court of Appeals in New York City held that the prices financed by the economic cooperation administration "were in fact the lowest competitive market prices."

The ruling upholding a lower court's dismissal of the case came just three days short of the seventh anniversary of the indictment.

Richmond, Va. Area Marked By Sitdown

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Roaming bands of Negro students, protesting segregated food service, staged sitdown demonstrations throughout the downtown Richmond area Saturday.

Three stores suspended operations, eating facilities were closed in at least four others and two white boys were taken home by police after firing paper clips into crowds.

No violence occurred although bands of white youths—some carrying Confederate flags and wearing Confederate hats—followed the Negroes. Several of the whites, accused of making remarks, were asked to leave some of the stores.

In Norfolk and Portsmouth on Virginia's seacoast Negroes occupied counter space in variety stores. The S. S. Kresge Co. store in Norfolk closed almost immediately, while the demonstration at Portsmouth's F. W. Woolworth store broke up in about half an hour.

Contract Time In Oil Nears

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wage contract time in the oil industry is in the offing, and President O. A. (Jack) Knight of the AFL-CIO Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union already is charting his strategy.

For the first time in the union's history the national bargaining policy committee will be composed of delegates chosen by the union's rank-and-file. This is in line with constitutional changes voted at the last OCAW convention and replaces a committee consisting of top union officers and district leaders.

Under the new procedure, all of the union's oil bargaining units will elect two delegates to five union area bargaining conferences not later than March 1. These delegates in turn will elect two delegates from each of the five areas to compose the national bargaining committee of 19.

The committee will be convened after the area sessions to draft what Knight called a "coordinated collective bargaining program." But this program cannot become the union's established policy unless at least 75 per cent of its locals ratify it.

This guarantees the rank-and-file the right to vote it up or down in contrast to past procedure when the old committee decided on what it thought the membership wanted and went on from there.

Knight has asked that each area meeting be held on different dates so that international officers can be on hand, presumably to give advice, make suggestions, or define for the members the various problems to be hurdled.

Tentatively, Knight plans to hold the area conferences in Washington, D.C., Chicago, Kansas City, Houston or Dallas, and Salt Lake City.

One of Knight's key goals is a contract clause that will protect men replaced by machines. Another is to maintain gains won over the past 25 years.

At its Cleveland convention last fall, the union voted to set up a separate war chest, independent of union strike-fund assessments, in preparation for this year's negotiations. Contributions are voluntary but every union is contributing. Knight may have a sizeable pot to back him up when showdown time comes.

LATER THAN YOU THINK

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — Postmaster Fred Brewer was puzzled when he received a telephone call from a man who wanted to put in his bid to carry the mail on the star routes to Masonville, Pinewood and Drake.

Finally, Brewer had the answer. The man was a half century too late. The Loveland Reporter-Herald had reprinted an advertisement in the paper's column, "50 Years Ago in Loveland."

NO SPANK

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Carlton Coleman, a blind veteran, says he finds only one fault with a leader dog furnished him by the Veterans Administration.

DON'T TRY TO IMPRESS YOUR PASSENGERS WITH YOUR SPEED AND DARING. THEY WON'T ENJOY THE TRIP AND IT CAN LEAD TO INJURY OR DEATH.

ALMOST FOUR YEARS. WE'VE HAD A WONDERFUL RECEPTION HERE ON THE MAINLAND.
WE WERE ALL SO HAPPY TILL THIS HAPPENED.
YOU'RE MAMO AND SHE IS—
I'M PALA. WE'RE BOTH FROM HILO.
HE WAS SO KIND AND THOUGHTFUL. WHY ANYONE WOULD WANT TO HURT HIM—
LET'S RETURN TO THE OFFICE. I'D LIKE TO TALK FURTHER WITH THE GIRLS.
IT IS NOT CUSTOMARY. PALA AND I COULD NOT UNDERSTAND WHY HE DID IT.
HE HAD NO EXPLANATION. HE WOULD JUST SHRUG WHEN WE ASKED HIM.
MAMO, THIS APPEARS TO BE CARVED FROM SOME MATERIAL—SOME VERY HEAVY MATERIAL.
HEY, TRACY!
